Youngsters love their own junior sets for play or dining, and find them a "snap" to open up or to put away.

Furniture Unfolds for Fun

by Ruth W. Lee, home-furnishings consultant

WITH THE swing to at-home activities, the spotlight is on card-table sets—smarter-looking and more practical than ever. Brightly colored vinyl tops that wipe clean provide attractive backgrounds for games and meals, and chairs are padded and properly pitched for greater comfort. There's a substantial feeling about these pieces, too, thanks to strong steel frames and foolproof folding mechanisms that lock into place.

Folding furniture is so happily adjusted to home life that there are even special scaled-down models for the youngsters. Sturdy enough for rough-and-tumble play, the sets also help small fry develop good house-keeping habits. (For a free booklet on this subject, write "Playing at Life," Family Weekly Magazine, 179 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 1, Ill.)
