Other charter officers elected were Jim Wallis, first vice-president; Pete Flury, second vice-president; John Ousterhout, secretary and Ted Greb, treasurer. This is the 75th chapter to be organized in the state of Oregon. Plans have been made for the participation in the state convention at Portland May 3 and 4.

Attendance of the meetings thus far have averaged 15. Some of the suggested projects brought up for discussion were sidewalks for B and C streets, proposed economy and safety runs, church directories and road signs. Plans are being made for the charter banquet to be held in the elementary school cafeteria May 18.

The Singing Bluebird group, who were scheduled to appear on the Uncle Bill show this past Tuesday had to cancel their plans due to the majority of their number coming down with measles. Barring further complications, the youngsters will join Uncle Bill Wednesday, May 22.

Many cases of measles and chicken-pox have been showing up in Eagle Point elementary school. It is reported that measles spread to about a 50 per cent of the students in the primary grades, along with the chicken pox, which are now showing up in the upper grades. News and Notes From Camp White

By SID HOLLINGSWORTH

Two instances were noted in the past week at the V.A. domiciliary of attention that is being given in Medford and vicinity to guidance of young people.

The Red Cross, following a line of entertainment started recently with a square dance, brought out a group of boys last week who are being trained by the PAL club, promoted by the Medford Police department to encourage athletics among teenagers.

It was a boxing show, and the young boxers were introduced by two representatives of the police department, and accompanied by a Beta Sigma Phi sorority escort.

Another visit and tour was made by the Future Nurses' club of Medford High school. There were 25 girls from the Medford school and seven from the Talent school.

Juanita Anderson is their advisor and conducts the tours through the hospitals as part of their routine at this stage. They are not trained as yet, but are being made familiar with the duties and responsibilities of the profession. Some of them have worked as nurses' aides.

Mrs. L. L. Neifert, one of the mothers, was in charge of the Talent school girls. Eligibility for the club status in the sophomore class, while at Medford they must be juniors or seniors to join the club.

Miss Grace Stuhr, chief nurse, conducted the group on the tour. They presented her a potted plant which was given to the library.

Quite frequently, members of the same family turn up at Camp White. There have been brothers, and fathers and sons, but at present a grandfather and a grandson are members of the domiciliary.

Both are named James, but the grandfather is Helms and the grandson's last name is Geeseman. Helms was in the Navy in World War I, stationed at the Great Lakes and at Brooklyn Navy Yard. His grandson spent five years in the Army during World War II.

Thirty-three states, Alaska, British Columbia and the District of Columbia were represented in the domiciliary membership last year, according to records which have been made public.

Oregon leads as the home state of 483 men, with the state of Washington second with 183. California is third with 102 listed. Nevada follows with 30, Idaho with 23, Montana with 15 and Texas with 11.

The number coming from Alaska was given at 18. One each hails from Vancouver, B.C., and Washington, D. C.

A considerable amount of Canadian money in denominations of nickels, dimes and pennies goes into circulation at the domiciliary, as elsewhere in this part of the country.

The Canteen accepts this in trade, since it corresponds so closely with the American equivalent. The candy machines, however, are not geared to handle Dominion money and some operating trouble has been experienced.

The other day, a member brought back to the canteen store a new coin. He had no trouble in disposing of it as a curiosity. It bore the familiar British inscription, and came from Anglo Egyptian Sudan in Africa.

Announcement has been made that the Hobby Fair this year will be held Sunday, May 19, in the Arts and Crafts wing of the domiciliary. The fair will open at 10 a.m. and the doors will close at 5 p.m.

As in former years, the public has been invited, and special arrangements have been made to conduct tours of the grounds on this occasion. The VA volunteer services sponsor the fair each year.

The object of the Hobby Fair is to promote interest in the various handicrafts of members, including rugs, woodworking, leather, lapidary and other arts and skills. Most of the articles made will be offered for sale.

A feature display this year will be the wheel chairs which were made in the arts and crafts section for the Pear Festival Parade. They are undergoing repair at the present time.

News About Books From the Library

In the spring of the year about one out of every five persons in America turns gardener, and many of them tell themselves they're just too busy to read for a while.

