Physicians Urged To Rely on Psychology To Cure Acne Vulgaris

BY DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
New York —(U.P.)— Since the demeaning ailment of the adolescent, a c n e vulgaris (better known as "pimples") is not consistently curable by any known medication, physicians now are urged to rely heavily if not exclusively on treatment by psychology.

The urging comes from Dr. Douglas Powers who as physician at the Sampson Air Force Base, Geneva, N.Y., has been having a lot of experience with adolescents. A psychological element in acne vulgaris is well known to medical men but Powers gave it much more than the usual stress.

"We have observed repeatedly that if a boy or girl afflicted with acne is shown that someone is genuinely interested, not only in his skin ailment, but in him as a whole person, he will eagerly discuss his anxieties and concerns," he said in a report to the Medical Society of the State of New York.

Obvious Progress
"Through this process one can almost see the tension disappear and the individual become more comfortable. It seems to be of the utmost importance to establish an atmosphere of freedom in which the acne patient can discuss his innermost feelings and problems. After this is accomplished, we can see fairly soon an improvement in his skin condition, as well as in his overall functioning, even though the choice of medication varies widely."

"If he is repeatedly rejected, the unfavorable emotional response most probably will be damaging." He will be derided by other adolescents, "thereby increasing his discomfort and forcing him into deeper isolation."

The doctor who would treat acne successfully should show the adolescent that he, the doctor, recognizes the youth's value as an individual and help him to discard his feelings of guilt and unworthiness," said Powers.

Higher Beer Tax Said Path To Prohibition

San Francisco —(U.P.)— Edward V. Lahey, president of the United States Brewers foundation, says proposed tax increases on beer now pending before many state legislatures are "back door prohibition."

Lahey, here for the organization's 81st annual convention, Sunday that these proposed increases are the "toughest thing" the brewing industry faces this year.

"Most of the tax legislation is inspired by the dregs," he said. Any further taxation, he said, would amount to discrimination against an industry that is the nation's 16th largest and which paid one billion dollars in taxes last year.

Lahey said beer sales were up last year over 1955.
