THE ROAD BACK—A lineman works atop a new pole as the old poles and telephone lines are entangled in the debris and wreckage on this street in Martin City, Mo., smashed by a tornado. A second tornado that ripped into Missouri virtually destroyed the little town of Fremont. Every home in the town of 207 was leveled and only three buildings stood.

No More Cooperative Timber Agreements

Washington — (AP) — Senator Richard L. Neuberger (D.-Ore.) said Sunday the Department of Agriculture has decided not to create additional cooperative agreements on federal units for national forest timber.

This new policy is in line with recommendations of the Senate Interior committee which held extensive hearings in Oregon on federal timber sale policy in 1955-56, Neuberger said.

The new department policy will continue with existing cooperative agreements and units, including one at Lakeview, Ore. Independent operators did not favor cooperative agreements because of their belief they contributed to a concentration of federal timber holdings in the hands of large companies.

The Interior committee recommended cessation of agreements and units to promote a "better competitive situation."

New Flooding Feared In Brazilian Province

Rio De Janeiro—(AP)—Authorities feared new flood waters from swollen mountain streams would hit the Dolores area of Rio De Janeiro province today.

The fears arose as water that covered 750,000 square miles of the province over the week end began to recede.

Some 10,000 were made homeless but only four persons were known dead. Authorities said hundreds of millions of pesos worth of cattle, sheep and crops were destroyed.
