Suggestions Pay Eastman Employees

Rochester, N.Y. —(U.P.)— Employees of Eastman Kodak Co. benefited to the tune of $350,000 in 1956 for suggestions used in the business.

The firm's 59-year-old suggestion system, one of the oldest in the country, is designed to reward Kodak workers for ideas that result in improved products, cut costs, better manufacturing methods or increase plant safety.

The record payoff last year was $13,000 above the previous high set in 1955.

Biggest award of $5,000 was presented jointly to Edgar A. Dill and Frank O. Beuckman, whose suggestions concerned a way to inspect machine parts prior to installation.

Dog Vaccination To Eliminate Rabies

Dixon Springs, Ill. —(U.P.)— A University of Illinois veterinarian says the first important step toward eliminating rabies is an annual vaccination of dogs.

"Great Britain, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Holland, Australia and Hawaii have eliminated rabies by following a strict muzzling, licensing and quarantine program for dogs," said Dr. M. E. Mansfield, attached to the Dixon Springs experimentation station. "The same thing can be done here. But everyone must cooperate."

Mansfield said present laws are directed toward cutting out or at least cutting down rabies in dogs. He says dogs are one of the most numerous carriers of the disease.

"Notify a veterinarian whenever an animal is suspected of having rabies," Mansfield said. "Humans exposed to rabid animals should contact a doctor without delay. Early treatment of people bitten by rabid dogs is effective but delay may be fatal."

Mansfield listed the following early symptoms of rabies: irritability, tendency to fight, appetite for odd things.

"These symptoms are followed by excitement, restlessness and vicious attacks," he said, "with the final result being paralysis and death."

Registered Holstein's Production Sets Record

Brattleboro, Vt. —(U.P.)— A young registered Holstein owned by Jack R. Budd, Beleville, Mich., has produced three times as much milk and butterfat in a year as the average U. S. dairy cow.

The Holstein-Friesian Association said the "hard-working" Holstein, Budd Farm Mistree Little Jo., produced 21,468 pounds of milk and 1,046 pounds of butterfat.

This is a new high for junior two-year-olds milked three times daily, the association said.

The cow hit her peak, the association said in the fourth month when she averaged more than 78 pounds of milk a day.

COINCIDENCE

Fulton, Ky. —(U.P.)— Mr. and Mrs. Cullen Tuck felt right at home when they moved into a new neighborhood. The couple next door was married on the same day as the Tucks, their first child was a girl, as was the Tucks' and both children were born on Christmas Day. Also, the second child of both couples was a girl and each was born Oct. 8.

Too Much Emphasis Said Put on Degrees

Grand Rapids, Mich. —(U.P.)— The retiring director of Grand Rapids' public health nurses says there is "too much emphasis on college degrees for nurses."

"Nursing is a day-to-day proposition; it is not spectacular or glamorous," said Mrs. Mary Otterbein, who retires June 1.

"Many nurses today are too busy doing things other than their principal task, which is helping the patient. I can't see making every nurse a teacher."

Mrs. Otterbein was a registered nurse 21 years before receiving her high school diploma in 1933, but since then she has enrolled in college extension courses.

LIGHT BRICKS

Chicago —(U.P.)— A brick aggregate light enough to float in water has been developed by Armour Research Foundation. The Foundation said lower freight costs made possible by the weight of the brick aggregate may bring brick construction into competition with frame buildings.

Plastic pipe is elastic and water freezing within the pipe will not cause bursting.

Cosmic Rays Get Special Treatment

Ithaca, N.Y. —(U.P.)— Cosmic rays that fall on Cornell University are getting special treatment.

The rays are being recorded and measured in an elaborate counter network covering half a square mile of the campus. Fifteen counters have been set up at points in widening circles around the Newman Laboratory of Nuclear Studies. A central station in the laboratory receives and records impulses from all the counters.

Prof. Kenneth Griesen, who directs the projects under a National Science Foundation grant, said the aim is to get information about primary cosmic rays of higher energy than have yet been investigated. The most powerful ones so far detected have an energy of about one foot-pound—100 billion billion electron volts. Griesen said about one of these powerful rays can be expected each month in the area covered by the Cornell counters.
