Family Council

Celia R.—Jake is interested in only one thing—Janet H.—Celia is prudish and jealous.

Celia R.—I am a girl in my late 20s. I have been on my own for the past eight years living and working in the city. Recently some friends of my parents wrote to me that their daughter was coming to the city where I live to study. They asked me to help find her way around here.

Janet is a lovely girl of 19. I asked her to come live in my apartment. We got along beautifully until a few months ago when she met this young man, Jake.

I didn't like him from the first. He showed that he was interested in only one thing—sex. I warned Janet against going out with him, but she paid no attention to me. Now she says she wants to take her own apartment. I know that she hasn't enough money to pay for one. I'm afraid of her relationship with Jake. I've threatened to tell her parents, but I'm not sure it's the right thing to do.

Janet H.—Celia is a nice person and means well, but she is really overstepping her bounds. My parents would have sent me here to school, whether or not she was here. They did not expect her to be my caretaker. They know they can trust me.

I'm afraid that Celia is rather prudish. Jake does a lot of free and easy talking, but he doesn't mean anything by it. It would be very cruel of Celia to worry my parents because of her own fears and prudish attitudes.

I also feel that Celia is a little bit jealous of me. She doesn't go out with men very much and I have been going out with Jake steadily. She always seemed very annoyed when she knew I would be away for the evening with him. She is rather lonely and I think she wants to keep me at her apartment for company, rather than for my own good. She is bullying me with her threat to tell my parents.

The Council: Janet defends herself by making some very unpleasant accusations against Celia, but she doesn't state her reasons for wanting to leave the older girl's apartment. This, plus her extremely defensive attitude, seems suspicious.

Janet also says that she has been seeing Jake steadily, but she doesn't mention seeing any other young man. She could only judge Celia's "jealousy" by observing her reaction to other men with whom she goes out.

The accusation of prudery may also be somewhat misplaced. Celia has been on her own in the city for many years. Janet has not. Celia has undoubtedly had more experience in sizing up individuals and evaluating behavior.

Celia is placed in a very nasty position. She was not supposed to be a "caretaker," but she can't help but feel some responsibility for a much younger girl, the daughter of friends,
