New York—(U.P.)—With Jimmy Demaret it's not how old you feel, which is why the golfing grandpappy has the sprouts nibbling on their niblicks as they look forward today to the U.S. Open.

Rainbow Jimmy will be 46 or 47 or 48 two weeks hence. The first is his current figure; the second is admitted in his autobiography and the third comes from close friends.

But jovial James has just finished polishing off the 112 Springs Open by playing 12 under par through four rounds to capture his third tournament of the year and now he has designs on the Open as a present for his two grandchildren.

Tests Begin on Kluszewski

Boston—(U.P.)—Medical specialists began a series of exhaustive tests and examinations today to learn the reason by Cincinnati first baseman Ted Kluszewski is unable to play baseball.

Headed by neurosurgeon Dr. James L. Poppen, a team of specialists started their examination of Kluszewski at New England Baptist Hospital a few hours after he arrived by plane.

His back ailment, described among other things as a "slipped" disc, has idled the power hitter despite the frequent efforts of doctors.

Record Purse Awaits Miami Golf Winner

Clearwater, Fla.—(U.P.)—A record $40,100 awaits the top scorers in the 1957 Professional Golfers association championship tournament at Miami Valley Golf club, Dayton, Ohio, July 17-21.

The PGA Executive committee meeting here Monday announced that the 1957 winner of the championship event will carry off $8,000. The top prize was $5,000 last year.

MAYS NAMED SCOUT

Bend—(U.P.)—Carl Mays, who spent 16 years as a major league pitcher, said today he has been named Pacific coast scout for the Cleveland Indians. Mays, 65, said his territory would include Oregon, Washington, Idaho, northern California and British Columbia.

There are about 35,000 plants in the U. S. for the manufacture and processing of various dairy products.

Senate Passes Bill For Reorganization Of School Districts

Salem—(U.P.)—The Oregon Senate late Monday passed a much-amended House bill 163 providing for reorganization of Oregon school districts into a fewer number of districts known as administrative school districts. The vote was 18-12.

The bill now must go back to the House for concurrence in Senate amendments.

Sen. Monroe Sweetland, Milwaukee Democrat, said this was "probably the most far-reaching and basically important" piece of education legislation at this session. It would reduce some 700 school districts in Oregon to some 200 in a five-year period.

Amendment Explained Sweetland said one of the objections to the bill as it passed the House was that if a majority of voters of, say three present districts, voted to merge into an administrative school district, it would be compulsory for all the three to merge, even though one, perhaps the smaller of the three, may have voted 100 per cent against merger.

Under Senate amendment, if 60 per cent of the voters of a district voted against merger, then it would not have to join even if the other two districts voted a heavy enough margin to make a majority of the three districts.

Convention To Be Called

Sen. Philip Lowry, Medford Republican, said the bill represented "a monumental piece of work." He said a county convention would be called to work out plans for school district reorganization with the county, and submit the plans to the voters of the districts.

Sen. Warren Gill, Lebanon Republican, objected to the bill on grounds it had what he called "an un-American" provision that it would take 60 per cent of the voters of a district to stay out of an administrative district but only 51 per cent of the voters to put the district in the administrative district. Sen.
