Oregonians Figure in Centennial Meeting Of NEA; Jackson County Delegates Listed

By OLIVE STARCHER
Mail Tribune Staff Writer
Philadelphia, July 1—An Oregonian, Ewald Turner of Pendleton, was nominated for vice-president of the Department of Classroom Teachers, National Education association, at the first business session of the department Monday on the opening day of the centennial convention of NEA.

Another Oregonian, Miss Martha Shull of Portland, retiring NEA president, is conducting the general centennial sessions.

Two Top Jobs Filled In Motor Vehicle Office

Salem —P— Director James Johnson Monday filled two top jobs in the State Motor Vehicle Department.

Edward Kanaski, teller in the state treasurer's office, was named to manage the administration services division. Howell E. Yarbrough, until recently chief clerk in the driver's license division, was picked to do procedures analysis work for the entire department.

A Medford delegate, Mrs. Maxine Smith, Medford, nominated Turner.

Turner, a manual arts teacher, was named Man of the Year by Pendleton Junior Chamber of Commerce last year.

Local Delegates
Jackson county delegates at the centennial meeting include Mrs. Elsie Turner, Medford resident who teaches in Eagle Point; Mrs. Viola Pomeroy, Eagle Point; Miss Anna Laura Honts, Lincoln school teacher who is representing Medford Grade School Teachers, and Jim McDonald, Medford, junior at Southern Oregon college and newly elected president of Student National Education association.

Mrs. Smith, former president of the Department of Classroom Teachers, Oregon Education association, is a member of the advisory council of the National Department, and Sunday afternoon was one of the hostesses for a formal reception given by the department at the Benjamin Franklin hotel.

15,000 Delegates
Delegates and visitors, estimated at 15,000, crowded into Philadelphia Saturday and Sunday.

day. They are from every state in the Union and Manila and Guam, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and Alaska. The Puerto Ricans, who always turn out in full force, boast that 125 delegates plus more than 300 visitors are here for the convention. The mammoth convention hall and adjoining exhibition building are swarming.

In her opening address to the convention Monday evening Miss Shull said "It is clear that if the basic values of democracy are to survive, education must meet new needs in every area of living." She stressed four areas, those of science and technology, greater understanding of other parts of the world, more understanding of a feeling of responsibility for our kind of government and the need to enable people to be happy in a profound sense—"to see that material possessions and financial success are not the source of happiness."

Other Activities
Miss Shull also presided at a vespers service Sunday night and later delegates and visitors attended a concert by the Philadelphia Symphony at Robin Hood Dell with Alexander Hilsberg conducting.

The NEA board of directors met Sunday and drafted a wire to President Eisenhower urging him to support HR 1, the pending school construction bill. The

Cave Junction Plans Fourth Celebration

Cave Junction — The VFW grounds near Cave Junction have been transformed into a concession area for the July Fourth celebration which starts this afternoon in the Illinois valley.

Members of the three veterans' groups in the valley are in charge of the event which will include entertainment for the children, several food and amusement booths, two big open air dances July 3 and 4, and the main attraction, a parade at noon on Independence Day.

The Queen will be crowned at 9 p.m. at the Queen's ball, July 3, on the dance floor at the VFW grounds. She will also reign at the July 4 dance.

Princesses who are competing for the title are Bonnie Rausch, Helen Symens, Barbara Prewitt, Sharon Earl, Barbara Hawkins, Janice Stephens and Virginia LaBorde.

SURPRISE!

Grandola, Portugal — P— Bachelor Angelo Rodriguez was mystified surprised to learn he was already married when he applied for a marriage license Tuesday. Investigation disclosed one of his brothers borrowed his name to get married a second time after he failed to get along with his first wife.

The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual report. The Family Council does not give advice; it merely reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Ina T. — He has hurt me too much.
Larry D. — It was the fault of our parents.

Ina T. — Four years ago, when I was 18, I fell in love with a young man of my own age. We wanted to marry, but our parents managed to convince us that we were much too young.

Larry and I went together for three whole years, seldom seeing anyone else. We planned to marry at 21, but just before that time Larry met another girl and married her before I even had an inkling of what was going on.

I was so heartbroken I could hardly stand to look at anyone else for a long time. During the past eight months, however, I have been going out a lot. I can't help comparing everyone to Larry and nobody seems anywhere near him.

Recently Larry called me and said he had made a terrible mistake in his marriage. He wants to get a divorce and marry me. He has hurt me so much I don't know whether I can give him a second chance.

Larry D. — Ina is now afraid that I am the fickle type, but nothing could be more untrue. I never went out with any other girl in all the time we went steady—until I met the girl I met the girl I married.

It just happened I met Dora, the girl I married, quite by accident. She was the very aggressive type and things went so fast, I was getting married before I knew what I was doing. The whole thing was really the fault of our parents. Ina and I were very much in love and quite mature for our age. We really suffered those three years, being so involved with each other and being together so much, but unable to get married. I have had the same experience with Dora that Ina has had going out with other men. I can't help comparing Dora to Ina and thinking how much nicer Ina is and how much happier I would be with her.

The Council: Larry's statement that he and Ina were "quite mature for our age" four years ago may be taken with many grains of salt—in view of the fact that they are not as mature as they should be now.

By his own admission Larry barely knew Dora before he leaped to marry her and now he is leaping to dissolve this union before getting to know her. He has been so busy comparing Dora to Ina at the time and blaming both her and his parents for the marriage, he has hardly had a chance to take a good look at his wife.

Ina is going exactly the same thing. She cannot get to know other men while she is busily comparing them with Larry.

It appears that Ina and Larry cling to one another in an infantile manner, perhaps as a protection against getting to know others. They gave in to their parents' wishes only partially when they put off their marriage. The parents probably wanted them to put their relationship to a real test.

This would mean going through the maturing process by getting to know others. They avoided this to such a degree that Larry, inexperienced in social relationships with other girls, was completely bowled over by an accidental meeting with a new girl.

Ina and Larry are now exactly where they were four years ago—too young for marriage. Nevertheless, Larry must make more of an attempt to make a go of his marriage. He owes an honest effort to his wife and himself.

They had never flown before. But early one morning Zdenek Machiner, 19, and Karel Kucera, 20, tied up a Czech guard and wobbled to the safety of West Germany in a stolen plane.

Neither could fly... but they soloed to freedom

These two escaped—but 70 million others remain captive behind the Iron Curtain. And these are the people at whom Radio Free Europe beams its daily broadcasts. Escape is not its aim. Radio Free Europe penetrates the Iron Curtain to spread truth... to strengthen hope and resistance.

Said the youths above, "It (Radio Free Europe) added courage and strength to strained nerves."

"It offered us... a hope for a better future," said a young nurse who fled to the West.

"Everybody is listening—even the Communists," said an escaped Czech skating champion.

From 29 powerful transmitters, Radio Free Europe broadcasts up to 20 hours of truth a day to five key satellite countries—Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria. And how the Communist bosses fear it!
