

Jet Pilot Breaks Two Flying Marks

Los Angeles—(U)—A twin-jet Navy atom bomber streaked across Los Angeles International Airport Thursday night to break both the New York to Los Angeles speed record and the transcontinental round trip record.

The A3D Skywarrior touched down at 4:47:39 p.m. (PST) to clip nine minutes, 28 seconds off the old mark of five hours, 24 minutes and 26.64 seconds for the New York to Los Angeles flight.

The plane piloted by Cmdr. Dale W. Cox Jr., of Spirit Lake, Ia., failed to break the Los Angeles to New York record of 4 hours, 44 minutes and 53 seconds by about 15 minutes but cut one hour, 42 minutes and 39 seconds from the old round trip mark of 11 hours, 18 minutes and 27 seconds. The A3D's time for the round-trip was nine hours, 35 minutes and 48 seconds.

LT. John M. Conroy of the Air National Guard set both the old records May 21, 1955 in an F2A Sabrejet.

The three crewmen were able to breakfast in Los Angeles, lunch in New York and return here for a fashionable dinner by making the round trip in approximately nine and a half hours.
