

HOLD THAT LINE!—Frank House of the Tigers is out at home as Cleveland Indian catcher Jim Hegan throws a block in the best football style in the third inning of their game in Detroit. House was trying to score from third on Frank Bolling's hit which was fielded by Bobby Avila who threw to Hegan for the out. The Indians won, 8-3.

Mounts Up PCL Lead; Top Solons

By UNITED PRESS
Nobody believes it—it isn't so. But nevertheless, the lowly Vancouver Mounties are increasing their lead in the Pacific Coast League with each game.

Vancouver finished its series against Sacramento in devastating fashion Monday night, walloping the Solons 6-1. The win gave the Mounties five games out of six in their series with Sacramento and put them two games ahead of second place San Francisco.

The Cincinnati Reds, meanwhile, finally scored their first victory of 1957 when they defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-6. The Reds led 14 hits and took advantage of six errors. In addition, they beat Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, who topped them five times last year.

The Cincinnati Reds, meanwhile, finally scored their first victory of 1957 when they defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-6. The Reds led 14 hits and took advantage of six errors. In addition, they beat Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, who topped them five times last year.

Mantle Hits 1st Homer of '57; Cincinnati Notches First Win

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer
The man and the team who produced the top slugging heroics of 1956 are off and running at last today—at the expense of a pair of "jinx" pitchers.

Mickey Mantle, the American League's triple crown winner, connected for his first homer of the season Monday night as the New York Yankees crushed the Washington Senators, 15-6, with a 16-hit barrage. Mantle's blow came off southpaw Chuck Stobbs who held Mickey to three singles in 27 official times at bat last season.

The Cincinnati Reds, meanwhile, finally scored their first victory of 1957 when they defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-6. The Reds led 14 hits and took advantage of six errors. In addition, they beat Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, who topped them five times last year.

The Cincinnati Reds, meanwhile, finally scored their first victory of 1957 when they defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-6. The Reds led 14 hits and took advantage of six errors. In addition, they beat Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, who topped them five times last year.

Mantle's homer gave the Yankees a 2-0 third-inning lead and the world champions wrapped up their fourth win in five games with a seven-run outburst in the sixth which was featured by Hank Bauer's grand slam and a triple steal with Billy

Martin on the scoring end. Whitey Ford yielded two runs in seven innings before retiring and picked up his second straight victory over the Senators.

Ed Bailey and Johnny Temple had three hits each to pace the Reds' attack which exceeded the run production of their four previous losses. Tom Aker, third of four Cincinnati pitchers, gained credit for the win although Raul Sanchez finished up. Stan Musial collected four hits for the Cardinals for his second time in five games.

The unbeaten Milwaukee Braves ran their winning streak to five games with a 9-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs; the Brooklyn Dodgers downed the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-1, and Willie Mays' three-run homer gave the New York Giants a 3-1 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the other National league games. The Kansas City Athletics topped the Detroit Tigers, 11-7, and the Baltimore Orioles scored a 7-5 decision over the Boston Red Sox in the other American league action.

Hank Aaron and Joe Adcock hit homers and Bill Bruton had three hits to lead a 10-hit Milwaukee attack that paved the way for Bob Buhl's first win. Bob Rush suffered his second straight setback of 1957. The Dodgers, opening their seven-game schedule in Jersey City, profited from three unearned runs as they won their fifth decision in six games. Roger Craig picked up the triumph although Clem Labine retired the last five batters. Ex-Giant Jim Hearn was the victim of Philadelphia's loose support.

Ruben Gomez made it two in a row this year with a neat six-hitter marred only by Hank Foiles' pop-fly homer. May's homer came off Luis Arroyo in the third inning and gave the Giant center fielder three for the young campaign.

The Athletics blew an early four-run lead, but rallied for four runs in the ninth on only two hits for their third win in six games. Harry Simpson and Lou Skizas homered for Kansas City while Bill Tuttle knocked in five Detroit runs with a three-run homer and two sacrifice flies.

Pinch-hitter Bob Hale's fifth-inning sacrifice fly and Willie Miranda's run-scoring single in the seventh gave the Orioles their victory margin over Boston's Tom Brewer. Mike Fornieles, who turned in 2 2/3 hitless innings of relief, gained credit for the victory.

Pinch-hitter Bob Hale's fifth-inning sacrifice fly and Willie Miranda's run-scoring single in the seventh gave the Orioles their victory margin over Boston's Tom Brewer. Mike Fornieles, who turned in 2 2/3 hitless innings of relief, gained credit for the victory.

