Both cars sustained minor damage.

Trough Blamed for Tornadoes, Floods

Washington—Weather experts Saturday blamed a vast "misplaced" trough in the high atmosphere for the tornadoes and floods which ravaged the Southwest this spring.

The deadly trough channeled destruction particularly upon Texas and Oklahoma. The trough still persists. But elements of the great air circulation pattern which created it have since moved north with the advance of the season. Thursday night they loosed a tornado upon Fargo, N.D.

The trough has given the United States its worst tornado season. For the country as a whole 624 tornado storms were reported in the first five months of 1957. The previous five-month record was set in 1955 with 392 twisters reported.

Texas alone has reported 125 tornadoes through May this year. Last year the state reported only 64 twisters in the same five months.

FIND TEETH
Des Moines, Iowa—Law makers frequently talk about putting "teeth" in legislation but an Iowa legislator apparently took it literally. Workmen cleaning up after the recent session found a set of false teeth in the Senate chamber.

Ike Invited to Spend Vacation in Minnesota
Washington—Sen. Edward J. Thye (R-Minn.) invited President Eisenhower Saturday to spend this year's vacation in Minnesota.

"The enthusiasm among Minnesotans for such a vacation visit would equal the tremendous reception you have received in Minnesota during your visits in past years," Thye wrote.

HOW TO BE AN ARCHITECT—Ercument Kalmik, professor of fine art at the Technical University in Istanbul, Turkey uses one of his own modernistic paintings to show Doris Lyster in San Francisco how he teaches budding architects greater awareness of line, space and form. Kalmik is touring the U. S. on a Government educational exchange grant. He believes that national characteristics in housing will disappear with the world wide use of new building materials.

Japanese Students Ask Leaders Release

Tokyo—Some 300 left-wing students Saturday marched on metropolitan police headquarters to demand the release of four leaders arrested during Friday's anti-American demonstrations at the U.S. Embassy.

The students had massed in front of the American Embassy, shouting demands for the "surrender" of Army Specialist 3c William S. Girard, and carrying placards accusing the United States of trying to "steal" Okinawa and planning to bring nuclear weapons into Japan.

Yesterday morning they marched on police headquarters but were halted by a solid rank of policemen. The students stamped their feet and shouted insults at the impassive officers.

General Motors to Import German Cars
Ruesselsheim, Germany—General Motors Corporation is planning to import German-made automobiles into the United States, the Opel automobile firm said Saturday.
