Note on Paprika

Eight million pounds of paprika are used every year to add flavor and color to our food. Consumption-wise, this means we rate only pepper, mustard and cinnamon above it.

Push Button Era Takes Work Out Of Housework

Dayton, Ohio —(U.P.)—Home, sweet home of the future gets dreamier each time a new prediction comes out.

Now, one appliance manufacturing company has a forecast for the 1976 home, which just about takes the work out of housework.

The home, as seen by Herman F. Lehman, head of the company, will feature the following: A desk with push button equipment so the home-maker on Monday morning can designate the menu for the week's meals, specify the number of servings for each meal and the time the first course should appear.

A "vending machine" which will heat and automatically serve specially-packaged fresh and frozen foods at the appointed hour; when away from home, the housewife will be able to change the menu or meal time by telephone.

An air-cushion bed which, with the wave of a hand, inflates as it comes from the wall, bringing with it a fresh disposable, silk-textured paper sheet; A radiant heating panel suspended above the bed, to make blankets unnecessary even on the coolest night.

An overhead television monitor, to let parents keep an eye on the children in the next room. A television-telephone to make it possible for the homemaker to see her groceries as she orders them or to see and talk to her husband as he reads the evening newspaper on his way home in his radar-guided motorcar;

A special closet-like device which dry cleans Junior's dirty play clothes, while Junior himself is being washed in a mildly-detergent "fog shower," followed by a spray of atomized oils and warm air blasts for drying.

A dishwasher employing inaudible sound waves to clean, rinse, dry and sterilize dishes, and a range that cooks without getting hot.

Military Order Host for Party

The circle elected delegates and alternates to the royal hunt to be held June 29 at Pendleton, Ore. Mrs. Ivan Lusk and Mrs. Ben Allison are delegates; Mrs. B. B. Ramsey and Mrs. Ralph Pittock, alternates.

Sandwich Idea

Peanut butter and canned cranberry sauce are excellent go-togethers for lunch box sandwiches. Spread between slices of buttered raisin bread for a really tasty treat.

Tailored canvas sportswear in the choice of Helen Landon, 1937 Maid of Cotton. Her outfit by White Stag features a saddle-stitched "Sou-wester" jacket in Wellington Sears turquoise canvas, teamed with white canvas deck pants and hat. Duffle closings and wooden buttons emphasize costume's casual air.

Clubs Give Process For Drying Flowers

New York —(U.P.)—The Federated Garden Clubs of New York State recommends a new method for prolonging the life of flowers.

The organization said it is possible, through a special and easy drying process to keep a bouquet a couple of years.

Here's how the process works: Pick flowers at their peak of perfection to retain form and color. Then fill a large, shallow, box with powdered borax. Strip off leaves. Wire each flower by gently pushing the wire into the flower head and through the stem. Then sprinkle each flower lightly with the borax and place head down in borax in the box. Cover completely and leave in a cool, dry place from two to four days, depending on fullness and texture of the blossoms.

Then remove and put in vases without water.

Dried flowers also may be used in corsages and hat decorations. These flowers are washable, too. Remove dust by spraying gently with water and let drain.

Architect Says School Design Affects Youth

New York —(U.P.)—One leading architect says a properly designed school can reduce juvenile delinquency.

Lawrence Perkins of Chicago believes the architectural design of a building, both inside and out, has such powerful effect on children that it can cut vandalism and truancy.

Perkins, who has designed more than 300 elementary and high schools, said that it is easy for children to push and shove in a hallway with dim lights, few windows, and dark depressing paint. The atmosphere fosters haste, carelessness, tension and even fighting.

But, he added, sunny stairways and halls make students more relaxed, friendlier. Perkins, author of a new book called "Work Place for Learning," uses glass walls, plenty of light and interesting views in his classroom designs.

Last year, a panel of architects voted his Crow Island school, in Winnetka, Ill., the most significant educational structure built in the last century.

Perkins' newest project also is significant. It will be a public school in Harlem, the first in any large city to provide the view windows and open-air design of rural and suburban schools.

The Harlem school will be built mostly of glass.

Perkins said that instead of "asking for trouble" with such construction, he believes the school will be a source of pride to students and community.

West Side Club Elects Officers

Mrs. Francis Cheney is the newly elected president of West Side Mothers' club. She replaces Mrs. P. G. Humphreys. Serving with Mrs. Cheney will be Mrs. John Gates, vice-president; Mrs. Charles Shinn, secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Phillips, treasurer.

Other retiring officers are Mrs. B. D. Blackstone, vice-president; Mrs. Emmett Bullard, secretary and Mrs. Houston Pitts, treasurer.

The new officers were elected at the final meeting of the year, held at the home of Mrs. Emmett Bullard on Niedermeyer lane.

A chorus of 12 students from West Side school sang under the direction of Justin Dyrud. Mrs. Bullard reviewed the year's activities. One of the chief projects was completion of a central library for the school, which was greatly needed, according to the report.

It was reported that the recent annual hobby show at the school was highly successful.