Pinch-hitter Bob Hale's fifth-inning sacrifice fly and Willie Miranda's run-scoring single in the seventh gave the Orioles their victory margin over Boston's Tom Brewer. Mike Fornieles, who turned in 2 2/3 hitless innings of relief, gained credit for the victory.

Pinch-hitter Bob Hale's fifth-inning sacrifice fly and Willie Miranda's run-scoring single in the seventh gave the Orioles their victory margin over Boston's Tom Brewer. Mike Fornieles, who turned in 2 2/3 hitless innings of relief, gained credit for the victory.

Pinch-hitter Bob Hale's fifth-inning sacrifice fly and Willie Miranda's run-scoring single in the seventh gave the Orioles their victory margin over Boston's Tom Brewer. Mike Fornieles, who turned in 2 2/3 hitless innings of relief, gained credit for the victory.

Pinch-hitter Bob Hale's fifth-inning sacrifice fly and Willie Miranda's run-scoring single in the seventh gave the Orioles their victory margin over Boston's Tom Brewer. Mike Fornieles, who turned in 2 2/3 hitless innings of relief, gained credit for the victory.

Pinch-hitter Bob Hale's fifth-inning sacrifice fly and Willie Miranda's run-scoring single in the seventh gave the Orioles their victory margin over Boston's Tom Brewer. Mike Fornieles, who turned in 2 2/3 hitless innings of relief, gained credit for the victory.

Pinch-hitter Bob Hale's fifth-inning sacrifice fly and Willie Miranda's run-scoring single in the seventh gave the Orioles their victory margin over Boston's Tom Brewer. Mike Fornieles, who turned in 2 2/3 hitless innings of relief, gained credit for the victory.

Pinch-hitter Bob Hale's fifth-inning sacrifice fly and Willie Miranda's run-scoring single in the seventh gave the Orioles their victory margin over Boston's Tom Brewer. Mike Fornieles, who turned in 2 2/3 hitless innings of relief, gained credit for the victory.

Pinch-hitter Bob Hale's fifth-inning sacrifice fly and Willie Miranda's run-scoring single in the seventh gave the Orioles their victory margin over Boston's Tom Brewer. Mike Fornieles, who turned in 2 2/3 hitless innings of relief, gained credit for the victory.

Pinch-hitter Bob Hale's fifth-inning sacrifice fly and Willie Miranda's run-scoring single in the seventh gave the Orioles their victory margin over Boston's Tom Brewer. Mike Fornieles, who turned in 2 2/3 hitless innings of relief, gained credit for the victory.

Editor's note: With the start of another baseball season, minor league baseball faces the customary post-war competition from television and radio among its other problems of survival. George Trautman, president of the National Assn. of Professional Baseball Leagues, is optimistic about the future. However, in the following dispatch, he presents the reasons for his optimism.

By GEORGE M. TRAUTMAN
Minor Leagues President
Written by United Press
Columbus, Ohio—(U.P.)—I think it is high time that the people in baseball re-routed those storm clouds and began to get a little sunshine into their thinking.

There is too much irresponsible talk about how baseball below the major league level is dying on the vine, about how radio and television broadcasting are killing us at the gate, and about how we need the $500,000 stabilization fund for survival.

Those statements simply are not the truth. Throughout the structure of the National Assn. we have people who operate their franchises as successfully as the men who run teams in the major leagues. We recently completed a survey of pre-season ticket promotions and the results are most encouraging. In city after city sales were up substantially over the corresponding period a year ago.

The indications are that baseball at our level is due to make a comeback—perhaps a spectacular one. The reasons for that are obvious.

Our people, keenly aware of the competition in today's market for the entertainment dollar, are promoting baseball as never before. In fact, some of our big brothers in the majors could well take lessons from our clubs on how to sell the public.

A First-Class Product
We have a first-class product to sell all the way down through our Class D leagues. We have baseball's big stars of tomorrow hustling more vigorously and eagerly than some of today's big leaguers, who have been known to let down a little on occasions because they have made the grade.

In our communities the fans are being sold on the idea that the old ball park is the place to go for wholesome fresh-air recreation at a moderate price.

To be sure there are many clubs which have their problems. But we're scrappers. We're fighting back against the unfair competition of saturation radio broadcasting of major league games into our territory. We're battling to retrieve our 21-inch aluminum, the living room fans who left our parks temporarily because of the lure of the ball game on the TV set. And by intelligent promotion we are winning those fans back.

