He presented a plaque to the sorority for its continued support. It was inscribed as follows: "This plaque is gratefully dedicated to the various Oregon chapters, whose devotion and loyal service to their statewide philanthropic project are here-with recognized in permanence."

Individual name plates were attached on small chains for each chapter donating.

The Oregon chapters have raised over $5,000 each year for several years. This pays for a therapist at the school. There are now 58 chapters in Oregon.

Book Published By Sister of Phoenix Woman

Mrs. Jeanne Cummings of Bonita, Calif., is the author of a book "Look Here, J. B." which will soon be released by Dorance and company.

Mrs. Cummings is a sister of Mrs. Mary Ellen Hollett, Phoenix, and the aunt of Mrs. Robert Loucks, also of Phoenix, and Mrs. Jim Lick of Griffin Creek.

The book deals with Colorado mining in 1879 and tells of the late nineties when the old timers carried on through snow slides, blizzards, "cloud bust" bank robberies, the low price of silver and finally the closing of the mines.

The town of Telluride, where Mrs. Cummings lived as a girl, is described in the book as having 32 saloons on its Main street along with three churches. It explains how the Ladies Aid and Votes for Women societies set out to clean up the town and how many a gambler and saloon keeper footed the bill for new pews, hymn books or an organ.

Mrs. Cummings also tells of the three-day celebration that heralded the coming of the Denver and Rio Grande Southern railroad to Telluride.

Mrs. Cummings visited in the valley about four years ago.

Poppy Sales Aid Needy Children

Children of war veterans, left in need as a delayed result of wars fought before they were born, will benefit from the wearing of poppies in memory of the war dead here on Poppy days, May 24 and 25, according to Mrs. H. S. Goldsmith, child welfare chairman of the American Legion auxiliary, who is working on preparations for Poppy day.

Contributions made by those who wear the auxiliary's memorial poppies will go into the child welfare and rehabilitation funds of the group to be used in supporting the auxiliary unit's work for the children and veterans during the coming year, Mrs. Goldsmith explained.

"Death, disability and broken families are continually bringing hardships and handicaps to children of veterans," she said. "Poppy Day contributions help the auxiliary aid these children, hold families together and give unfortunate youngsters a fair start in life."
