

Pauling Subpoenaed To Tell Reason for Anti-H-Bomb Stand

Washington — The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee has subpoenaed Dr. Linus Carl Pauling, Nobel Prize-winning chemist, to inquire whether Communist organizations are behind his petitions to stop H-bomb tests.

Subcommittee counsel Robert Morris told reporters today Pauling was ordered to appear at a public hearing June 18. That hearing will be preceded by closed-door questioning next Monday.

May Subpoena Others

Morris said other scientists who signed and helped circulate the petitions may also be subpoenaed. Pauling claims 2,000 scientists signed the document.

The Housing Committee on Un-American Activities accused Pauling in 1951 of participating in Communist fronts.

A Committee report released April 1, 1951, said Pauling was "primarily engaged in placing his scientific attainment at the service of a host of organizations which have in common their complete subservience to the Communist Party, U.S.A., and the Soviet Union."

Pasadena, Calif. — Nobel Laureate Dr. Linus Pauling said today he would "welcome the chance" to appear before U.S. senators and tell them about the "dangers of atomic wars and of fallout radiation."

The California Institute of Technology chemistry professor said he had not yet received a subpoena.

Will Do Some Good

"I would be pleased to have the opportunity to help in educating some of our representatives in Washington on this matter. I feel sure that it will do some good to the world for me to be able to tell them about the dangers of atomic wars and of fallout radiation."

Pauling, who received the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1954, released a statement Monday calling for a halt to nuclear bomb testing. His statement was attacked by more than 2,000 of the nation's scientists, including geneticists, chemists, biologists and physicists.

House Investigators Pressing for Probe

Washington — House investigators today pressed the Justice Department to explain why it hasn't prosecuted a land case involving Texas oil millionaire Sid Richardson.

Chairman Earl C. Hudoff (D-Pa.) of a House Government Operations Subcommittee said he wanted to determine whether someone in the administration was "hamstringing" the case to benefit Richardson.

Hudoff described Richardson as a billionaire and said the Texas case wasn't to make money but to retain control over the land so Negroes can't use it for hunting and fishing.

The Army engineers want to buy the land outright for $162,000. But Richardson wants to sell for a nominal sum an easement, allowing the government to flood it but not to use it for other purposes, such as recreation.

Moscow Has Largest Department Store

Moscow — Soviet Minister of Internal Trade Dmitri Pavlov said today Moscow's new "Children's World" is the largest department store in Europe.

He said the store, which caters to the needs and whims of Soviet youngsters, has a sales staff of 1,800 and a capacity for serving up to 150,000 customers daily. The store opened for business Wednesday.

Greek Parliament Airs Jurisdiction

Athens — A committee of the Greek parliament met today to discuss the jurisdiction of Greek courts over American troops stationed in Greece.

Under consideration is ratification of the "status of forces" agreement between the United States and Greece. Under the agreement the United States military reserves the right to try personnel for crimes committed while on duty. Greek civil courts will try American servicemen for offenses committed while off duty.

Sunday Evening Blaze Destroys Hornbrook Building

Hornbrook — Fire of undetermined origin gutted the unoccupied Bloomingcamp Meat market building Sunday evening.

The blaze was discovered by a passerby and reported about 7:15 p.m. The volunteer fire department responded immediately, but within a few minutes the inside of the building was completely involved in flames.

Two Injured

Two people sustained minor injuries in the fire. Miss Dorothy Smith received severe cut on her thumb while cutting a length of nylon rope. Firefighters planned to pull a hose into the top story of the adjacent T. Jones store with the nylon rope. Miss Smith was taken to a doctor in Yreka. Three stitches were needed to close the cut.

Al McCann received a superficial head wound when a piece of plaster fell, striking the side of his head and face.

Strong Wind

Despite a strong north wind, volunteer firemen and townpeople were able to prevent the fire from spreading to the T. Jones store and other buildings in the lower end of town. Electric power lines and the telephone cables were severed by the flames. Power was restored at 9:37 p.m. Sunday, but telephone service in parts of the Hornbrook area was out until shortly after 1 p.m. Monday.

The two-story reinforced concrete building had been unoccupied for a number of years. Built about 1905, this was the second time fire had gutted the building. The first time was in 1922, when a disastrous fire wiped out five business places. After the building was restored, the upper story was used for several years as a meeting place for the Woodmen of the World and Knights of Pythias lodge.

Insurance on the building expired on June 1, according to reports.

Earth Satellites To Give Man No Choice But To Live in Peace

San Francisco — A top American scientist says that when the earth satellites are launched "man will have no choice but to live in peace with other men."

Dr. Joseph Kaplan, professor of physics at the University of California at Los Angeles and head of the U.S. Committee for the International Geophysical Year, made the observation at the 72nd annual convention of the National Editorial Association Wednesday.

Limitless Possibilities

The earth satellites were designed for scientific study, Kaplan said, but they open the way to limitless possibilities if turned into destructive channels.

He said the U.S. satellite, to be launched from Florida, will permit study of air density, composition of the earth's crust, cosmic rays, meteors, and other aspects of the influence of outer space on the world.

"But the greatest influence will be on men," he said. "Men must begin to realize that we must live in peace."

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California told the delegates that "over the years, angry or distressed public officials have suggested curbs and restraints upon the legitimate exercise of our free press."

"Even if we concede that in a few instances this freedom may be somewhat distorted, we must accept the little bad in order to insure the greater good," Knight said.

Growth of Weeklies Seen

During an interview, President Alan C. McIntosh of Western Newspaper Representatives, predicted a steady growth of weekly newspapers in the United States.

The weekly newspaper is the last frontier of personal journalism in this country, McIntosh said.

Weather Halts Search For Lost Portlander

Molalla — Search for Mark Franklin, a 79-year-old Portlander missing since Friday in rugged country southeast of here, was halted Wednesday night by a violent wind and rain storm, but state police said the search would be resumed today.

Franklin disappeared last Friday. His car was found Saturday some 15 miles southeast of Molalla at the entrance of the Crown Zellerbach tree farm. Bloodhounds were brought in to the hunt. Keith Petrie and Hank Lewis of the mountain rescue council said the bloodhounds were following what was believed to be Franklin's trail until the heat of the morning ruined the scent.

EAGLE POINT City Office Hours Change

Eagle Point — The city council of Eagle Point, announced new city hall office hours beginning Tuesday, June 11. The office previously open afternoons will now be open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

The weekly newspaperman represents a new breed of cats," he said. "He is a better newspaperman than the weekly editor-publisher of yesterday and a better businessman."

"In addition, he makes a better and more satisfactory living than his metropolitan counterpart."

The four-day NEA convention ends Saturday.

New Parking Area Opens Here Today

The "Riverside Parking Area," a privately-operated parking lot located on the site where the historic Merrick's Natatorium used to stand, at Sixth and North Riverside ave., opened officially for business today.

The 3½-acre area now has 1½ acres cleared for parking purposes, and can accommodate up to 400 cars or other vehicles. The remaining two acres will be ready for parking soon, according to W. H. McKemie, proprietor of the lot.

Limited parking facilities have been in operation before today's official opening.

Woman Attracted To Crowd Finds Father

Los Angeles — Mrs. Paul Oliphant, 35, was shopping Wednesday when she was attracted to a crowd surrounding a man sprawled in the street.

Glancing at the man on the pavement, she realized with a shock that it was her father, Morris Osterman, 67, who had been hit by a car while crossing the street.

His condition was reported as "satisfactory" by attendants at Santa Monica Hospital.