BREM HIRED
Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Trautman Optimistic About Baseball War With TV and Radio

Editor's note: With the start of another baseball season, minor league baseball faces the customary post-war competition from television and radio among its other problems of survival. George Trautman, president of the National Assn. of Professional Baseball Leagues, is optimistic about the future. However, in the following dispatch, he presents the reasons for his optimism.

By GEORGE M. TRAUTMAN
Minor Leagues President
Written by United Press
Columbus, Ohio—(U.P.)—I think it is high time that the people in baseball re-routed those storm clouds and began to get a little sunshine into their thinking.

There is too much irresponsible talk about how baseball below the major league level is dying on the vine, about how radio and television broadcasting are killing us at the gate, and about how we need the $500,000 stabilization fund for survival.

Those statements simply are not the truth. Throughout the structure of the National Assn. we have people who operate their franchises as successfully as the men who run teams in the major leagues. We recently completed a survey of pre-season ticket promotions and the results are most encouraging. In city after city sales were up substantially over the corresponding period a year ago.

The indications are that baseball at our level is due to make a comeback—perhaps a spectacular one. The reasons for that are obvious.

Our people, keenly aware of the competition in today's market for the entertainment dollar, are promoting baseball as never before. In fact, some of our big brothers in the majors could well take lessons from our clubs on how to sell the public.

A First-Class Product
We have a first-class product to sell all the way down through our Class D leagues. We have baseball's big stars of tomorrow hustling more vigorously and eagerly than some of today's big leaguers, who have been known to let down a little on occasions because they have made the grade.

In our communities the fans are being sold on the idea that the old ball park is the place to go for wholesome fresh-air recreation at a moderate price.

To be sure there are many clubs which have their problems. But we're scrappers. We're fighting back against the unfair competition of saturation radio broadcasting of major league games into our territory. We're battling to retrieve our 21-inch aluminum, the living room fans who left our parks temporarily because of the lure of the ball game on the TV set. And by intelligent promotion we are winning those fans back.

BREM HIRED
Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Albany—(U.P.)—Bailey Brem, former Oregon pitcher now coaching at Seaside, has been hired as head baseball coach at Albany high school.

Standings

Table with columns: National League, American League, W, L, Pct, GB. Lists standings for various teams like Milwaukee, Brooklyn, New York, St. Louis, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati.

Table with columns: National League, American League, W, L, Pct, GB. Lists Monday's results for Brooklyn 5, Philadelphia 1, New York 3, Pittsburgh 1, Milwaukee 9, Chicago 4, Cincinnati 10, St. Louis 6, night.

Table with columns: National League, American League, W, L, Pct, GB. Lists Pacific Coast League standings for Vancouver, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, San Diego, Hollywood, Sacramento, Portland.

Table with columns: National League, American League, W, L, Pct, GB. Lists Monday's results for Vancouver 6, Sacramento 1, only game scheduled.

Table with columns: National League, American League, W, L, Pct, GB. Lists How Series Ended for Vancouver 5, Sacramento 1.

Table with columns: National League, American League, W, L, Pct, GB. Lists How Series Ended for Vancouver 5, Sacramento 1.

Table with columns: National League, American League, W, L, Pct, GB. Lists How Series Ended for Vancouver 5, Sacramento 1.

Table with columns: National League, American League, W, L, Pct, GB. Lists How Series Ended for Vancouver 5, Sacramento 1.

Table with columns: National League, American League, W, L, Pct, GB. Lists How Series Ended for Vancouver 5, Sacramento 1.

Table with columns: National League, American League, W, L, Pct, GB. Lists How Series Ended for Vancouver 5, Sacramento 1.

Table with columns: National League, American League, W, L, Pct, GB. Lists How Series Ended for Vancouver 5, Sacramento 1.

Table with columns: National League, American League, W, L, Pct, GB. Lists How Series Ended for Vancouver 5, Sacramento 1.

Table with columns: National League, American League, W, L, Pct, GB. Lists How Series Ended for Vancouver 5, Sacramento 1.

Table with columns: National League, American League, W, L, Pct, GB. Lists How Series Ended for Vancouver 5, Sacramento 1.

