

Morse Urges Revival of GI Bill; Raps Stand by Administration

Washington, D.C.—Administration opposition to revival of the GI Bill of Rights drew scorching criticism today from Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) in discussing the renewal legislation, of which Morse is a co-sponsor.

"The administration claims to be liberal in human affairs and conservative in economic affairs," Morse declared. "There is never any doubt that in case of conflict the dollar will be the victor over the human being."

"In this case," he said, "the administration opposes revival of the GI bill and its proven benefits to tens of thousands of human beings and their communities. Yet it has money for weapons, talking stamp machines, Mideast dictators, hydrogen bomb tests, and quick tax write-offs for utilities and railroads."

"I suggest to the mothers and fathers of America that instead of adding 'Dr.' to their youngsters' names they will prosper."

Morse challenged the recent statement by representatives of Department of Defense that the various forms of compulsory service are designed to be universal and require equality of sacrifice for able-bodied men.

"That is the theory, but it has not been the practice," he declared, pointing out that some young men, though various means, "become, for all practical purposes, draft proof."

The Oregon Senator stated that the GI Bill is designed "to enable the individual to make up for many of the lost opportunities that two or more years of military service involve. . . It is a national insurance policy that our young people will not be permanently handicapped by reason of military service."

No Gravy Train

"The GI Bill is no gravy train," he pointed out. "No GI students have lived high on their benefits. . . The GI Bill made it possible to have that extra margin of income to finish school, but only with great effort and sacrifice."

"As a result," Morse said, "our World War II Korean veterans have improved themselves and the schools, too. We have better educated employees, fathers and commerce have benefited from the new skills."

"In sum, the nation is richer not just in money, but in more fully developed human resources fully developed human resources," he concluded.

Supreme Court Clerk Reports on 1956 Operations

Salem—(U.P.)—F. M. Sercombe, clerk of the Oregon Supreme Court, said Wednesday he has filed his report reflecting the operations of the court for 1956.

The report is supplemented by statistical tables showing comparison with the preceding year and by several graphs and charts.

The statistics indicate a substantial increase in the work load and output of the court.

Sercombe said 246 cases were closed, including 174 by written opinion. But a total of 272 matters were recorded, and at the close of the year the number of cases awaiting disposition reached a new high of 353.

Sercombe noted that the average number of opinions written per justice increased from 25.86 in 1955 to 29.71 in 1956, notwithstanding absences due to the illness of the late Justices Earl C. Latourette and Walter Tooez. He also commented on the increasing burden of administrative duties resting upon the chief justice which leave him less time for writing opinions.

$300 Surplus Plane Bought for $50,000

Charlotte, N. C.—(U.P.)—The government has dropped its $10,000 damage suit against a Boy Scout Council and other successful owners of a "300" war surplus bomber that took-off with a $50,000 price tag.

The Piedmont council of Boy Scouts at Gastonia, N. C., contended the government did not impose any restrictions on resale of the World War II B24 Liberator sold to the Scouts in 1947 for $300.

The Scouts, after using the plane for non-flight instructional purposes, sold it in 1951 to two men for $3,000. The men sold it the same year for $3,300 to a Virginia group which sold it to three others for $12,000.

The plane was finally sold to a purchaser in Mexico for $50,000 and had since been reported flying in Central America.

Porter Introduces Bill for National Scholarships

Washington, D.C.—Proposed legislation to make possible the awarding annually of 100,000 national scholarships for college and university undergraduate study has been introduced by Congressman Charles O. Porter.

The program would allow students to compete for the scholarships in their own states in competitive examinations. The scholarships would range from small sums to a high of $1,000, according to need, Congressman Porter explained.

Qualified Students

The Congressman pointed out that in Russia today qualified students not only receive education "free of charge—but are often given extra monetary allowances." He said one of the greatest education needs in the United States now is a way to make education possible for qualified students who do not have adequate personal finances.

As college registration and dormitory fees go up, the number of students goes down, he said, and "the ratio is not rosy."

Porter said America's best weapon is an informed and intellectually curious citizenry. Admitting that Russia is turning out engineers and scientists "by the bushel basket," he countered with "the Soviet Union doesn't require social science studies because its ideology isn't concerned with them, humanities or arts."

"Ours is," he continued, "and we'd better speed out of the educational desert we are beginning to find ourselves in today."

Porter said his bill is the first of a series of aids for education that he plans to propose in the 85th Congress.
