Mothers Feted On Special Day

By UNITED PRESS
The nation's mothers, feted at family gatherings and showered with treasured remembrances, basked in their one day of yearly glory Sunday.

A special ceremony was held in Philadelphia at the grave of Anna Jarvis, a spinster who founded Mother's Day in 1908. A wreath containing 49 carnations was placed on Miss Jarvis' grave.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower marked Mother's day by attending services at Gettysburg Presbyterian church, accompanied by British Field Marshall Montgomery, a week-end guest of the nation's first lady.

The President is remaining at his Pennsylvania farm for a birthday dinner tonight for his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Doud.

Among the happiest mothers was Mrs. Linwood Findley, 32, an Arlington, Va., housewife, who was named "Mrs. America" Saturday night at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Like many other mothers, Mrs. Findley was served breakfast in bed by her husband, an Air Force officer.

German Husbands Ignore New Law

Berlin—(U.P.)—West German housewives complained today they still have to do the dishes alone, although a new law gives them equal rights with men.

One of the housewives, Mrs. Anita Maassen of Hamburg, said the law "sounds fine," but added that her husband disagrees with her on its interpretation.

"He overrules the new law every time I ask him to help with the dishes by remembering 'an urgent business appointment,'" she said. "Then I am left alone with my equal rights in the kitchen."
