Washington PTA Marks Founding At Last Session

Washington Parent-Teacher association held a Founders' day program February 15. "Years of Glory," a style show written and directed by Mrs. Alice Lynch, showed clothes dating back to 1900. Modeling clothes of 1900 were Mrs. Mary Ann Huff, second grade teacher and Mrs. Katherine Murray, third grade teacher. Mrs. Jim Johnson and Mrs. Paul Kurousky modeled clothes of 1910; Mrs. Herb Gofford and Mr. Guy Payne modeled for 1920. Mrs. John Hatch modeled a dress of 1930 and Mrs. Roy Gilbertson a short-skirted suit for 1940. Miss Laura York, sixth grade teacher, modeled a dress of present day style.

Mrs. Grace Larison, second grade teacher, sang "Memories" with words written for the style show and PTA.

Mrs. Alice Webb's sixth grade class presented a puppet show "Betsy Ross and the Flag". After the puppet show the class showed flags of different years and the present day flag, and concluded with a song.

This show will be presented on television today.

Past presidents of Washington school were honored and presented corsages. Mrs. Ray Alder, Mrs. Harold Hubler, Mrs. Fred Underwood, Mrs. Arthur Davis and Mrs. Roland Jones were the past presidents in attendance.

A nominating committee was elected with Mrs. Dick Sherill as chairman and Mrs. Paul Fullmer and Mrs. William Townes, members.

Cub scouts of Den 4 presented the colors. Mrs. Paul Kurousky, devotional chairman read the PTA prayer. Misses Janet Sherill and Ann Carson of Girl Scout Troop 172 helped as baby sitters during the meeting.

A birthday cake decorated with a "little red schoolhouse" and a home was served. Other decorations were in the heart theme. Mrs. James Allen, hospitality chairman was in charge of decorations.

ELDER TO RETIRE

Hosiery, Shoe Manufacturers Offer Bold Colors, Designs

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Correspondent
New York — (U.P.) — Ankle are destined for more than the usual amount of ogles this season.

Hosiery and shoe manufacturers are seeing to this, with designs and colors boldly drawing the stares downward.

Shoes come just about every shade of the rainbow, or in combinations of shades. Colors include violets, corals, turquoise, yellows, blues and reds. Fabrics sound more like the makings for a dress than footwear. . . matter of fact, some shoes are made up in the same fabric as the costume. Materials include polka dot silks, checked or floral prints, faille, black or pastel crepe, and even a chiffon-over-satin combination in an evening sandal.

Several designers feature flowers appliqued or leather. Josephi of Delman, a milliner turned shoe designer, builds one shoe from a fabric rose, with the petals forming the bulk of the design, the stem shaping the narrow heel. Only the sole is leather.

Trained Seal Josephi also comes up with an evening sandal called the "trained seal heel," in either black crepe or satin. A rhinestone sphere is balanced simulating a trained seal act, where the tap usually is located.

Another designer, Andre Perugia of I. Miller, features rhinestone trim twining vine-like around the heel of a cover-up evening shoe.

In the hosiery department, the aim is to lure women away from those habitual neutral shades and into hose which echo the color of the rest of the costume. The aim also is to sell more stockings in an industry which admits business could be better.

Crazy Legs Blue hyacinth, sweet lilac, butter-etch, peach blossom, coral glow, peach puff, white jade, and sugar pink are just some of the pale "cosmetic tints" promoted by the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers.

Seed pearls, rhinestones or hand-painted designs ornament evening stockings. One evening stocking, meant for wear with the muleback shoe, has a heel decorated with three rhinestone butterflies of graduated size.

The association said its sales in 1956 kept pace with 1955 but the trend toward informality of dress "may be keeping us from going ahead".

It hopes to get women to buy stockings the way they buy shoes or hats — selected to go with a costume and for a specific occasion.

"Until now", a spokesman explained, "women have been wearing the same stockings for evening that they'd put on for a game of golf."

"Feast of Will" Planned by Guild Saturday Night

Ashland—Tudor guild members are making final preparations this week for the "Feast of Will" to be held Saturday, February 23. The event is a smorgasbord to be served from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the Episcopal parish hall in Ashland.

Tudor guild is an auxiliary to the Oregon Shakespearean Festival association and funds from the smorgasbord will be used for an acting scholarship.

The guild announces that Swedish meat balls, ham, a large variety of salads and relishes, barbecued beans and several desserts will be on the menu.

Mrs. A. C. Allen Jr., Medford, and Mrs. E. N. Terrill, Ashland, are co-chairmen in charge of arrangements.