Fanfare

By DICK JEWETT
Mail Tribune Sports Editor

It's still early in the collegiate track and field season and Ed Bingham, ex-Medford high javelin thrower now at University of Oregon, should be considered a definite threat to exceed the 234-foot 1/2-inch school record at Oregon set by Boyd Brown in 1939. Ed's 226-9/2 against Washington last Saturday puts him within striking distance. The next few weeks will indicate whether he can throw up near that distance consistently.

Bingham's Saturday cast was the best of his life in addition to setting a meet record. So far as this writer can recall the 226-9/2 represents the best heave by a Medford high product.

Oregon's May 4 meet with Oregon State could mean an interesting duel between Bingham and Don Clay, ex-Jacksonville high, now at OSC.

Jack Morris another ex-Medford, won his 220-yard low hurdle specialty for Oregon against Washington Saturday but Steve Anderson, the Tacoma, has stolen the thunder from Jack in his other main race of last year, the century.

Bingham, Morris, Dave Newland in the pole vault, Jeff Williams in the distances and Jack Moad in the shot put give Medford a representation of five men on the Duck squad.

The Oregon State press book lists Medford as the address of three throwers. However, only one of the three, vaulter Benson Foley, is ex-Medford high. Clay, of course, was a Jacksonville prep and half-miler and Cliff Cordy attended Crater high.

Cordy established a new meet standard and school record in the 880-yarder against Washington State last week-end. His time of 1:54.8 compared to the 1:57.1 he ran against Idaho the week before.

Two Medford Cheney Studs last summer are wielding potent bats for Oregon and Oregon State this spring. Terry Maddox, ex-Medford high, a U of O outfielder, sparked his team to a Friday triumph over OSC with three hits and four runs knocked in. Twink Pederson, Salem, Beaver shortstop helped the Orange win cause against the Webfoots Saturday with three hits. He got two hits on Friday and batted five for 10 for the two days. Twink is pacing the Beaver hitting.

Medford has players occupying the No. 3 and 4 spots on the Oregon State college golf team with Larry Cople and Warren Deakins making the grade as sophomores. Both won their singles against U of O last Friday. Deakins was on a winning ball ball duo with Leighton Tuttle, ex-Eugene, and Cople combined with Lee Grant to tie in a match. Carole Jo Kabler, Sutherlin, the Southern Oregon champ, is No. 1 on the Oregon freshman team.

This department was a day late in getting a Glendale-Illinois Valley high baseball game into print last week because the Glendale scorebook had been taken in a car which was involved in a wreck.

It would have been some marathon. A story in the Oregon Journal of Portland Saturday said that Medford high would be a participant in a four-day track meet. The story had reference to a four-school meet.

Wes Stauffer Prospect high coach, has submitted his resignation.

Moscow, Idaho—(U.P.)—Washington's Huskies, behind the four hit pitching of George Kritsonis, edged Idaho 2-1 in a Northern Division baseball game Monday. The victory put the Huskies half a game in front of the pack with a 2-1 record.

It's still early in the collegiate track and field season and Ed Bingham, ex-Medford high javelin thrower now at University of Oregon, should be considered a definite threat to exceed the 234-foot 1/2-inch school record at Oregon set by Boyd Brown in 1939. Ed's 226-9/2 against Washington last Saturday puts him within striking distance. The next few weeks will indicate whether he can throw up near that distance consistently.

Bingham's Saturday cast was the best of his life in addition to setting a meet record. So far as this writer can recall the 226-9/2 represents the best heave by a Medford high product.

Oregon's May 4 meet with Oregon State could mean an interesting duel between Bingham and Don Clay, ex-Jacksonville high, now at OSC.

Jack Morris another ex-Medford, won his 220-yard low hurdle specialty for Oregon against Washington Saturday but Steve Anderson, the Tacoma, has stolen the thunder from Jack in his other main race of last year, the century.

Bingham, Morris, Dave Newland in the pole vault, Jeff Williams in the distances and Jack Moad in the shot put give Medford a representation of five men on the Duck squad.

The Oregon State press book lists Medford as the address of three throwers. However, only one of the three, vaulter Benson Foley, is ex-Medford high. Clay, of course, was a Jacksonville prep and half-miler and Cliff Cordy attended Crater high.

Cordy established a new meet standard and school record in the 880-yarder against Washington State last week-end. His time of 1:54.8 compared to the 1:57.1 he ran against Idaho the week before.

Two Medford Cheney Studs last summer are wielding potent bats for Oregon and Oregon State this spring. Terry Maddox, ex-Medford high, a U of O outfielder, sparked his team to a Friday triumph over OSC with three hits and four runs knocked in. Twink Pederson, Salem, Beaver shortstop helped the Orange win cause against the Webfoots Saturday with three hits. He got two hits on Friday and batted five for 10 for the two days. Twink is pacing the Beaver hitting.

