OUT OF THE WOODS by Jim Stevens

John T. Rogers was early on the scene of the "vast forest" that crowded down on the wilderness shore of Gardner Bay. A grove of huge, tall cedars, leaning over a fine anchorage for coasting lumber schooners, pointed to a particular opportunity in the San Francisco market that Lumberman Rogers had surveyed with an eye of experience.

The ever-booming California market promised an increasingly steady demand for low-cost cedar. The western red cedar of the North Pacific offered the best possible material for a manufacturing enterprise to meet this demand. Rogers set up a primitive operation at Port Gardner (Everett) before the rush started into the area — a movement inspired by the news of investments by John D. Rockefeller and the prospects of silver mining developments in the Monte Cristo district of the Cascades.

According to local history — perhaps seasoned with legend — John T. Rogers had 200 strong standard coffins of hand-sawn cedar stacked to ship to San Francisco when the rush began to Port Gardner Bay. It was blustery wet weather of late October. There was no shelter, outside an occasional big-tree hollow or the lee side of a windfall. There were plenty of men with money among the claim-stakers, and they were willing to pay high for any cover from the storms. Rogers saw an American opportunity shining through the rain whirls, and rose to meet it.

Lucky Bunks Each coffin of the 200 was tightly made of a material that was known to endure for centuries, even when buried in wet earth — the canoe cedar of the Indians. The lids were flanged and grooved for a secure fit on the sides. The product was roomy enough for a big man with blankets, and would keep him snug, warm and dry, under a closed lid.

Rogers found a first buyer, at a price double the going rate of coffins in San Francisco. The purchaser immediately prepared his new bunk between two trees, made his bed inside, crawled in and drew the lid. Within 24 hours Port Gardner's pioneer of enterprise in the timber had sold the last of his San Francisco shipment — a double the total amount he had hoped to receive in the California market. In the humor of the day, the settler called the 200 coffins "Rogers' Cemetery hotel."

Everett's real estate and industrial boom subsided in the nation-wide "Cleveland Panic" in 1893. John D. Rockefeller liquidated his mining and timber interests and retreated from the scene. Yet lumbering enterprise kept afloat.

In 1895, amid a continuing depression, the big Bell-Nelson sawmill was built. Seven years later this property became the first of the Weyerhaeuser mills in Washington State.

And today the two Weyerhaeuser pulp mills at Everett are in company with the mills of the Scott Paper company and the Simpson Timber company's pulp and paper plant. Lumber, plywood and shingle manufacturing keep plumes of smoke trailing from the stacks of many other mills on the Everett waterfront — all units of a giant area industry that began with the profitable little "Cemetery Hotel" enterprise of John T. Rogers, pioneer lumberman.

Firestone To Work On Missile Launching

Monterey, Calif. — (UPI)—The Navy says it has handed to Firestone Engineering Laboratory here the problem of improving submarine launchings of Regulus II guided missiles.

In its announcement Sunday, the Navy said the contract to Firestone, a subsidiary of Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., calls for the designing, building, testing and installation of launching systems aboard the submarines Grayback and Growler now under construction.

The 30-foot, seven-ton Regulus II is one of the Navy's latest weapons and is presently being tested for use against surface targets.

CONSTIPATED? new laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks

without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon. A "thrifty" colon is one that, instead of retaining moisture it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so crunched that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

TO REGAIN NORMAL REGULARITY two things are necessary. First, the shrunken contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to stimulate it and so excite its muscles to action; to a normal urge to purge.

ACT OF ALL LAXATIVES, only COLONOID, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONOID's great moistening capacity plus COLONOID's stretch-stimulating bulk that activates normal colonic reflexes. So effective that it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONOID is yet so smooth, so gentle it has been proved safe even for women in the most critical stages of pregnancy.

SUPERIOR TO OLD STYLE bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONOID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; does not interfere with your absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; and in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other side reactions.

IT'S A PHYSIOLOGICAL FACT: Exercise tones your body! And COLONOID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Whether occasional, frequent or chronic, whatever your degree of constipation, get COLONOID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! The price, only 98¢ for the economical 60 tablet package, brings you positive relief at less than 2¢ per tablet.
