Removal of a Strawberry Birth-mark on a Baby

The American Cancer Society recently reported work by Drs. Thomas S. Walsh, Jr., and Victor N. Tomkins, of Albany, N.Y., who found that the type of strawberry birth-mark which appears on the surface of an infant's body, usually from one to six weeks after his birth, it tends to disappear after a few months. Bad ones which do not disappear quickly can often be helped to disappear by an application of dry ice. Larger growths can be cleared up to a considerable extent by tying the small artery which supplies the area with too much blood.

Alcohol and the Auto-driver

Recent studies have shown that when an average 150-pound man or woman takes even two bottles of 3.2 per cent beer, or two ounces of whiskey, the amount of alcohol in the blood is likely to be enough to impair the person's driving performance by some 35 per cent. Heavy smoking of tobacco, also, cuts down a bit on the acuteness of a man's vision, and this can add to his danger. I recently read where a man who had been celebrating a bit on New Year's Eve drove through a stop light and across a road into an obstruction which any sober driver could have avoided with the greatest ease. How awful it must have been to sober up, and find that he had killed his wife who was sitting beside him!

New Observations on Sleep

We men and women are often so right when we say that for a while we were drowsing or half-asleep. Scientists have now measured several levels of sleepiness which range from a light drowsy state to a very deep sleep. Each level can be distinguished from the others by a characteristic pattern of the brain waves in the electroencephalograms. These minute electric waves are amplified to the point where they appear as waves that can be written on a moving ribbon of paper.

According to Dr. Charles W. Simon and William H. Emmons, of California, as we gradually drift off into sleep we go through a light drowsy state, a deeper drowsy state, and a still deeper drowsy state; then we go through light sleep, deep sleep, and finally, a very deep sleep. Each one of these stages can be identified by a different pattern of brain waves.

University Oddities Recall First School

Philadelphia—(U.P.)—Some of the oddities of the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, America's first collegiate business school, recalled on the occasion of its 75th anniversary.

The school, the largest of the 19 making up the 216-year-old university founded by Benjamin Franklin, is a Philadelphia institution but runs a school in Pakistan, has students from 30 countries and one of its original graduates was Japanese.

It's a secular school but it's first dean was a preacher, the Rev. Robert E. Thompson.

The institution draws students from every economic level. One owns a seat on the New York Stock Exchange, while some others, in a professor's words, "don't even have seats on the subway."

Wharton, whose founder stipulated the school must teach business morality, is a "business" school but does not teach typing and shorthand. Among its required subjects are sociology, literature and composition. Electives include Shakespeare, anthropology and philosophy.

Present charter of the United Nations consists of 111 articles.
