

Pressure Exerted for Beck To Return Home To Face Investigators

Washington — (U.P.) — The Eisenhower administration put pressure on Teamster Union Chief Dave Beck today to hurry home and be investigated. The move came as Beck was subjected to bitter attack by AFL-CIO Vice President James B. Carey, who called him "a traitor to the labor movement." Carey, at a press conference in Chicago Monday night, said if Beck's lawyers "don't mend their ways they're in danger of exclusion" from the parent AFL-CIO.

Hearings resumed today. "One corrupt international—or even one corrupt local—is one too many," Carey declared. The Teamsters union has been linked with gambling, vice and political influence in Oregon in testimony before the Senate Rackets Investigating committee. Hearings resume this afternoon.

The administration's nudge to Beck came from Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell. He announced Monday night that Beck, now in Europe, will not be named to the U.S. delegation to an international labor conference in Germany. Mitchell noted pointedly that Beck, wanted by the Senate investigating committee for questioning, gave his prospective attendance at the conference next week as one reason for not rushing home to testify.

Mitchell's action pleased. Therefore, said the secretary, "I have decided not to nominate Mr. Beck as one of the members of the U.S. delegation to the conference."

Farmers' Spendable Income Increases Over 1955 Figure

Washington — (U.P.) — The Agriculture Department said today farmers' spendable income in 1956 rose to an estimated $11,836,000,000 $500 million more than in 1955.

But because of a slightly rising farm population, the spendable income of each man, woman, and child from farm sources averaged $599 which was $7 less than in 1955.

Spendable income, technically realized net income, is the amount available for spending after the farmer had paid all his production expenses. It does not include any adjustment for the value of changes in crop and livestock inventories.

Soil bank and wool incentive program payments accounted for about $300 million of the increase in realized net income. The remaining $200 million reflected increased cash receipts from farm marketings which were only partly offset by higher production expenses.

Dollar Worth Less There was a net liquidation of about $250 million of inventories in livestock and crops, especially cattle. In 1955, there was a net accumulation of $340 million in inventories. Net income of farm operators after adjustment for inventory change was $11.6 billion in 1956 compared with $11.7 billion in 1955.

The 1956 realized net income of $11.8 billion in terms of buying power was only 3 per cent above 1955 because last year's dollar was worth only about 99 cents in terms of the 1955 dollar. This decline in the value of farm dollars reflected the fact that prices of non-agricultural goods and services increased more than farm prices last year.

In its final report on 1956 farm income, the department said the total income of the farm population amounted to $19.8 billion, 1 per cent above 1955. This included $11.6 billion after adjustment for inventory change, $1.7 billion in farm wages, and $6.5 billion of income from non-farm sources.

Wild Turkeys Said Making Comeback

Albany, N.Y. — (U.P.) — Wild turkeys are making a comeback in New York, but the state's conservation department says "don't reach for your gun yet."

"Chances are good for a wild turkey season next year, but first the state legislature must act to permit such hunting. If it does, the shooting may be limited to one county in the southern tier."

Wild gobblers made their appearance in the southern tier about 10 years ago. To help migration, the department decided on a transplanting job. New York now trades Mallard duck eggs for semi-wild turkeys from Pennsylvania. The state has been rearing and releasing several hundred turkeys for the past five years.

Short waves in the early days of radio were regarded as almost useless. Now they carry many services, including television transmission.

McCarthy and Neuberger Clash Over Attendance at Senate Doctrine Hearings

Washington — (U.P.) — The Senate was quiet and uncrowded. A half dozen Senators sat at their desks or wandered about the floor.

Sen. George W. Malone (R-Nev.), rose and began criticizing the Eisenhower Doctrine to the almost empty chamber.

Suddenly Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.), jumped up angrily. McCarthy charged that senate attendance during the debate on the Eisenhower Doctrine has been a "disgrace . . . a reflection on the United States."

He said the Senate should have quorum call after quorum call to keep Senators in their seats. Neuberger was there.

He said he was "very disappointed" that only one Democrat, Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (Or.), was present.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson arrived shortly afterward and the fight was on. Neuberger said he had "not noticed that McCarthy has been gracing the chamber with his presence very much during the debate."

In fact, Johnson said his presence was "a record in itself. It's unusual."

Arizona Farmers Return Highest Average Income

Washington — (U.P.) — The average spendable income for each farm in the United States in 1955 was $2,415, which was $147 more than in 1953.

Arizona farms returned the highest average income of $11,392. California farms were second with $8,411.

Spendable income, technically realized net income, is the amount available for spending after the farmers have paid all production expenses.

Realized net income per farm increased in all but 14 states in 1956, reflecting for the most part increases in the volume of farm marketings and payments made to farmers under the soil bank

Solar Furnace May Go To 5,000 Degrees

Natick, Mass. — (U.P.) — Five thousand degrees Fahrenheit! That's the potential of a solar furnace now being installed at the Quartermaster Research and Development Command here.

Next summer scientists will start using the furnace to test materials designed for protection against the killing heat generated by explosions of nuclear weapons.

The furnace uses a complex system of huge mirrors and lenses to concentrate the rays of the sun at a single point. The temperature at that point is hot enough to turn almost any known substance into a boiling liquid.

and wool incentive programs. Increases in realized net income per farm ranged from 46 per cent in New Mexico to 1 per cent in Iowa and North Carolina.

Holmes Says Major Points Introduced

Portland — (U.P.) — Gov. Robert Holmes told the Portland Chamber of Commerce yesterday that legislation has been introduced at Salem to carry out the major points of his proposed program.

Among his proposals given in his first message to the Legislature were those to create an office of lieutenant governor; to abolish the State Board of Control, and to establish a full-time paid liquor commissioner and a full-time parole board.
