The Medical Roundup

Cancer of the Prostate Gland

Until a few years ago, many physicians doubted if it was worthwhile to try to remove the prostate gland after cancer had started growing in it. The difficulty in these cases is that so often, by the time it is discovered, the cancer has spread into the surrounding tissues or even into the bones of the pelvis and spine. Many a man with cancer of the prostate gets his first symptoms from a daughter - growth (metastasis) somewhere. Naturally, in such cases, it is useless to try to remove the original growth. The surgeon can cut enough of it off so that the man can keep urinating.

Now, Drs. R. D. Turner and Elmer Belt, of Los Angeles, report that with an extensive operation which removes the cancerous prostate gland and the surrounding tissues, 43 out of 131 patients appear to have been cured.

Drs. H. A. Dickel, and H. H. Dixon, of the Department of Psychiatry of the University of Oregon Medical School, in Portland, writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, reported their studies of the effects of tranquilizing drugs on 8,200 patients suffering from anxiety. They warned that the drugs can do harm, and hence should not be taken carelessly by patients on their own. Some of the people became so depressed that they felt like committing suicide; some suffered from toxic reactions, and others suffered from serious emotional conflicts.

The psychiatrists doubted if it was wise, always, to free a person entirely from worry or concern. They say a person too greatly tranquilized can become of little value to himself or his community. The drugs certainly should not be used indiscriminately, without medical advice and observation.

Around Hollywood

Mexico City (U.P.)—A secret bomb for Hollywood is being manufactured among the tortillas and tequila here. Errol Flynn is writing his memoirs—wives, love affairs, foreign intrigue and all. Flynn is one celluloid idol whose life story has been as swashbuckling and dramatic off screen as on. Realizing this could be a gold mine, a publisher has induced Flynn to write about his colorful life, including his adventures on ships, his intrigue in the Spanish Civil War, his rise as a film star and his unequalled off-stage reputation as a casanova that resulted in two rape trials.

"I won't be pulling too many punches," promised the man of letters as he rested from his labors with tequila in one hand and a cigarette in the other over his dictating machine into which he reminisces during the filming here of "The Sun Also Rises."

"I can hear the quaking of the knees now," said Flynn. "They're passing the hat around just so I won't drop their names in my book."

"How do I do about getting this book banned in Boston? What I need now is a staff of lawyers."

Flynn at first cautiously planned to finish his book with events around 1940 "when I felt that hand clamped on my shoulder," his arrest on rape charges.

"The publisher," said Flynn, "viewed this suggestion with dismay. He wants the rape trials included—and I could write plenty about the truth of that. But if I leave that out I could end my book with the notice to tune in for the next volume."

Holmes Names Three To Advisory Council

Salem—(U.P.)—Dr. Kenneth E. Livingston, Portland neurologist; Irwin F. Wedel, administrator of the Salem Memorial hospital; and Dewey Rand, publisher of the Capital Press in Salem, were named by Gov. Robert D. Holmes Friday to serve on the Hospital-Medical Survey and Construction Advisory Council to the State Board of Health.

The council advises the Board of Health in regard to developing a statewide plan for construction of hospital and public health centers, and makes recommendations to the board for allocation of federal grants for hospital construction.

Strasbourg, France (U.P.)

Legislators from 15 Western European nations have called for a prompt agreement on the suspension of nuclear tests and atomic disarmament.
