

On The Side

No doubt you are familiar with the Kipling classic titled "They're Hanging Danny Deever in the Morning." In the yesterday it was, along with the poems titled "Gunga Din" and "Boots," a great favorite among competitors in elocution contests. However, the poem "Danny Deever" had no great influence on life in general. On the other hand a poem titled "They've Hung Bill Jones" by the Atlanta, Ga., poetic genius, Frank L. Stanton, saved a man's life. On the night before a hanging Gov. Oswald West of Oregon read this poem and was so affected by it he commuted the sentence of the condemned man. Frank Stanton was an extremely versatile poet. Those great songs "Jest A-Wearyin' for You" and "Mighty Lak a Rose" are both from poems of his set to music. "They've Hung Bill Jones" is a four verse poem included in Stanton's "Songs of the Soil." The third verse, which especially affected the governor of Oregon, is as follows:

They've hung Bill Jones
For a crime of his,
An' his wife an' his
Mother is a-dyin';
An' his children's took
Where the orphan is
An' the col' wind
A'creepin' and a sighin'.

Among the Married

How would you like to be compelled to walk behind your wife in public appearances? Also to have to take orders from her. Not much, I guess. Rumors have it that Prince Philip of England doesn't care for it either. Makes him feel frustrated. Could Philip become King of England and have equal rights with the Queen? He could if parliament passed a law to that effect. There is a precedent for it. Princess Mary Second of England refused to become Queen unless her husband, Prince of Orange, shared the throne with her and as king had equal rights. The British parliament gave in to her and passed a law in accordance with her wishes. So began the reign of William and Mary.

Race Horse Researchers

Thoroughbred racing with pari-mutuel wagering has long been popular in Japan. Tokyo has several race tracks. The principal Japanese turf paper is called "Sincere Advice on Current Race Horse Performance." There are many professional tipsters in Tokyo. They are called "Race Horse Researchers." They are unionized. Their organization is called "The Honorable, Democratic and Peace Loving Union of All Japanese Race Horse Researchers."

Get It Right

Where did the night club floor show originate? It was originated by Gus Edwards at Reisenwebers on Columbus Circle in New York City. The Dancers, featuring paid dance partners, was also originated at Reisenwebers. Among those acting as dance partners in those days at Reisenwebers were Rudolf Valentino, Ricardo Cortez and George Raft.

Sidelights

British advocates of nudism now call themselves "naturosophists." They have formed an organization called "The International Order of Naturosophists." . . . Am asked if Garibaldi, the Italian patriot, was red-haired. He was. Incidentally, during a period of exile, Garibaldi lived on Staten Island, N.Y., and became a citizen of the United States.

Color Psychology

The British Princess Margaret continues to feature pink as the shade of her evening attire. She also features the same shade in other articles of attire whenever possible. According to the color psychologists, pink is the color with the most male attraction power. So evidently the Princess is not adverse to male attention. She is also a chain cigarette smoker which some psychiatrists allege is a sign of frustration. That is, not being loved as much as one would wish to be.

LOOK MOM, I'M LOST

New York—(U.P.)—It was a somewhat embarrassed Frank DeFeo who sought police aid after he and his three children became separated from Mrs. DeFeo during the Easter parade. DeFeo is a Philadelphia policeman.

Washington—(U.P.)—President Eisenhower has personally appealed to high school students to complete their schooling and thus made "their finest contribution" to the nation's future.
