Use of Public Money for Border Patrol Officers To Attend Matches Questioned

Washington — U.S. Border Patrol officers travelled on government expense accounts to attend rifle and pistol matches while claiming to perform "official border patrol duties," it was charged today.

Swing had irregularities. Gen. Joseph M. Swing, U.S. Immigration Commissioner and boss of the Border Patrol, also had "irregularities" in his travel vouchers while on hunting trips to Mexico. They were later corrected, however.

Those were the findings of Comptroller General Joseph Campbell in an official investigation of the government expense accounts of Swing and the Border Patrol.

Treasury Chief's Resignation To Be Effective Soon

Ike Names Former Secretary of Navy

Washington — Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey resigned today. President Eisenhower nominated Robert B. Anderson, former secretary of Navy, as his successor.

Humphrey's resignation will become effective at a date no later than the close of the current congressional session.

Anderson's nomination was sent to the Senate today for confirmation.

Burgess To Be Assigned
The White House also disclosed that Randolph Burgess, now under secretary of treasury, would leave his present post to accept another government appointment. The White House declined to say what the new Burgess' assignment would be.

Humphrey's departure from the government has been expected for some time.

Absolute Necessity
He informed the President that he had to give up government service as a matter of "absolute necessity" because of the illness and recent retirement from business of one of his former partners.

The President had known for two years that Humphrey planned to step out of the Cabinet. But the actual decision had been postponed repeatedly.

'Profound Regret'
Today, Eisenhower told Humphrey that the actual receipt of his letter of resignation, filled him with "profound regret."

"Yet, because of your personal situation, which I fully understand, I of course, accept your decision," the President said. Humphrey has been secretary of treasury since the Eisenhower administration took office in January, 1953.

Dulles Says Speed Needed To Keep Disarmament Alive

Big Four Meeting Not 'Around Corner'

Washington — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today that rapid progress is needed to keep the East-West disarmament talks alive.

Stressing the need for speed, Dulles said disarmament talks can't drag on year after year without getting some place.

If there is progress on disarmament, he said, it should be possible to make progress on other East-West political issues.

Dulles told his news conference progress is essential, and is needed rapidly, to keep the disarmament talks with Russia alive.

But Dulles said a first step disarmament agreement is not possible in anything short of several months.

Also, he said, Big Four talks with the Soviet Union on German reunification are not just around the corner. Such talks, he said, should come only after progress has been made on a start toward disarmament.

The secretary of state refused to be drawn into arguments over details of disarmament.

Speaking very soberly, he told newsmen that the important thing is to get going somewhere, somehow, as rapidly as possible. Unless this is done, he added, it will be very difficult to check the armament race.

Whether a first stage disarmament plan would include Europe, he said, depends entirely on the European themselves.

It is up to Germany, for example, he said, whether it would participate in a first step plan. The whole question has been under review with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer who leaves Washington today.

Dulles emphasized that reunification of Germany should precede a final disarmament agreement.

Stassen Confers on Disarmament Plans
Paris — Harold E. Stassen conferred today with the United States' NATO allies to seek approval of the 15-nation body on new American disarmament proposals.

The latest edition of President Eisenhower's "open skies" inspection plan would subject at least eight NATO nations to reconnaissance by Soviet planes and Stassen must get their okay before proceeding.

Stassen, American delegate to the five-nation UN disarmament conference in London, returned from Washington Monday with the latest UN variation on the inspection plan.

He flew here Tuesday night to consult with the 15 nation NATO council while the disarmament subcommittee adjourned for the second time in two weeks to let Stassen make consultations abroad.

Morse and Capehart Exchange Verbal Slaps in Near-Empty Senate Chamber

Washington — The Senate was almost empty late Tuesday night when Sens. Wayne L. Morse (D-Ore.) and Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) started throwing the verbal ripe tomatoes at each other.

About 20 spectators lounged in the visiting galleries. A few senators sat at their desks in various degrees of attention.

