

TABLE ROCK Rooster, Cat Make News

By R. E. NEALON
Table Rock—Mrs. E. E. Robinson, while partaking of a chicken dinner at her home Thursday evening, got a bone lodged in her throat, necessitating an X-ray and extraction of the triangle-shaped piece, and a day's stay in the hospital, all of which cost in money, $176.12, which isn't chicken feed even at these times. The rooster that furnished the bone, according to Mrs. R., was slaughtered on account of his vicious attacks on other fowl, and anything in sight. She thinks that perhaps he took a last kick back at her on the way down.

According to some of the company employees, was made to equalize with Medford rates, and was allowed by the State Utilities commissioner. (Sort of keeping up with the Jones's.)

Lester James, the Sams Valley dairyman, has recently installed a 212 gallon stainless steel milk tank with compressor unit, and a Chore Boy pipe line milker with automatic washer. The price of this equipment runs close to $2,900, and is necessary to connect with creamery truck equipment in picking up milk.

Charley Hoover, the farmer optimist, who is always starting something new, tells us he now has a piggery, where he is feeding some 400 pigs on a diet of dried pears and a little grain.

The cull pears are taken from the packing plants and spread on the paved roads used by the Army at Camp White, where the sun dries them, making an excellent feed for hogs. We couldn't find piggery in the dictionary, but call it what you may, it seems to be a gain and loss operation. The pigs make tremendous gains on the dried pear diet, but Charley has lost 20 pounds, during the feeding process, and is now faced with getting suspenders, or a smaller pair of pants.

Copco workmen were called out Tuesday to rescue a large white cat from one of the power poles near the Alan Fleischer home. The cat was rescued alright, so now we have an extra cat, it coming several poles down the line to our place where it seems to have established permanent quarters.

A rather small crowd attended the last meeting of the local Community club, but those present seemed to enjoy themselves immensely.

Among other features of the program was a cake walk, which netted several dollars for the club treasury, and a comedy play, "Dr. Cureall," with 10 people taking part. Ernest Smith acted the part of the doctor, and with his wife as secretary, advertised to cure all ills the human flesh is heir to. He did a tremendous business for a while, handing each patient a bottle of his concoction, according to the ailment. Later when patients began to return, it developed that his remedies done much more than he promised, the fat woman became too fat, the fat woman too thin, the short too tall, and the tall too short, and so on.

It was voted that beginning next fall the club instead of holding regular monthly meetings, would meet on special occasions only. Among those attending were Mr. and Mrs. George F. Guthrie and two children of Tou Velle Park, who have resided there for several months, but prior to this had not met and mingled with their neighbors. Guthrie is caretaker of the park, and likes his work and location very much, but has been astonished several times at the rapid rise of the river going from normal flow to flood stage in a matter of hours.

The rains of last February brought the river to near flood stage here, the waters flooding low lands on several farms eroding soil and depositing sand on farm land and fences. At the present time the river is making another threat and keeping farmers with low lands on the anxious seat as to livestock, fences and erosion of soil. To farmers in this situation the recent report that a real effort is being made by Charles O. Porter, our new representative in Congress, to do something definite about flood control on Rogue river will be good news.

The March meeting of the Table Rock Ladies club will be held Wednesday, March 13, at the home of Mrs. Stanley Wal. lin. There will be a plant exchange.

Relatives here of the Donald Richardsons of Portland, have received news of the birth of Derek Robert Richardson, on Feb. 28, tipping the scales at a little over 7 pounds. Grandma Richardson, who has been at her son's home for the past month awaiting the blessed event, and helping search for a first name beginning with the letter D, will be returning home in the near future.

Al Allen and wife, Muriel, just returned from San Francisco where they were over the week end, attending the boat show and getting some new ideas about the boat building business.

White City patrons of the Columbia Utilities Telephone company noted quite a little raise in their February bills which, according to some of the company employees, was made to equalize with Medford rates, and was allowed by the State Utilities commissioner. (Sort of keeping up with the Jones's.)

In addition to a top of $2,000 salary, the legislators would have a $10 a day expense account, also for a maximum of 100 days. The raise would become effective for members of the 1959 legislative assembly, according to Rep. Vernon Cook, Gresham Democrat, a sponsor of the bill.
