Dope Charge At Cal Track

San Mateo, Calif. —(U.P.)—The booming California horse racing industry was rocked today with doping charges and the state racing commission awaited a Bay Meadows report on the case of trainer Reggie Cornell, one of the nation's top conditioners. Cornell was suspended by the Bay Meadows stewards Thursday for allegedly stimulating a horse named Drifting Abbey in the first race last Tuesday—a race the filly won by five lengths.

"I don't deny that the horse obviously was stimulated," said Cornell, a 35-year-old horseman who has a public stable of 70 thoroughbreds. "But I didn't do it. I tell you I didn't do it—and I didn't give instructions for anyone else to do it. I can't account for it at all."

Tendency might be to consider the three-way cinder and field tussle here Saturday just another track meet. But the fast times and good distances recorded in previous engagements and the contests which loom in several events give promise of a sparkling and entertaining program for followers of the oval sport. Medford is host to Crater and Ashland high schools for a varsity meeting set for 1:30 p.m. At the same time a dual ruckus between McLoughlin and Ashland ninth graders will be staged.

Among the top rivalries will be the duel in the dashes between Medford's Lorin Christean and Crater's George Juveland. There'll be another javelin toss battle with Medford's Eldon Francis against the Crater twins, Gary and Larry Smith. In the pole vault Don Goyette of Crater's Comets is the favorite but John Harvey of Medford's Black Tornado now has an 11-foot vault recorded and will be a contender in that event. Jim Witt of Ashland will challenge the Tornado's Mike Russell and Pete Kershaw in the quarter-mile and another Grizzly, Jim Busch will go out against Medford's potent half-mile two-some, Bilbee Lane and Les Lingscheit.

University of Oregon, Eugene —Four new leaders appeared in the top Northern division track and field marks at the end of the third week of competition and 14 of the 45 top performances were bettered as Oregon continued to dominate the 1957 season.

Steve Anderson of the Ducks took over the 100-yard dash with a brilliant 9.5 and is one of the two men to hold top spot in two events. Idaho's Ray Hatton, who was idle in conference competition, still leads in the mile and two-mile. Steve Frye of Washington State took top honors in the shot put as all three places changed in the event. Ron Smart of Oregon State jumped into the discus lead. Oregon's Ed Bingham became the javelin leader with the best toss in his career, 226 feet, 9 1/2 inches, and Oregon State's Wayne Moss became top man in the high jump.