Morse berated Capehart rose quietly and began to berate Morse for his reported statement that President Eisenhower and Teamster President Dave Beck were "the same kind of immoralists."

Morse denied Sunday that he said exactly that. But he said he could see no difference in principle between "Dave Beck putting his hands in the pockets of his union" and the "Eisenhower administration putting its hands in the taxpayers' pockets."

Warming to his topic, he noted that Morse used to be a Republican but had changed his party. And any man who did that, he raged, is "intellectually dishonest and immoral."

"I hope you will keep on accusing me," Morse shouted back across the empty desks. "There is nothing I care less about than the views of the senator from Indiana."

Moreover, he said, the portly senator from Indiana could "best be described as a tub of rancid ignorance."

"I think that shows there is very little respect between us," he added.

Charges Shouted
Capehart jumped to his feet and began shouting "intellectually dishonest and immoral" at Morse. Morse roared back that he "didn't care much" for Capehart's opinion.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) jumped to his feet and began yelling: "Mr. Chairman!

Mr. Chairman!" Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), who was acting president, began pounding vigorously with the gavel.

Finally, Morse said to Capehart that although "nothing is going to change our views of each other" the remarks they made about each other should be stricken from the record.

No Withdrawal
Capehart asked if Morse would withdraw what he said about Eisenhower. Morse said he wouldn't.

"Then I refuse to withdraw my remarks," Capehart said. And another day was over in the Senate.

Two Men Injured In Blast Tuesday Near PTT Building

A Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company employee was hospitalized and a bystander suffered burns yesterday about 2:30 p.m. from an explosion in the alley in the rear of the PTT building on North Bartlett st.

Cause of the blast is unknown, officials said.

Another company employee was treated for burns at the scene of the explosion.

In Good Condition
Robert L. Glathar, 35, of 61 Vashiti Way, a telephone company cable splicer, was reported in good condition at Rogue Valley hospital this morning. He was treated for face and hand burns. Donald R. Zimmers, 524 Fairmount ave., an onlooker, received less serious burns when gas in an alley manhole exploded, according to Jack Creager, PTT manager.

Victor S. Kasser, 17 North Modoc ave., another cable splicer, was working with Glathar, over the manhole to remove remaining gas after repair of a gas line across the alley, Creager said. The explosion took place while Glathar was attempting to push a fresh air blower duct deeper into the hole.

Near Scene
Zimmers was standing near the scene waiting to remove a First Baptist church bus parked in the alley. He was treated at Rogue Valley hospital and released.

California-Pacific Utilities company equipment indicated there was not enough gas remaining in the underground ducts for an explosion, according to Creager.

