

School Work Exhibited For PTA

Central Point — More than 125 students exhibited their work for the large group of members and friends of Crater High School Parent Teacher association attending the last meeting of this school, April 22.

The art department displayed featured the work of 41 students with many showing several drawings. Still life, landscapes and portraits were expressed in various media. Ceramics, carving and textile painting gave added interest. Many "certificates of merit" given by the Scholastic Art Awards committee in Portland were in evidence and Warren Holbrook explained that the best six sketches were now in Pittsburg, Pa., for national judging, also that Miss Ruth Thurmond's prize winning photograph had been entered in a national competition.

The industrial art exhibit included house plans and model homes designed by 29 members of William MacFarlane's mechanical drawing class, and his general shop classes were represented by a trailer for farm use, a jet engine and a fireplace set.

A total of 75 projects were on display by 51 workshop students under the leadership of Charles Moore. Their excellent work included cedar chest, inlaid tile top coffee tables, beds, desks, bookcases, gun racks, a gun cabinet, lamps and beautifully grained bread and cutting boards.

Members of physics, chemistry and general science classes, directed by Clarence Miller, were the noisiest group as they demonstrated the use of the vacuum tube in electronics, as well as various uses of salt, sulphur, the atom and nuclear energy and weather phenomena.

Before the doors of the gymnasium were opened for these displays, new officers were installed by Mrs. Thomas Eaton, president of Howard PTA and vice-president of the Jackson County Council of Parent-Teacher associations. Mrs. Lewis Kilbourn is the new president, Mrs. Chester Ashton, first vice-president, Clinton Charley, second vice-president, Mrs. Earl Sands, secretary, and Albert Piche, treasurer.

Retiring president, Mrs. Clifford Cordy, conducted a business meeting, during which Mrs. Claude Thompson, for Mr. Thompson, legislative chairman, gave a progress report on the bills affecting our schools. Superintendent Howard P.

More than 90 women from Jackson and Josephine county schools attended the school for school cooks at Hedrick Junior High school last Saturday. Above Miss Una R. Mrs. Una Inch, assistant superintendent of Jackson county schools, and Miss Janet Butterworth, state supervisor of school lunch program from Salem. The program was divided into three parts. Besides the sandwiches a Lemon-Tuna bake and a Lemon-Prune pudding were demonstrated using commodities furnished by the government.

Artists Win AAUW Ribbons

Three entries from Medford won ribbons in the art show which was a part of the annual convention of Oregon division, American Association of University Women. The convention was held April 25-27 in Baker, in conjunction with the North Pacific Regional conference of AAUW.

"Straw Flowers," a lithograph by Miss Kathy Fonkin, was awarded a blue ribbon. Another entry by Miss Fonkin, "Still Life Number 10" a watercolor, won second prize. Mrs. Fred E. Rankin won a second prize with "Landscape Abstract," an oil.

These pictures will be on display in the Medford public library for the next two weeks. Both artists are members of the Southern Oregon Society of Artists.

Attending the convention were Mrs. Frances Willett, president of the Medford branch; Mrs. A. J. Johansson, president-elect and Mrs. Harry Chipman, vice-president elect.

Dr. Anna L. Rose Hawkes, president of the national American Association of University Women, was the main convention speaker. Mrs. R. Willard Duncan, Klamath Falls, Oregon president, presided at the one-day state meeting. Mrs. C. D. Winston, Ashland, regional vice-president, officiated at the intrastate conference which 200 delegates from 52 branches in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana attended.

The association president reviewed the recommendations of the survey committee which include the addition of four new committees: program development and research, mass media, membership and higher education.

Following Dr. Hawkes' address and a long, heated debate, Oregon delegates caucused and in a 40-21 vote, turned down a recommendation to oppose the abolishment of the national legislative and status of women committees. Also opposed, 36-27, was a recommendation favoring retention of the national legislative committee. The action left the door open for delegates to the national convention to decide the issue.

Oregon delegates elected the following officers for the next two-year term: Miss Maurine Laber, Portland, president; Mrs. Carl Brandenfels, St. Helens, vice-president (current state treasurer and chairman of the national convention); Mrs. Gerald Whitney, Pendleton, treasurer; Mrs. R. Norman Hukari,

State delegates set a precedent in the designation of fellowship funds when they voted to honor presidents and past presidents of the state organization by naming fellowship funds in their honor. The first women so honored are Mrs. Duncan, current president, and Mrs. Robert Y. Thornton, past president from Salem, for each of whom a $500 unit was named.

Total fellowship funds of $6,436 were reported by Mrs. William Niskanen, state fellowship chairman, Bend. Units of $500 were received from several branches, including Medford.

The remainder of the fund, $438, was designated as a start for a $2,000 living fellowship, a new goal in the state organization's fellowship program.

In a report Friday on the President's San Francisco Conference on "Education Beyond High School," Dr. Elmo Stevenson, president of Southern Oregon college and a delegate to the conference, emphasized the need for strong participation and support by laymen, and told AAUW members they would "be called upon to help solve the problems confronting education."
