The Medical Roundup

by Walter Alvarez

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic
Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

The Child Who Dies Suddenly

One of the most disturbing things that can happen to a family is the sudden death of a child.

Dr Alvarez

In the case of infants, the mother usually fears that the child became smothered in some way. Actually in almost every case, when an autopsy is performed it shows that the child died of an acute infection, such as a pneumonia. Some germs are so virulent that they can kill over-night. In the Army, in any big barracks, each year a number of soldiers will be found dead in the morning. Usually an autopsy shows that the young man died of a meningitis or pneumonia or other severe infection. In these cases, what happens is that quickly the highly virulent germs invade the blood stream, and so the child or young man dies of what a lay person would call acute blood-poisoning. We doctors call it septicemia. In rare cases, there is an exceedingly acute infection of the voice box and, the little cover that fits over it, the so-called epiglottis. Or, the inflammation is in the trachea or bronchi which are tubes that carry air from the mouth to the lungs. In some cases an infant will die very quickly from an infection of the bowel. In other cases the infection is in the inner lining of the heart. This called an acute endocarditis.

Years ago, when faced with a child who had died during the night, physicians tried to throw the blame on a large thymus gland. This lies in the upper central part of the thorax or chest. Today, experts doubt if a large thymus kills many children because so many children normally have a large thymus.

Everyone should know that whenever a loved one dies a puzzling death, it is a wise thing to have an autopsy made. This can usually give an answer to questions which otherwise could keep harassing the relatives for the rest of their days. In thousands of cases the autopsy report will give the unhappy mother of a dead child great peace; it will keep her from blaming herself terribly for the rest of her life. We all know mothers who keep saying over and over again, "If only I hadn't done this, or hadn't done that, or I had called another doctor, or if I hadn't let the child go to that party, this wouldn't have happened." Actually, if an autopsy had been performed, it might have shown that the child had had a terrible infection for which the mother could not possibly be blamed in any way. Nothing she or ten good physicians could have done could have saved the child's life.

Dr. Alvarez hopes his readers will understand that it would be impossible for him to answer requests for information or to attempt to diagnose by mail.

Two OTI Bills Go Before House

Salem—(U.P.)—Two bills broadening the curriculum and reorganizing Oregon Technical Institute at Klamath Falls have been introduced in the Oregon House.

Under the bills introduced by Reps. John Kerbow, Carl Yancy, Sen. Harry Boivin, all Klamath Falls, and Sen. Phil Lowry, Medford, an advisory council of 15 members would be appointed by the State Board of Education for OTI.

Scholarships would be authorized up to two per cent of enrollment and bonds could be used to finance new buildings if repayment was made from donations and did not come from state tax revenue.

All teaching personnel as well as administrative and part-time student employees would be removed from classified civil service under the bills, but the Civil Service Commission could review new appointments. The governor would decide all disagreements between the commission and the State Board of Education relative to appointments.

Empire Youths Indicted By Wasco County Jury

The Dalles —(U.P.)— Ernest LeRoy Smith, 19, and Cecil Roger Oakes, 21, both of Empire, Ore., have been indicted by the Wasco county grand jury on charges of assault with intent to kill as a result of a running gun battle with city police here March 2.

Portland —(U.P.)— Howard R. Lonergan, chief deputy district attorney here, is resigning to enter private practice.

Russia Rejects Plan For Test Registration

Moscow —(U.P.)— Russia has rejected the Anglo-American proposal for registration of nuclear tests with the United Nations and proposed instead a "temporary" ban on tests.

A Soviet government announcement said the "temporary" ban could be the forerunner of a permanent agreement.

At the same time, it rejected the Eisenhower-Macmillan proposal for the registration of such tests with the United Nations.
