

South Loses Major Battle in Senate Over Civil Rights

Washington—The South has lost a major battle in the Senate for the first time over civil rights legislation, but has not yet lost the war.

The biggest battles are still to come and probably will tie up the Senate during most of July in a filibuster. But even then, the chances that southern Democrats can defeat the bill will be much less bright than in past years.

First Round Victory
Supporters of the House approved administration civil rights bill won a first round victory in the 1957 struggle Thursday night. By a vote of 45 to 39, the Senate refused to follow normal procedure to send the House bill to its Judiciary Committee, where a similar measure has been bottled up since last winter.

The effect of this vote was to hold the bill in the Senate, where it can be taken up by a majority vote like any bill reported by a Senate committee. The motion to take up the bill is not expected until shortly after the July 4 holiday.

Need 64 Votes
Because that motion will be subject to filibuster, it can, in fact, be carried only if supporters of the bill can muster the 64 votes required to shut off debate under the Senate's anti-filibuster rule.

Thursday night's vote did not represent a true test on the civil rights issue because it came on a procedural question and involved a departure from Senate custom. For instance, a number of northern and western Democrats, such as Sens. John F. Kennedy (Mass.), Mike Mansfield (Mont.), and Wayne L. Morse (Ore.), who favor civil rights legislation, lined up with the southern bloc. They believed the bill should have been referred to committee and an attempt made later to discharge it if the committee failed to act.

Terry Moore's Mate Denies Her Charges

Santa Monica, Calif.—Wealthy Panama insurance broker Eugene Charles McGrath has denied that his estranged wife, film star Terry Moore, has any grounds for divorce.

Miss Moore filed for divorce Monday in Superior Court on charges of mental cruelty but accused McGrath of associating with several women during their marriage. The suit claimed the couple separated June 5.

McGrath in answer to the suit stated "there has been no separation of the parties." He also denied "all other allegations" in the complaint.

The actress and McGrath were married Jan. 1, 1936, at Las Vegas. She previously was married to football star Glenn Davis.

British Actor Hurt In Auto Accident

Hollywood—British actor Noel Drayton, 43, was reported in "serious condition" today from injuries suffered when he crashed actor Michael Wilding's sports car over a 15-foot embankment.

Police said Drayton, a friend of Wilding, was driving the car alone at high speed Thursday when it skidded and plunged over the embankment. He was trapped in the wreckage for 30 minutes before being rescued by an ambulance crew.

Drayton was rushed to an emergency hospital where he was reported to have suffered a possible skull fracture and other injuries.