These people are missing a trick in our opinion, for books can help gardening enthusiasts with many of their most vexing problems. There's a great deal to be learned from the experience and advice of experts on all phases of the craft—how to prepare the soil, what to plant, needed equipment, weeds, insect pests, and garden furnishings.

Books and pamphlets and magazine articles on vegetable, fruit, and flower growing suitable for both beginners and experienced gardeners are available at the Medford Public Library.

Among the books on gardening subjects which have been added to the library since last gardening season are "Taylor's Encyclopedia of Gardening," John Hanley's "Year 'Round Gardening in the West," and H. S. Artloff's "Color and Design for Every Garden."

Plant Propagation
In "Plant Propagation in Pictures" the renowned horticulturist, Montague Free, presents the various aspects of plant propagation in a series of step-by-step pictures explaining by captions. "Garden Enemies," by Dr. Cynthia Westcott discusses the diseases and pests that afflict trees and garden plants. The same author has given us the "Gardener's Bug Book" and "Anyone Can Grow Roses."

Roses are but one of the many specialized gardening subjects covered in the library's collection. Others are lilies, dahlias, primulas, perennials, climbers and ground covers, lawns, trees and shrubs, wild flower gardening, window box gardening, shady gardening, and landscaping.

Recent Additions
Herb gardeners will enjoy two recent additions to the garden section: Helen Webster's (not yours truly) "Herbs: How to Grow Them" and the "Home Garden Book of Herbs and Spices," by Milo Miloradovich.

Families who enjoy garden living will profit by reading "How to Build Outdoor Fireplaces and Lawn Furniture" and "Build Your Own Barbecue" as well as several other books on fences, walks, and garden ornaments.

New books on the use of flowers and plants in bouquets and corsages include Margaret Dodson's "Easy Guide to Color for Flower Arrangers," Myra Brooks' "Magic World of Flower Arranging," Mary Drummond's "Styling Corsages with Garden Flowers," and Marie Lochry's "Corsages of Pods and Cones." "Flower Show Themes," by Dorothy Biddle will be of interest to garden club members.

Any of the library's books on gardening may be borrowed from the Medford Public Library or its Jackson county branch libraries upon request.

Kerby Ranch Cattle Graded Last Week

Cave Junction — Grading of 150 cows and bulls in the large Q-Bar-X ranch herd was completed here recently by two Oregon State college extension service men.

Average rating of the herd on the big Kerby cattle ranch was superior. Several animals received "1-plus" grades, the best obtainable.

Kings Highway Water District Election Tuesday

An election will be held Tuesday in the Kings highway water district on the annexation to the district of a portion just south of the present incorporated area, according to Mrs. Jeanette Marshall, attorney of the district.

The area which includes about 145 people, voted 45-2 last week to be annexed to the water district. Boundaries of the proposed annexation area extend south from Stewart ave. to a line 400 feet south of Old Stage rd. Happy Valley drive and Sunny View lane are the only other streets in the new area.

Mrs. Marshall said the election will be held from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Wayne Troxell residence, 1833 South Peach st. The incorporated area includes about 376 registered voters, she said.

If the proposed area is approved by district voters, Mrs. Marshall said, it will share in assuming the bonded indebtedness of the district.

Increase Valuations
The attorney said annexation of the proposed area would increase property valuations in the water district. As a result, new bonds could be issued to finance construction of water mains in the newly annexed portion and fire hydrants in the entire district.

A bond issue election to approve installation of fire hydrant and water main improvements in the district will be held May 22 at the Troxell residence if district voters annex the proposed area Tuesday, Mrs. Marshall said.

Local Students Are Elected to Positions

Eugene—Dave Bosworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Bosworth, 2425 East Main st., Medford, was elected vice-president of the sophomore class in ASUO elections here May 1.

Also elected was Michael R. DeVore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald DeVore, 806 East Jackson st., Medford. DeVore was elected as junior class representative to the ASUO senate.

Bosworth is a freshman in economics, and DeVore is a sophomore in pre dentistry.

One economist estimates that the United States will use about 415 billion barrels of crude oil between now and the year 2,000—more than one and a half times the total oil discovered in the world to date.
