Trans-Pacific Raft Sinks; Five-Man Crew Reported Safe

Santiago, Chile —Hurricane winds sank the battered trans-Pacific raft Tahiti Nui Sunday. Its five-man crew had drifted nearly 6,000 miles from Tahiti in an effort to prove that South Pacific islanders once settled the coast of Chile.

The crew of four Frenchmen and one Chilean was safe on board the Chilean frigate Baquedano, which answered the raft's distress signals last Sunday and took the bamboo craft in tow.

The Tahiti Nui broke its tow cable and went down 240 miles from Chile's mid-Pacific Juan Fernandez Island. The expedition's leader, French scientist Eric de Bisschop, had hoped to repair the raft there and finish the voyage to Chile's main port of Valparaiso.

Route in Reverse

The raft left Tahiti last Nov. 8, reversing the route of Thor Heyerdahl's Kon-Tiki. Both raft voyages were made in efforts to determine whether Polynesians originated in South America or sailed there from the Pacific Islands.

Garcia Palacios, who handled publicity here, told the United Press: "After seven months on the high seas covering more than 6,000 miles at the mercy of the winds and the ocean currents, it has been proved the trip could have been completed if it

Rossellini Secretly Leaves Bombay Hotel With Aid of Staff

Bombay, India —Roberto Rossellini secretly checked out of the Taj Mahal Hotel Sunday night aided by members of the hotel staff who traded punches with newsmen trying to report his departure.

Mrs. Sonali Das Gupta, 27, Indian film script writer who is reported to have left her husband for love of the 51-year-old Italian movie director, remained in the room she has occupied next to Rossellini's.

Room Boys and the Hotel Housekeeper Spirited Rossellini

Room boys and the hotel housekeeper spirited Rossellini out of the hotel shortly after 9 p.m. The hotel staff refused to give out any information and tried to stop reporters from telephoning. A brief scuffle resulted.

A check with the airport showed Rossellini had not left the city by plane. But police confirmed the government had declined to extend his visa and he is expected to leave India within a week.

When Rossellini flew from New Delhi earlier Sunday he had been attempted in a more propitious season.

"My friend's raft was sunk by one of the worst tempests recorded on the South Pacific, where winter is now well advanced."

Marie Dionne Has Mild Hemangioma

Montreal — Marie Dionne, considered the frailest of the four surviving Dionne quintuplets, is suffering from a recurrent leg ailment, a source close to the family revealed Sunday night.

The disclosure ended speculation over the ailment which hospitalized the quint. Officials at the Hotel Dieu hospital, where Marie is confined, have refused to admit that she is a patient.

Interest in Children

Neelam, a dark-skinned, full-blooded Roman Catholic girl from Bangalore, said Rossellini took a great interest in the nine orphan children she has adopted. Rossellini told her she was beautiful and he'd "like to put her in pictures," she said.

Neelam said a Belgian friend connected with the film industry introduced them, they had dinner together and Rossellini made an appointment to discuss her film future at his hotel.

But, she said, when he started taking off her shoes, she decided the "atmosphere was too intimate" and left.