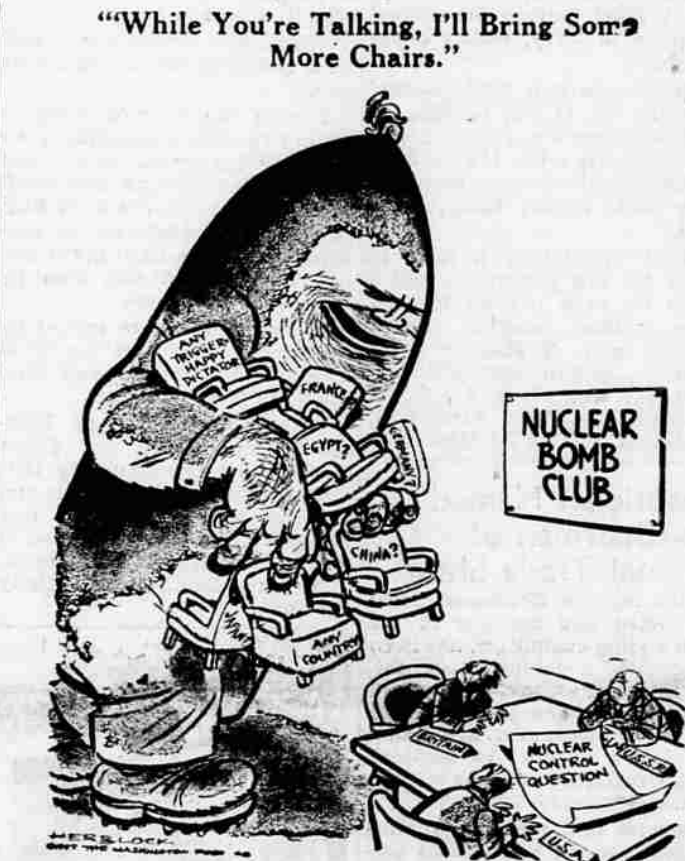

Creager said gas and telephone company personnel had known of the gas leak in the area for several days, but had not found the spot until yesterday. He surmised that an accumulation of gas between two manholes in the cable ducts accounted for the mishap.

Damage Limited
Damage was limited to the blower tube and ladder. Flames in the manhole were extinguished by the city fire department.

Creager said Glathar was saved possible eye injuries because he was wearing safety glasses which are required for all PTT employees.

House Group Gives OK To $6,041,000 For Talent Project

Washington, D. C. — A House appropriations subcommittee has approved the administration's request for $6,041,000 to continue work on the Talent project, it was reported today.

The Mail Tribune's Washington correspondent, A. Robert Smith, said that the subcommittee, meeting in secret session reportedly cut President Eisenhower's public works budget requests by a total of $65 million. But he said he had been informed that the only cuts in projects in the Northwest were $5 million in the Bonneville Power Administration, for construction of new electric transmission lines.

New Projects Rejected
Smith said he learned that funds for new projects, not requested by the administration, were rejected by the subcommittee.

Work on the Talent irrigation, power and reclamation project in southern Jackson county has been underway for about a year, under an initial appropriation totaling some $2,400,000. The $6,041,000 requested for Talent this year is to continue construction on the project. It will total an estimated $22,000,000 when completed.

It is estimated it will take another three or four years to finish the project.

U. S. Embassy in Tokyo Stormed By Student Group

Police Fight Off Die-Hard Students

Tokyo — Japanese police formed lines three deep in front of the U. S. Embassy in Tokyo today and fought off 100 enraged Japanese university students protesting the Nevada atomic tests.

A rainstorm and heavy police reinforcements appeared to have forestalled a large-scale protest, but a die-hard group of 50 students had a second angry clash with police in front of the embassy tonight.

Police Order Charge
The students converged on the embassy gate in a solid body in an attempt to crash police lines and enter the compound. The Japanese police ordered a charge and drove the students more than 100 yards down a hill.

The students held a rally and promised another demonstration "in a few days."

Shortly before the rainstorm student reinforcements arrived in a bus owned by the Association of Metropolitan Teachers. At the same time Japanese police opened embassy gates and nine embassy cars shot into the street loaded with embassy employees. The students did not attack.

'We Want MacArthur'
An embassy official talked with some of the students but would not comment. He appeared after police had fought off the early group of 100 students.

The students joined in singing rousing and defiant "labor songs" and chanted "We want MacArthur." U. S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II left the embassy shortly after the students arrived.

Eisenhower Loses Defense Fund Plea

Washington — The House rejected the advice of President Eisenhower today and approved a defense appropriation bill carrying $2,556,275,000 less than he said was essential to national security.

In two days of unrecorded ballots members turned down a series of Republican sponsored amendments to restore to the bill $313 million of the total cut. This was an amount, a fraction of the total cut, which was agreed on by the President and GOP leaders as having the best prospect of winning approval.

Then, in a final rejection of the President's plea, members on a roll call vote of 242 to 151 turned down a last ditch proposal warping the defeated amendments into a single package.

With that done, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill carrying $33,562,725,000 in new funds to help finance the Army, Navy, and Air Force in the 12 months starting July 1.

The President originally had asked for $36,128,000,000.
