

Many Displays Due At Medford Home Show This Week

All exhibit space has been assigned and decorators and exhibitors are arranging more than 80 displays today for the Medford Home Show, which opens Thursday, May 30.

The event will be staged in the new Crystal Springs warehouse at the end of South Fir st., in Medford.

Entertainment Set

Producers predicted today that the four-day show in Medford will be the largest of its kind in the state, outside of Portland, in number of exhibits and expected attendance.

Entertainment feature at the show will be Jimmy Wakely, Decca recording star. Also featured in the stage show, to be presented three times each day, will be the Great Monty from the F. I. Sullivan show, the Sing Lee Sing troupe, the Chinese Mouseketeers, singing Blanche Cooper and others.

Exhibits Planned

Exhibits include home building materials, appliances, furnishings and a variety of displays of interest to the homemaker. Most local merchants displaying merchandise in the show have received special exhibits from manufacturers and distributors. Most items displayed have not yet been seen in local business houses.

Doors will open at noon each day, except Friday when the opening is set for 5 p.m. The show will last until 11 p.m. each day.

Transportation Help Suggested

Chicago — The federal government must help large cities solve their mass transportation problems if it is to get full value from its seven-year, $30 billion arterial highway program, Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia said today.

"The very life and future of our big cities depends upon solution of their mass transportation problems," Dilworth said, "and the health of our urban areas is of tremendous concern to the nation as a whole."

Dilworth addressed a luncheon session of a two-day clinic on coordinating metropolitan area transportation.

Public officials, highway and traffic engineers and businessmen from all parts of the nation were participating in the conference to focus attention on the transportation needs of great urban areas.

BIG WIND HITS TEXAS—A waitress looks over the wreckage of her small cafe in Olton, Texas after a tornado tore through the town. Only the juke box was left intact. Three persons were injured and 25 homes were demolished.

Grants Pass Men Hurt in Accident

George William Detrick Jr., 27, Grants Pass, and Fred Hubert Munhoven, 34, also of Grants Pass, received minor injuries about noon Sunday in a one-car accident on the Missouri Flat rd.

State police said the car, operated by Detrick, was traveling north on the road and went out of control on a curve. Detrick reportedly told police he swerved to avoid striking an unidentified southbound car. The Detrick vehicle went onto some loose gravel on the right side of the highway, hit an embankment and turned over on its left side.

Officers said neither of the men was injured seriously enough to be hospitalized. The car was removed from the scene by wrecker.

Turkey Counts 50 Earthquake Victims

Istanbul, Turkey — Rescue workers today found 40 more bodies in nine rubble strewn Turkish villages today, bringing the death toll from the Sunday earthquakes to 50.

The quake hit hardest at the village of Bolu in northwest Turkey where residents panicked when a mosque was toppled. It was felt here, in Ankara and other cities.

Several hundred homes were destroyed. Some 286 homes were destroyed in the Modurnu district alone.

Radar System Tells Performance of Missile

Washington — The aircraft industry has developed a revolutionary instrumentation radar system which now makes it possible to evaluate immediately the performance of a guided missile.

Planes, official publication of the Aircraft Industries Association, said the new radar system is capable of tracking the missiles with accuracy over vast ranges through darkness clouds and varied atmospheric conditions and yielding the necessary data immediately.

The publication said the new radar system represents 10 years of advanced research and development. Prior to its introduction, data reduction methods required months of computation.

Trapping Profitable Sideline for Farmer

Powers Lake, N.D. — Trapping is a profitable sideline for William Lucy, who operates a 124-acre farm northeast of here. He sold nearly $1,200 worth of pelts during the past year.

"We make about $700 from trapping each winter," Lucy said.

The secret of profitable trapping, he added, is not to trap too close.

"We leave quite a few muskrats as food for the mink," he explained. "We set our traps about a mile apart."

About 35 per cent of all homes in the U.S. are heated by coal, 1950 census figures showed.

Drain, Ore. — Garrett Alva Maupin, 62, Drain, was shot to death and Myrtle Miller, 57, was wounded seriously here Saturday.

Colby College Bell One of Most-Traveled

Waterville, Me. — Colby college students boast one of the world's most-traveled college bells.

The old bell, which was cast at the Paul Revere Foundry in 1824, was once shipped by students to Harvard University where students shipped it to the University of Virginia.

The Virginia students dispatched it to her majesty, Queen Victoria, via New York. But it was intercepted and returned by Colby authorities just before it was to be put on the boat for England.

The blazer, an increasingly popular item of sports attire, takes its name from the British warship Blazer. Over 100 years ago, before naval uniforms became common, the Blazer's fashion-conscious captain outfitted his crew in blue jackets with brass buttons.

Johnny Dio's Trial Halted Indefinitely

New York — The trial of John (Johnny Dio) DioGuardi, charged with master minding the acid-blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel, was adjourned indefinitely today because the key witness against him refused to testify.

United States Attorney Paul W. Williams moved for the adjournment saying the government is "powerless" to prosecute DioGuardi and three codefendants at this time in face of the "challenge" of the silent witnesses.

Williams asked for an adjournment, rather than a dismissal, to permit a Grand Jury to investigate how, when and by whom the two key witnesses, both serving federal prison terms, were intimidated.

FRIED SQUIRREL

New Bern, N. C. — A squirrel recently caused the biggest power failure here since hurricane Ione in 1955. The squirrel was capering on a power pole and took a notion to balance his back feet on another. He was electrocuted instantly. The short circuit burned the power line in two, and 20 per cent of the city's electric facilities were knocked out.
