

Eisenhower Praises Work of 4-H Groups

4-H club members and leaders throughout the nation are now observing National 4-H club week.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower in his message to the 4-H club members of the United States stated, "During National 4-H club week, it is always a pleasure to recognize the accomplishments and contributions of the 4-H club movement. With more than two million members, guided by dedicated community leaders, your work and spirit are a source of national strength."

Program Commended
"This year, in developing your theme of 'Improving Family and Community Living,' I am glad to learn your vision includes the whole family of nations and our total part in the life of the world community. Your International Farm Youth Exchange program is an effective demonstration of the sincerity of this vision. As you help promote understanding and friendship with youth of other lands, you cultivate a strong stand of peace and freedom."

Oregonians have participated in this International Farm Youth Exchange Program since 1951, when Glenn Klein, now Jackson county 4-H club agent, the state's first delegate, went to New Zealand. Since then 20 young rural people from Oregon have gone to 20 different countries in Europe, South America, South Pacific and the Middle East. During these six years, Oregon farm families have been host to 50 young people from countries in North Africa, Europe, Near East, Far East, Middle East, and South America.

Exchanges Visit
Jackson county families have been hosts to exchanges from New Zealand, Norway, and Burma.

In 1955, Mr. and Mrs. Don Minear of Medford and Mr. and Mrs. John Ousterhout of Eagle Point welcomed exchanges from Burma. The same year Mr. and Mrs. Victor Birdseye were the host family for a young man from New Zealand. In 1954 a Norwegian girl spent some time with the Birdseye family.

Apply Now
The young people live, work and play with the families. They are not looked upon as hired hands nor as guests, but rather as adopted sons and daughters. Oregon will be visited by 15 young "grass roots ambassadors" between May and November of 1957. They will come from Nepal, Pakistan, India, Latin America, the Far East and Europe.

Any family wishing to serve as a host family for an exchange may contact his county extension agent at the courthouse. All host family applications must be received by April 1, it has been pointed out.

Four young people from Oregon are now preparing to leave the United States on the 1957 exchange program.

CATHIE CARROLL
Girl of the Month

February's 4-H Girl of the Month Is Eagle Point Youth

Cathie Carroll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit A. Carroll, route 1, box 667, Eagle Point, has been named 4-H club girl of the month.

Miss Carroll has been a 4-H club member for ten years. She has completed more than 30 4-H club projects, including major projects in foods and clothing.

Miss Carroll has been assisting leaders of her community 4-H clubs for the past five years, and has completed three junior leadership projects. The Eagle Point High school senior is now doing project work with foods and clothing, and is junior leader for the Flying Saucers 4-H club.

Miss Carroll has annually exhibited her projects at the Jackson county 4-H and FFA fair. Cookies, cake, and bread baked by Miss Carroll have been selected as blue ribbon exhibits to be sent to the Oregon State Fair. In 1955 she baked the loaf of whole wheat bread which was selected as county champion. She has also been champion of the county bread-baking contest and has competed in this contest at the State Fair.

Each of her nine clothing projects have been selected to go to State Fair as top county exhibits, and in 1954 and 1956 she was a division champion in the style revue. Both years she went on to the style revue competition at the Oregon State Fair, and in 1954 she was State Fair champion of the formal division.

Eagle Point 4-Hers are now working with other Jackson county youth on the 4-H Friendship Follies. This event is sponsored annually to raise funds for the International Farm Youth Exchange. The program is sponsored by the Jackson County 4-H Club council of which Miss Carroll is secretary.

Miss Carroll has attended 4-H Summer school at Oregon State college five times, and she plans to return to Oregon State to study home economics education. Miss Carroll has been a top student at Eagle Point High school. She is editor of the Eagle's Quill, a two year member of the honor society, and is active in numerous other school activities. She was named the Eagle Point High school candidate in the 1956 Betty Crocker "Homemaker of Tomorrow" contest.

Hospital Building At Vancouver Rejected

Washington—(U.P.)—The Veterans Administration yesterday rejected a bill for construction of a 750-bed VA permanent hospital building at Vancouver, Wash.