Medford has players occupying the No. 3 and 4 spots on the Oregon State college golf team with Larry Cople and Warren Deakins making the grade as sophomores. Both won their singles against U of O last Friday. Deakins was on a winning ball ball duo with Leighton Tuttle, ex-Eugene, and Cople combined with Lee Grant to tie in a match. Carole Jo Kabler, Sutherlin, the Southern Oregon champ, is No. 1 on the Oregon freshman team.

This department was a day late in getting a Glendale-Illinois Valley high baseball game into print last week because the Glendale scorebook had been taken in a car which was involved in a wreck.

It would have been some marathon. A story in the Oregon Journal of Portland Saturday said that Medford high would be a participant in a four-day track meet. The story had reference to a four-school meet.

Wes Stauffer Prospect high coach, has submitted his resignation.

Moscow, Idaho—(U.P.)—Washington's Huskies, behind the four hit pitching of George Kritsonis, edged Idaho 2-1 in a Northern Division baseball game Monday. The victory put the Huskies half a game in front of the pack with a 2-1 record.

Moscow, Idaho—(U.P.)—Washington's Huskies, behind the four hit pitching of George Kritsonis, edged Idaho 2-1 in a Northern Division baseball game Monday. The victory put the Huskies half a game in front of the pack with a 2-1 record.

Chief Frosh Top Phoenix Dorish, Held Top Coast Pitchers

Rogue River — Rogue River high freshmen defeated Phoenix 73 to 44 yesterday in a dual track meet here.

The Chief Frosh took clear cut first places in 10 of the 13 events.

Doug Stewart was the big victor with first in three events for Rogue River. He won the shot put with 48-3, the discus with 93-2 and the javelin with 140 feet.

Gary Chriss took the unshared Phoenix firsts with :11.15 in the 75-yard high hurdles and :18.7 in the 140-yard low hurdles.

Double Victors
Double wins for RR were scored by Larry Goosey and Ed Johnson. Goosey took the 75-yard dash in .09, and the 160 in :18.4. Johnson went 9 feet in the pole vault and toured the 300-yard run in :38.6.

Dave Carter, Rogue River, tied at 5-2 with Dave Hamilton, Phoenix, in the high jump, and captured the 660 run in 1:42.2. Neil Wagner won the broad jump for the Chieftains with 17-7 1/2 and Larry Horn, Rogue River, had first in the 1320 with 4:09.

The Rogue River varsity had an engagement as host to Illinois Valley this afternoon. Earlier in the season the meet had been listed for Friday.

RVL Umpires Set Meeting Softball Group Meets Thursday

A meeting of prospective umpires for the Rogue Valley baseball league has been called for Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the office of the Cheney Lumber Co. in Central Point, it was announced today.

Anyone interested in umpiring in the league is invited to the meeting. Those selected to umpire will be assigned to games throughout the season and will be paid $10 when umpiring behind the plate and $8 when umpiring on the bases, the announcement said.

League directors and team managers will meet at the same location Sunday at 2 p.m. at which time final plans for the forthcoming season will be drawn.

Admittance of Butte Falls to the league, making seven teams in the schedule, changes opening day from June 9 to May 26 with the season to conclude on Aug. 25.

Admittance of Butte Falls to the league, making seven teams in the schedule, changes opening day from June 9 to May 26 with the season to conclude on Aug. 25.

Pittsburgh, Giant Managers Continue 'Feudin, Fighting'

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer
New York—(U.P.)—Bill Rigney of the Giants and Bobby Bragan of the Pirates are a feudin' and a fightin' again.

A curt "to hell with him," directed by Rigney at Bragan when the Pittsburgh manager sought the use of the Polo Grounds for some post-game batting practice Monday, re-ignited the feud which has been going on since Bragan picked the Giants to finish last this spring.

Following Pittsburgh's 3-1 loss to the Giants Monday, Rigney received word in his clubhouse office that Bragan desired permission to use the field so that three of his players—Dick Groat, Paul Smith and Hank Foiles—could get in some extra batting practice.

"To Hell With Him"
"So we're a last-place club, eh?" Rigney snapped. "To hell with him. The answer is 'No'." When Rigney's message was relayed back to Bragan, the Pittsburgh pilot declared:

"He can expect the same treatment when he comes to Pittsburgh. I have a feeling he's going to need extra batting practice worse than we will. And I still say he's going to finish last."

