

Trip To East Germany Declared Like Going Into Another World

Berlin — (U.P.) — A trip from West Germany to East Germany is a trip to another world. Control points manned by Communist police are not necessary to remind travelers that a border has been passed separating the Federal Republic of Germany from the German Democratic Republic.

Everything suddenly changes. Only the same language remains. People look different, dress differently, act differently.

Eastern Stamp
Twelve years of Communist rule have placed an Eastern stamp on the 42,000 square miles of Germany with 17 million people placed under Soviet occupation at the end of World War II.

Travelers who entered East Germany from the West for the annual Leipzig trade fair were shocked by the contrast between East and West.

The once-thriving city of Leipzig has become a drab, run-down city populated by poorly-dressed people who have little more than the bare necessities of life and sometimes not even these.

There was none of that hustle and bustle, the lights, the gaiety, those outward signs of prosperity so prevalent in West Germany.

People familiar with the Soviet Union said the air of the city, its feeling of depression, was more typical of Russia than Germany.

Best Foot Forward
The contrast with the West is particularly striking in Leipzig for the Communists attempt to put their best foot forward to impress foreign visitors during the fair.

But the dullest West German small town is more attractive, more rich looking, more alive than Leipzig is with its population of about 600,000 swelled by thousands of visitors. The visitors from any Western nation stand out immediately in Leipzig. One quick look at any crowd is enough to separate East Germans from foreigners or West Germans.

Immigration Service May Drop Hearings To Deport Tokyo Rose

San Francisco — (U.P.) — Deportation proceedings against the "Tokyo Rose" of World War II appeared today to be bogged down in Washington.

And there was a strong indication that the Immigration Service is considering the possibility of dropping proceedings to deport Mrs. Iva Toguri d'Aquino.

Bruce Barber, director of the Immigration Service in San Francisco, said no date has been set for hearings on the deportation proceedings. He indicated he is awaiting word on the case from Washington.

In Washington, a spokesman for the service said the government must still decide whether to go ahead with the proceedings or drop them. He said the case is under study and that the government is "proceeding very slowly."

Ignored Order

The Immigration Service ordered the America-born Mrs. D'Aquino to leave the country or face deportation last March, shortly after she got out of Alderson Federal prison in West Virginia.

Mrs. D'Aquino won a conditional release from the prison in January, 1956, after serving six and one-half years of a 10-year sentence imposed on her in 1949.

Mock War Scheduled To Start in April

Washington — (U.P.) — More than 40,000 Army troops will engage in mock war in Louisiana's massive maneuver area this spring in a test of atomic age concepts for airborne, infantry and armored combat units.

Two series of exercises are scheduled. "King Cole" will run from March 27 through April 16 with about 21,000 troops. "Sledge Hammer" will run from April 24 through May 23 with 19,000 troops, chiefly of the 1st Armored Division from Fort Polk, La.

The Army disclosed that the giant 60-foot Redstone ballistic missile, designed for a 200-mile range, will receive its first field tests in the "King Cole" exercise.

Mondays 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., starts March 19, room 333, Hedrick, registration $7.50, Rampton Barlow, instructor.
Driver Training: 6 weeks, first week classroom instruction from 4 to 3 p.m. in Medford High cafeteria, succeeding weeks, two groups meeting between 3:45 and 4:45 p.m. and between 5 and 6 p.m., starts April 1, registration $25, Hal Carver, instructor.
Still Life Drawing: 8 weeks, Mondays 7:30 to 10 p.m., starts March 25, room 7, McLoughlin, registration $3, Steve Bayless, instructor.
Show-Card Writing: Class I, 6 weeks, Wednesdays 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., starts March 20, room 306, Hedrick, registration $3, Die Walsh, instructor; Class II, 6 weeks, Thursdays 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., room 306, Hedrick, registration $3, Walsh, instructor.

Returned to U. S. She returned to the United States from Japan in 1948. On that occasion, she entered in the custody of Army officials to await trial for treason. The Department of Justice said this was illegal entry because she had no passport or entry credentials and was an alien.

But her attorney, Wayne Collins said if she was an alien who entered illegally in 1948, she should have not been tried for treason. He said he will argue at her deportation hearing that she is still an American citizen and thus not deportable.

Meanwhile, Mrs. D'Aquino is working for Collins as a typist and living in his home. She had a hard time obtaining work because she insisted on using her own name. She is said to be a model probationer.

Stewardess May Be Questioned in Mexico Murders

Acapulco, Mexico — (U.P.) — Police said today they may ask Los Angeles authorities to question an airline stewardess about the slaying here of two tourists from New York.

Police said Ruth Waechter, of Los Angeles, wrote Luis Fenton two weeks after the slaying of the couple and enclosed a clipping from a newspaper telling of their disappearance.

Fenton has admitted hiring an illiterate handyman to kill Mrs. Edith Hallock, 63, and Joseph Michel, 70, for Mrs. Hallock's jewels.

"Shot Anybody Yet?" Miss Waechter started her letter to Fenton by saying: "Hi, sweetie, shot anybody yet?" police said.

They said a picture of Mrs. Hallock was enclosed and on the side she had written, "Is this the woman with the half million dollars in jewels?"

Police said it had been determined she was in Acapulco the night the couple were beaten to death and their bodies tossed into Acapulco Bay.

In Los Angeles, Miss Waechter said she knew Fenton and had written him but "I'm not involved in any way with the double murder. The words are all turned around."

New England was the site of the first canning operation in the United States. About 1820 an export canning business was opened in Boston.

Gasoline contains nearly three times the energy of TNT, six times that of nitroglycerine, and more than 7 1/2 times as much as dynamite.

The walled terraces on Inca farms represented an investment of about $18,000 an acre in terms of modern labor costs, it is now estimated.