However, Rep. Russell V. Mack (R-Wash.), author of the bill, said the administration "did not close the door to authorizing it at some future date."

Groups Reminded Of Festival Entries

Granville Brittsan, vice president of the Rogue Valley Pear festival, reminded valley organizations they have only until March 16 to file intention of entering a contestant in the selection of king and queen of the fourth annual event Saturday, April 27.

Any group, club, association or other type of organization is eligible to enter a contestant in the valley-wide competition. The final date for filing intention of entering was postponed from March 10 in order to allow sufficient time for all valley areas to participate.

It is not necessary, Brittsan added, to submit the name of the entrant. Only notification of intent to enter is necessary by March 16. Each club or organization will then have until March 27 to actually select their entrant and submit the name in the final selection of king and queen.

As in past events, balloting will be on the basis of selection of three contestants from within the city of Medford and three contestants from outside Medford.

This year residents also will be asked to vote for the title of king as well as queen, and the same rules will apply for both positions. Correspondence relative to the contest should be directed to the festival committee, room 2, D'Anjou building, Medford.

District Debate Contest Scheduled

The annual southern Oregon district debate contest will be held Saturday, March 9, in Medford High school. Devere Taylor of the school faculty announced today. Anyone interested has been invited to attend.

Debates will begin at 8:30 and continue until 4:30 p.m. in rooms 13, 28, 32 and 33.

Four schools in the A division and four in the B division are entered. A division schools are Grants Pass, Crater, Ashland, Medford High schools; B division schools entered are Illinois Valley, Talent, Eagle Point and Phoenix.

Winners in each division will enter the state contest April 12-13 at Oregon State college. Judges will be Dr. Bill Sampson, Dr. Alvin Fellers, Miss Dorothy Stolp and Dr. Marshall Woodell, all on the faculty of Southern Oregon college.

Congress About To Become Embroiled in Billboard Controversy

Washington—(U.P.)—Congress is about to get embroiled in a battle over billboards.

Lined up on one side are large numbers of individual motorists and nature lovers. Arrayed against them are advertising companies, organized sign painters and others who feel their jobs are at stake.

The issue: Should Congress enact legislation designed to keep billboards and advertising signs from springing up along the new federal system of interstate highways now under construction?

Construction Started
The 41,000-mile network of highways will be built over the next 13 years, much of it on new locations from funds raised by gasoline and other taxes levied on motorists and truckers. Construction work already has started.

Congressmen sponsoring legislation to control billboards reported today that "long suffering motorists" and members of garden clubs from all over the country have written in to commend their anti-billboard move.

But the congressmen are getting brickbats from sign painters, carpenters, advertising executives and some motel and hotel owners.

So far the administration has taken no stand. It won a reprieve when Senate hearings on the legislation scheduled to start this week, were postponed by debate over the Middle East resolution.

'Some Kind of Crank'
Rep. Robert Hale (R-Me.), sponsor of one of five bills introduced in the House, said opponents seem to feel that "a person who doesn't like to see a mountain or a stream or even a field blotted out by a billboard is a faddist or some kind of crank."

Hale described as "typical" a letter he received last week from Secretary-treasurer Bruce C. Mather of a local AFL Sign Painters Union in Denver.

Mather accused Hale and Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.), sponsor of the Senate bill, of being "faddist aesthetes" who would destroy sign painters' jobs just to "satisfy the fancies of a whimsical few."

Court Photograph Demonstrates Lack Of Interference

Cleveland—(U.P.)—The Cleveland Press published a photograph Wednesday which it said "was taken to demonstrate that courtroom pictures can be taken . . . without interfering with the court."

Camera Not Seen
"No one in the courtroom saw the camera," Zahn said, "not even the man seated next to me."

Silbert said he did not know when the picture was taken or that Zahn had carried a camera into the room.

The Press, a Scripps-Howard paper, has led opposition against Canon 35 of the Code of Judicial Ethics dealing with courtroom photography. The interpretation of the rule varies from judge to judge.

The newspaper said the picture was the first such shot taken by one of its photographers of a trial scene since Judge Joseph H. Silbert invoked contempt of court action against the Press in September, 1952.
