

HORNBROOK Great Blue Herons Nesting

By MRS. H. H. CHAPMAN

Hornbrook—Residents of the Henley area of Hornbrook are being treated to a rare sight these days. A colony of eight to 12 great blue herons has moved into the row of tall pine trees in the cemetery. Herp, far from the usual location of their rookeries along the banks of streams or in marshy places, they are busy building their weird-looking nests.

Seldom have they been seen around here this far inland from the Klamath river. There, on the old Horn ranch, at the mouth of Cottonwood creek, they have built their nests in old weather-beaten snags of dead trees.

Several young people were home from college for the Easter vacation. From Chico State they were Arlene Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arden Burns; "Pinky" and Merna Cummins, Bill Jeter, and Glen Shinar. "Chuck" Dilley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Dilley, is home this week from Arizona State at Tempe. His father, who is presently employed in Reno, also was home for the week end. The Arden Burns family were dinner guests of the Dilleys Easter Sunday.

The Rev. Dan Cullinan of St. Joseph's Catholic church in Yreka was an Easter dinner guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Al Gregory.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Shively of Glendale, Calif., and Mrs. William Wilson of Oakland were overnight guests Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Jeter. Mrs. Shively is Jeter's sister.

Matt Johnson accompanied by his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hansen, all of Oakland, Calif., spent the week end here at Johnson's place on old Highway 99. Johnson plans to return soon to take up residence here again.

Mrs. Mollie Cole, Hornbrook justice of the peace, returned home Saturday from San Carlos, Calif., where she had been convalescing from her recent serious illness, at the home of her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Seagraves. Her other daughter, Mrs. Helen Clark, also of San Carlos, brought her home. They were accompanied by Mrs. Clark's daughter, Dorian, and a friend, Theo Terwilliger.

Mrs. Florence Grieve observed her 89th birthday April 10. She has been a resident of Hornbrook for 58 years. Several friends visited her, among them Mrs. Gladys Knott and granddaughter, Vicki Knott, and Mrs. Emma Brown, all of Ashland, and several local people.

Miss Lillian Rawhouser spent Easter week end with her father, Joe Rawhouser, in Eagle Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Dungey and children, Mary Pat and Christopher, of Medford were Easter dinner guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chapman.

Weeds and Herbicides

BY RAY HUBBELL

County Weed Control Supervisor The weed problem is not an individual problem. It soon becomes a community problem. Interest and concern regarding it may extend to state and national levels.

A farmer who uses impure seed, sells weedy hay (two good ways to spread weed seed) or allows weeds to maintain themselves and mature in his fields and fence rows becomes a menace to the entire community. Any factor which tends to detract materially from the wealth or welfare of any considerable section becomes a state problem. Since such factors enter into interstate or international relationships, they become of national importance.

Importation Act
The United States Importation act of 1912 applies to seeds brought into the United States from other countries. Its object is to prevent importation of foreign weeds. The majority of states now have weed laws to protect them from introduction of new weeds, or to provide for eradication of those which have already proved objectionable.

The law which was passed in 1921 by the Oregon Legislature provides for dividing the state into weed control districts. Jackson county's weed control district was formed in 1938. No specific weeds were named, but in each district formed, the county court provides a list of noxious weeds. The duty of the weed control supervisor is to destroy or supervise destruction of these weeds.

Control Program
Following is the list of weeds Jackson county is attempting to control: white top, Russian knapweed, leafy spurge, puncture vine, Canada thistle, white cockle and marlahan mustard. With permission of property owners, these will be controlled wherever they are found.

A general broad leaf weed control is maintained on all county roads with special consideration given the following: spiny cocklebur, cocklebur, chicory, morning glory, star thistle, poison hemlock, wild carrot and rag weed.

Weed control districts alone cannot eradicate the weed pests from any state. There should be a sense of responsibility on the part of every citizen regarding this problem. A community which urges seed testing and use of ure seed, encourages clean fields and roadsides and insists on intelligent handling of the problem can go far in solving it. Not only farmers, but all other citizens and future citizens should learn to know troublesome weeds so those already established may be controlled by the most efficient methods and new weeds be recognized and destroyed before becoming a problem.

Following articles in this series may help to identify some of these problem weeds in Jackson county.

DESIGNED FOR BRIDES

Brides who want a change from traditional white can choose from wedding gowns in combinations of pale yellow and white or gray and white embroidery on pink, as well as all-over pink or ice blue gowns.

GO NAUTICAL

Nautical themes are liked in junior spring fashions. Examples are middie blouses, much use of navy and white, braid trimmings and sailor shoulder bows.

SURPLICE STYLED

Graceful newcomer among cashmere sweaters is a surplice style which buttons just at the waist, with three large pearl buttons. Cross-over front closing is outlined in a wide band of self cashmere.
