Strawberry shortcake is a favorite dessert with almost everyone, and if you prefer the old-fashioned biscuit base, here is basic recipe which will make enough shortcake to serve eight to 12 hearty appetites.

For the shortcake use 4 cups enriched flour sifted, 2 tablespoons baking powder, 2 teaspoons salt, 1/2 cup sugar, 2/3 cup butter or shortening, 2 eggs beaten and 2 cups milk. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut or rub in shortening or butter until mixture is crumbly. Combine egg and milk and add to flour mixture, stirring only enough to moisten the flour. Spread dough into two greased 9-inch pans. Bake in moderately hot oven, (400 degrees) 20 minutes. Cut recipe in half for 4-6 servings.

Clean, wash and stem about 5 cups strawberries and sweeten to taste after slicing or crushing. Bake basic scone recipe and cool slightly. Split layers. Alternately place split layer and 1 cup sliced berries on large serving plate. Top last slice of shortcake with remaining 1 cup of strawberries and top with 1 cup whipped cream. Garnish with whole berries.

English Royalty Attend Party Tuesday Evening

By JOHN D. PARRY
United Press Correspondent

London—The royal family attended the coming out party for Douglas Fairbanks daughter Daphne Tuesday night and Princess Margaret danced till dawn with an Irish peer 3 1/2 years her junior.

Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh attended with Princess Margaret and Princess Alexandra in another sign that the social stigma attached to divorcees in Britain is rapidly breaking down.

Both Fairbanks, former husband of actress Joan Crawford, and his wife have been married before. The Queen and Duke's attendance at a Fairbanks private dinner two years ago touched off a storm of protest.

Margaret's new boy friend was Lord Patrick Beresford, 25, who plays polo with the Duke and says he prefers spending his time in the stables to "wasting his time" with debutantes.

His family seat is in the republic of Ireland, which allows British peers to continue living there and retain their titles even though it is no longer part of the British Empire.

Lord Beresford has been the princess' constant escort in recent weeks and their long day together started early. He joined the royal party in their box at Ascot race-course and leaned over Margaret's shoulder to mark her race card.

He was one of the two "mystery" men seen with Margaret last week. The other, bearded, has not been identified publicly.

Queen Elizabeth arrived in a dazzling white gown and sparkling diamond tiara. She danced with Fairbanks and sat on one side drinking champagne while hundreds of guests danced in the great ballroom.

Good Looks, Charm Not Enough In Business World, Is Advice

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Correspondent

New York—Good looks and charm help a girl in the business world. But one successful business woman warns that the combination only opens the doors; it doesn't guarantee tenacity.

This advice to the girl graduate job hunting this summer comes from Dorothy Noyes, who managed to become a big wheel in advertising without developing an ulcer.

Miss Noyes is vice president and treasurer of Noyes and Sproul, Inc., an agency specializing in medical and pharmaceutical advertising. She was named Advertising Woman of 1957 by the Advertising Federation of America.

"Don't depend too much on good looks and charm," said Miss Noyes, who has both. "They may open the doors, but they won't make the sale."

Just Beginning
This was one of the five "do's" she believes all job applicants, men and women, should remember. The other four:

"Don't think your college diploma is the end of your education; actually you are just beginning to learn.

"Don't look for a mate who is physically attractive only.

"Don't fritter away your leisure time. Plan how to use it as constructively as your office hours.

"And as a girl, don't base all your hopes on being just a homemaker. Be prepared to contribute to the family income if it is necessary."

She also listed five "do's." "Do devote yourself wholeheartedly and constructively to the job.

"Do all you can to improve your skills; learn all you can in the scientific, mathematical and technical fields especially.

"Do find out as soon as you can what you are most interested in, and then go after a job in that field as fast as you can.

Do More
"Do more than your daily job requires. Everyone owes something to his or her community, and to the advancement of his or her profession.

"Do develop an interest in things international. . . be aware of what is happening in the world around you."

Miss Noyes, a native of Baltimore, began her career at 18, when she became a librarian for a medical society. By the time she was 24, she was account executive and copy writer for a New York agency specializing in pharmaceutical advertising. Then she decided to open her own business, and with Eugene Sproul, another specialist in the same field, formed the Noyes and Sproul agency.

She later married Sproul. The couple now is divorced although the business partnership is going strong. The couple has one child, Barbara, 12.

Visitors Leave

Dr. and Mrs. Harold Whalman have returned to their home in Los Angeles after spending a week here as guests of Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Lemery on Windsor avenue. Dr. Whalman fished the Rogue river during their stay. He has made numerous fishing trips to southern Oregon in recent years.

Phoenix Women To Hold Tea

Phoenix—The annual Birthday Tea held by the Women's association of the Phoenix Presbyterian church will be given Thursday, June 20, starting at 2 p.m. at the church.

Birthday motive will be used to decorate the tables. Mrs. E. R. Clafin, Mrs. E. R. James, and Mrs. J. H. Webster are in charge of refreshments and arrangements. Mrs. Ernest Volkman is program chairman for the tea.

Mrs. D. K. West of Medford will speak and Mr. and Mrs. John Kesler will sing a duet, one of several musical selections to be presented.

The Women's associations of Medford, Ashland, Jacksonville, and Central Point have been invited to attend, as well as all interested women of the community.

Prior to the tea at 1:30 p.m. a short business meeting will be held for all association members.

Luncheon Set

A luncheon at 1 p.m. Thursday, June 20, will begin the meeting of Griffin Creek Home Economics club. It will be held at the Roy LeVander home at 1025 Clay street, Ashland.
