

NEWS NOTES from Medford High School

Edited by James Boyd; staff: Jacques Colton, Linda Robertson, and Bob Bright.

It is now less than a week until the junior-senior prom, and the tension mounts every day as dates are confirmed or refused. The study halls are buzzing with a continual and confidential, "You should see my new dress!" or, "Those girls don't realize how hard it is to rent a white dinner jacket!"

The junior prom committees have been meeting frequently to make the final plans for the big event. They have guarded the theme particularly well this year. There haven't even been rumors about it.

The Medford Lions club and the YMCA have planned an after-prom party which will begin immediately after the dance and continue until the "wee small" hours of the morning. All YMCA facilities will be available for those who attend and a substantial breakfast will be served between 2 and 3 a.m.

The junior-senior banquet at the Jackson hotel, general chairman Don Strong reports, will be open to all who do not attend the prom. This banquet and variety show is being sponsored by about ten of the valley's churches and is designed to supplement the prom.

The event, starting at 7:30 p.m., May 11, is being advised by the Rev. Hadden Robinson, youth director of the First Baptist church, and committee heads are Terry Hughes and Jerry Kime.

Have you been present during an operation, even if you didn't watch? Twenty members of the Future Nurses of America and their adviser, Mrs. Juanita Anderson, watched a minor surgery at the Veterans hospital when they toured the buildings April 30.

After viewing the surgery and the rooms connected with it, Miss K. N. Stuhr showed the girls various other points of interest.

Five Medford High students presented with watches at the Elk's Youth Day activities last Thursday. Pat Leek, Sue Donna Doolen, Bill Frake, Bruce West, and John Reeder were the honored students.

After the presentation the students adjourned to the Elk's party room where there was dancing and refreshments. As one student put it, "Those Elks sure know teenagers. They left the dance floor nice and dark."

The party must have been a success.

Salesman Turns Table In Divorce Suit Case

Hollywood — (U.P.) — Donald W. Miller, 31, a salesman, has turned the tables on the usual course of events in domestic relations court.

Miller Friday asked $850 monthly alimony from his actress-wife, Beverly Miller, on charges that she had "discouraged" him from working since their marriage in 1954.

Chain Letters Illegal, Postmaster Declares

Chain letters, whether or not they make an appeal for money, are considered illegal by the post office department, according to Postmaster Moore Hamilton.

A new one, which is a "prayer for luck," has been reported received in Medford, and the postmaster's comment was with reference to it.

At the worst, the chain letters are out-and-out frauds and rackets, and at best are nuisances, the postal official declared. Some of them prey upon superstitions, or religious fears or prejudices, and the post office department has declared them all illegal, he said.

The one reported being received in Medford promises the recipient "good luck within four days" if the "chain remains unbroken," and urges that four more identical letters be mailed out "within 24 hours."

Pakistan, Philippines Reaffirmed Peace Move

Manila — (U.P.) — Pakistan and the Philippines Saturday reaffirmed their determination to strengthen the fabric of peace and freedom in this part of the world.

A joint statement issued by Filipino President Carlos P. Garcia and Pakistan Prime Minister Hussein Shaheed Suhrawardy said the two countries would coordinate efforts for collective defense and work together for independence, higher living standards and social progress of other nations.
