

This foursome was among the 200 women who attended the spring luncheon and fashion show given at Rogue Valley Country club Monday by Alpha Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority. Pictured are Mrs. Joseph Hok (at left), Mrs. C. E. Garrett, Mrs. Claude Potts, and Mrs. Wayne Wright (with back to camera). The women were seated near the fireplace in the new Crest room of the club. Decorations for the party were in the valentine theme and the branches on the wall hold miniature hats, red paper hearts and arrows. The party raised funds for a nursing scholarship which the sorority will award to a Medford High school girl graduating this spring.

These two appealing children were among those who modeled for the spring style show given at Rogue Valley Country club Monday by Alpha Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority. Joanne Morton is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Morton, and David Henselman is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Henselman. Both families live on Ardmore avenue.

Luncheon Honors Medford Women

Mrs. T. P. Barss and Mrs. Andrew Bulkley were honored at a luncheon and shower given Thursday at the home of Mrs. Elliott Harlow, 301 Ardmore avenue. Hostesses were Mrs. Harlow, Mrs. William Miller and Mrs. Thomas Bolton.

Decorations were in the combination stork and valentine theme, with red roses and white narcissi centering the luncheon tables. Twenty-five at ended.

To Arrive

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herbert Simmons of Mt. Kisco, N. Y., and Jonathan Butler of New York will arrive in Medford today from the east for a brief stay. They will be guests of Mrs. Simmons' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Ruhl, 2404 East Main street.

Mr. Butler is of the New York firm of architects, Rogers and Butler, which drew plans for the new Rogue Valley Memorial hospital now under construction.

First Spring Style Show Given by Sorority Chapter

More than 200 women gathered at Rogue Valley Country club last Monday for the first spring fashion show of the season. It was given by Alpha Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority, and the money will be used for the chapter's nursing scholarship fund.

The models, members of the chapter and their children, staged the show during the luncheon hour. Cards followed, with prizes awarded at each table. Mrs. Lawrence Allen, president of the chapter, welcomed the guests at the beginning of the show.

Mrs. James Tengesdal opened the show modeling a peignoir and she was followed by little Shannon McIntyre and Jeffrey Werner, with Shannon wearing a pink and white cotton party frock and Jeffrey a cotton sateen Ivy league suit.

Mrs. Dan Kidd and Mrs. Bob Norris appeared together wearing play clothes, and Mrs. Richard Riggs modeled a swim suit. Mrs. David Legg and small daughter, Carla, modeled matching mother and daughter dresses of spring blue cotton, and Mrs.

Mrs. Ray M. Morton appeared first in a blue and white silk faille by Sari worn with saucer hat with single white rose on top, and Mrs. William Singler wore a Madison original skirt and blouse, one of the four-one combinations. Miss Jan Barker modeled a Johnston of Dallas frock with a very full skirt unbuttoned down the back to show a ruffled polka dot undershirt.

Three little girls in full pale blue ensembles created a stir among the guests. They were Kathy, Janet and Susie Sullivan, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James Sullivan. Mrs. Robert McIntyre modeled a read and white Lanz original frock with tucked bodice and unpressed pleats, and Mrs. Wayne Giles appeared wearing a beige silk frock with detachable tweed cape, capes being a 1937 outstanding fashion note.

Little Joanne Morton and David Henselman appeared as a twosome, with Joanne wearing a pink cotton frock with little white hat and David a checked coat and short navy blue trousers.

Mrs. Donald Lue modeled a beige checked washable silk dress with orlon sweater lined with the silk, and Cheri Paulazzo, a daughter of Mrs. Darlene Paulazzo, modeled a black sleeveless cotton pique with striped jacket. Mrs. Harry Barker wore a Pilgrim grey ensemble with white straw chicoric hat, and Mrs. Ray True modeled a pure silk print in Navy blue.

Mrs. Gretchen Wade, a guest model, wore a tailored blue suit with short jacket. Mrs. James Chapman modeled a dinner gown of nylon organdy with enormous skirt and midriff draper of turquoise chiffon. A black lace and net gown was worn by Miss Shirley Bowlin to close the parade of models.

Clothing for the show was provided by Burelson's, Jean Hart, Buster Brown, Big Y Tot shop and Rath's. Mrs. William Tyce and Mrs. Richard Henselman were commentators. Music was provided by John Lusk and Mrs. Paul Dix.