Meanwhile, back at the ranch . . . er . . . in the Giants' quarters, that is, Rigney somehow got word of Bragan's comment and said, "He's probably mad because he didn't think of it first."

In all his years as a manager, Bragan said he had never previously been refused permission to use a field for batting practice following a game.

Respects Paid To Bill Sweeney

Arcadia, Calif.—(U.P.)—Several hundred friends and baseball associates paid last respects Monday to veteran baseball figure Bill Sweeney, who spent 19 of his 32 years in baseball as manager of four Pacific Coast League clubs.

Sweeney was manager of the Portland Beavers when he died Thursday at San Diego following emergency surgery for an ulcer. He was 52.

Interment was held at Resurrection Cemetery in nearby San Gabriel following requiem mass at the Church of the Holy Angels here.

The active pall bearers were Frank Carswell, acting manager of the Portland team; L. H. Gregory, of the Portland Oregonian; Tippy Berg, Portland trainer, and Luis Marquez, Jack Littrell and Sam Calderone, Portland players.

The active pall bearers were Frank Carswell, acting manager of the Portland team; L. H. Gregory, of the Portland Oregonian; Tippy Berg, Portland trainer, and Luis Marquez, Jack Littrell and Sam Calderone, Portland players.

The active pall bearers were Frank Carswell, acting manager of the Portland team; L. H. Gregory, of the Portland Oregonian; Tippy Berg, Portland trainer, and Luis Marquez, Jack Littrell and Sam Calderone, Portland players.

The active pall bearers were Frank Carswell, acting manager of the Portland team; L. H. Gregory, of the Portland Oregonian; Tippy Berg, Portland trainer, and Luis Marquez, Jack Littrell and Sam Calderone, Portland players.

The active pall bearers were Frank Carswell, acting manager of the Portland team; L. H. Gregory, of the Portland Oregonian; Tippy Berg, Portland trainer, and Luis Marquez, Jack Littrell and Sam Calderone, Portland players.

The active pall bearers were Frank Carswell, acting manager of the Portland team; L. H. Gregory, of the Portland Oregonian; Tippy Berg, Portland trainer, and Luis Marquez, Jack Littrell and Sam Calderone, Portland players.

The active pall bearers were Frank Carswell, acting manager of the Portland team; L. H. Gregory, of the Portland Oregonian; Tippy Berg, Portland trainer, and Luis Marquez, Jack Littrell and Sam Calderone, Portland players.

The active pall bearers were Frank Carswell, acting manager of the Portland team; L. H. Gregory, of the Portland Oregonian; Tippy Berg, Portland trainer, and Luis Marquez, Jack Littrell and Sam Calderone, Portland players.

The active pall bearers were Frank Carswell, acting manager of the Portland team; L. H. Gregory, of the Portland Oregonian; Tippy Berg, Portland trainer, and Luis Marquez, Jack Littrell and Sam Calderone, Portland players.

The active pall bearers were Frank Carswell, acting manager of the Portland team; L. H. Gregory, of the Portland Oregonian; Tippy Berg, Portland trainer, and Luis Marquez, Jack Littrell and Sam Calderone, Portland players.

The active pall bearers were Frank Carswell, acting manager of the Portland team; L. H. Gregory, of the Portland Oregonian; Tippy Berg, Portland trainer, and Luis Marquez, Jack Littrell and Sam Calderone, Portland players.

The active pall bearers were Frank Carswell, acting manager of the Portland team; L. H. Gregory, of the Portland Oregonian; Tippy Berg, Portland trainer, and Luis Marquez, Jack Littrell and Sam Calderone, Portland players.

The active pall bearers were Frank Carswell, acting manager of the Portland team; L. H. Gregory, of the Portland Oregonian; Tippy Berg, Portland trainer, and Luis Marquez, Jack Littrell and Sam Calderone, Portland players.

The active pall bearers were Frank Carswell, acting manager of the Portland team; L. H. Gregory, of the Portland Oregonian; Tippy Berg, Portland trainer, and Luis Marquez, Jack Littrell and Sam Calderone, Portland players.

The active pall bearers were Frank Carswell, acting manager of the Portland team; L. H. Gregory, of the Portland Oregonian; Tippy Berg, Portland trainer, and Luis Marquez, Jack Littrell and Sam Calderone, Portland players.