

Hunting and Fishing Southern Oregon

By MEL REES

Though somewhat delayed, the salmon season finally started to click and fish were picked up all the way from Galice to Savage Rapids. Although none of the favorite areas produced very many, the fish that were taken were sea-fresh and ran fairly large.

It took a woman to record the largest fish so far in the Grants Pass Sporting Goods annual derby. Mary Arnold of Grants Pass, fishing Hansen's board below Galice, landed a 36-pound whopper. This fish should be right in the tally when the finals are in.

Red Moore fishing the Savage rapids hooked three fish last Sunday but only tamed one of 30 pounds. Red said that one of the fish broke his 105-pound steel leader in his dash for freedom—some of those big ones will throw a kink in most anything.

VIOLENT SIDES
Hammered Brass spinners No. 5 and 6 seem to account for the most fish although some were taken on "hat 'n haf" while Knobby's

Salmon Fishing In Rogue River Up and Down

Portland—(U.P.)—The weekly report on fishing conditions prepared by the state game commission:

Southwest: Lower Umpqua river angling is slow; north Umpqua and upper main Umpqua low and have good color; Rogue salmon being caught at scattered points but success generally slow; water in Rogue slightly murky from Savage Rapids to Galice; salmon fishing in Rogue slow in Grants Pass area and up and down in lower river.

OSC Cindermen Take on Cougars

Oregon State College, Corvallis—Coach Hal Moe's surprising track squad, which overcame Idaho at Moscow last week end, takes on stiffer opposition here Saturday when it meets Washington State in another northern division dual meet.

The Beaver golf varsity will meet Oregon here Friday at the Corvallis Country club, while the OSC tennis team takes on Oregon here Saturday.

Duane Marshall, sophomore shotput ace, set an all-time OSC mark of 52 feet 1/2 inch last week, and 155-pound javelin star Don Clay tossed the spear 206 feet to pace the Beaver attack last week. Both should make strong bids for firsts Saturday, along with Tom Blackstone and Ron Smart, discus; Earnel Durden, sprints; and Benson Foley, pole vault.

OSC had fairly good strength in the field events, but is weak in the distance races. One of the most improved Beavers is Cliff Cordy in the 880. He won the event in 1:57.1 last week at Moscow.

RESUMES SPARRING
Chicago—(U.P.)—Middleweight boxing Gene Fullmer was scheduled to resume sparring today at his training camp and will drill daily until April 27 for his May 1 title defense against Ray Robinson. Fullmer took two days off from sparring Tuesday and Wednesday in order not to lose his edge.

came in for their share. This idea of what to use has too violent sides. One group maintains that a fish will hit whatever happens to be in front of his nose when he decided to hit and the other says that the fish is particular. Take your choice. I once saw a fellow land a chinook on a lure he fashioned from the top of a sardine can—won his bet!

GOLD BEACH SO-SO
The salmon fishing at Gold Beach is only so 'n so according to Johnny Wolf who has spent the past 25 years watching 'em come and go from his little tackle shop.

I stopped in last Sunday to visit with Johnny and he says that most of the anglers are local and that the fishing was just beginning to pick up when the river raised and stopped it. I was intrigued at the salmon philosophy handed out by Johnny and some time in the future will attempt to give the gist of it of course lacking Johnny's style in telling it.

HACKLES RAISED
Probably no statement in a long, long time has raised the hackles on so many fishermen as that made by Cole Rivers, game commission fish biologist, at a meeting of the Rogue Rod and Gun club about a week ago. Rivers is reported to have said that it may be necessary to close the Applegate and the middle Rogue rivers to all fishing in order to build up the steelhead runs.

In a survey among leading sportsmen of the valley the following statements were made:

"A great mistake was made by Rivers in recommending the opening of the Applegate to steelheading—it is one of the best spawning areas for the Rogue and too many spawners are being taken."

"If the game commission hadn't been so lax in their work for screens on Savage Rapids dam, the 100,000 plus young steelhead and salmon which their biologists say are chewed up each year could have kept our runs up to normal."

"Inasmuch as most of the trout caught during this season are young steelhead and salmon, why not close the river to trout fishing." (This one brought a howl from the motel owners.)

"Move the boats off the river. (For fishing purposes). If every one fished from the shore, there wouldn't be a percentage of the fish now taken." (This one brought a howl from the boat fishermen.)

Between the howls and the headaches there is no question but that something needs to be done and too much delay in doing it may be somewhat disastrous for the local fishery. It would seem at this point that some unselfish but cooperative, concerted action by local sportsmen is needed now!

Death Ends Baseball Career of Portland Skipper Bill Sweeney

San Diego, Calif. — (U.P.) — Baseball veteran William (Bill) Sweeney, manager of the Portland team in the Pacific Coast league, died at Mercy hospital today after undergoing an operation for a perforated ulcer.

Sweeney, who was voted as the all-time PCL manager by the Baseball Writers' association in 1953, succumbed at 12:40 a.m. (PST) he was 52.

Sweeney was one of the best known baseball figures in the West and had piloted Portland, Seattle, Hollywood and Los Angeles in the PCL during his long managerial career.

He was born in Cleveland, Ohio, on Dec. 29, 1904, and started his professional baseball career in 1925 with Wichita of the Western league.

Many Records
Sweeney, who himself holds many PCL records as a first baseman, was in his 18th campaign in the Coast league at the time of his death.

Sweeney came out of retirement last season to take over the Portland club from Tommy Holmes, who resigned. He guided the Beavers to a third place finish.

In 1936, Sweeney managed the pennant winning Portland club and also was the regular first baseman.

Survivors include his widow, Helen, and an adopted son Mike. Sweeney had complained of feeling ill during Tuesday night's game with San Diego. But he remained on the field to run the club.

Sweeney also played with Boston and Detroit in the American

Guatemala Given Pan-Am Games

Detroit — (U.P.) — The city of Cleveland was without hope today of bringing the long-sought Pan-American Games home to its thousands of track and field fans.

Pan-American Games committee president Douglas Roby has formally awarded the Olympic event to Guatemala City, Guatemala, following a decision Wednesday by Cleveland Mayor Anthony Celebrezze to vacate the city's bid for the games.

Roby said he received a telegram from Celebrezze which said that Cleveland had been unable to obtain congressional approval of a five million dollar appropriation to help the city build stadium facilities to stage the event. According to Roby, Celebrezze said that Cleveland would have to give up its plans, but stood ready to welcome the games should Congress reverse itself on the no-money decision.
