1957 Population Figures Released; Medford 22,222

Portland — (U.P.) — The official 1957 population of Portland is 419,000, compared to 409,420 just a year ago.

And for the first time in recent history, Salem has been nudged out of its place as second largest city in the state by Eugene which now has 167 more people than Salem.

No Rural Figures

The statistics were released Tuesday by the State Census Board. Since the state census is conducted in cities for the purpose of adjusting liquor and highway fund allocations, a state population total is not reached. There are no figures for rural areas.

Dean L. Huxtable, executive secretary of the census board, said Eugene population now stands at 46,480 persons while Salem has 46,313.

Huxtable said Portland had recorded a 10.3 per cent increase from the 373,628 persons counted in the 1950 federal census. Eugene gained 29.5 per cent and Salem was up 7.4 per cent.

Largest percentage gain in Oregon was recorded by Gold Beach in Curry which increased 188 per cent since 1950. At the other extreme, Granite, in Grant county, lost all but three of the 46 residents counted there in 1950.

Figures for other major cities in Oregon included: Medford, 22,222, up 28.4 per cent; Klamath Falls 19,000, up 19.7 per cent; Pendleton 15,174, up 23.5; The Dalles 11,250, up 46.6; LaGrande 9,100, up 5.4; Bend 12,450, up 9.1; Astoria 12,331, no change; Roseburg 13,000, up 54.9; Coos Bay 7,450, up 19.7; Ashland 8,750, up 13.1; Springfield 13,500 up 24.9; Albany 12,800, up 26.5; McMinnville 7,000, up 5.5.

Archbishop Makarios Welcomed To Greece

Athens — (U.P.) — Archbishop Makarios returned from his British-imposed exile to a conqueror's welcome today and toid thousands of cheering Greeks that Cyprus would "fight" for union with Greece.

"We do not want trusteeship or to be ruled by others," he said. "We want self-determination and will fight for it."

The black-bearded, six-foot-four prelate received a thunderous ovation from hundreds of thousands of Greeks on his arrival by plane from Nairobi, Kenya.

He was released from the Indian Ocean's Seychelles Islands last month on conditions he go anywhere but back to the Eastern Mediterranean island of Cyprus.

But in his first public speech at the Petit Palais hotel, he made it clear that he would continue to lead the battle of the Greek majority on Cyprus for independence from Britain and ultimate union with Greece.

Portland — (U.P.) — Oregon Teamster boss Clyde C. Crosby and Oregon Journal reporter Brad Williams Tuesday surrendered to indictments charging them with violating Oregon's wire tap laws.
