Flu Epidemic Authority Reviewed

Washington—(AP)—The Public Health Service is reviewing funds and statutory authority that might be needed if the Far East flu epidemic hits the United States with any force.

Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney said the agency would ask Congress for appropriations before the close of the present session if such funds are found to be needed.

Burney wrote Sen. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.) that a review was necessary since regular appropriations for fiscal 1958 do not include funds for emergency health activities.

Two Accidents Are Reported to Police

A light post was knocked over and two vehicles were damaged in an accident Monday afternoon at the Willow Springs junction on Highway 99 near Central Point, according to state police.

Involved in the accident was a car operated by Claudine Clair VanBuskirk, 48, Klamath Falls, and a log truck operated by Byron Mack Cummings, Grants Pass.

Police said Mrs. VanBuskirk was traveling north on the highway and apparently became confused as she approached the junction. She turned off on the old Blackwell Hill rd., then attempted to get back on Highway 99. Police said she pulled in front of the truck Cummings was operating.

Cummings applied his brakes, skidded 250 feet, traveled over a traffic island and struck the light pole. The pole hit the rear trunk lid and fender of Mrs. VanBuskirk's car. The trailer attached to the truck also broke loose. There were no injuries and no citations were issued.

Ralph G. Lue, 60, of 238 Oak Grove rd., Medford, was cited by state police Monday afternoon for making an illegal U turn after his car collided with a station wagon on Agate rd., in front of Ross mill.

Police said Lue had been parked on the east shoulder of the road headed north, then pulled onto the highway and made a sharp turn, striking the right side of the other vehicle. Operator of the station wagon was Mark Abner Green, 51, of 1118 East Main st., Medford. No one was injured, police said.

The national flag of Great Britain is a symetrical pattern of the crosses of St. Andrew, St. George and St. Patrick.

Rural Mail Delivery Service Restored

Washington—Rural mail delivery service has been ordered restored on 3.65 miles of route 1, Ashland, which includes eight postal patrons, according to Congressman Charles O. Porter.

The area is located on Highway 66 and Buckhorn Springs rd., and was part of Carrier Floyd Flood's route prior to its discontinuance on Aug. 10, 1956. After the discontinuance, which was ordered by the regional office of the postoffice department in Portland, service was provided by a star route carrier.

Porter said a review of the case by the postoffice department's general counsel indicates the suspension was not proper under a strict interpretation of law. The law prohibits spending of appropriations for inland transportation by star route service, unless the services of a qualified rural carrier cannot be secured.
