Protestant-Roman Catholic Tension Discussed by Editor

Editor's note: Author of this week's religious column is the editor-in-chief of the well-known Roman Catholic weekly, America. He discusses the tensions between Protestants and Catholics over questions of school buses, politics and other matters.

BY FR. THURSTON N. DAVIS
Editor-in-Chief of America
National Catholic Weekly

There has been a lot said and a lot written recently about religious tensions. Many of us are concerned over them, particularly over worsening relations between Protestant and Catholics. I am not alone in my judgement that these tensions are mounting in the United States. My work as editor of the Catholic weekly review America brings

School Starts; Sermons Told

Jacksonville—"The Pursuit of Happiness" will be the 11 a.m. service by the Rev. Robert Bridge at the Jacksonville Presbyterian church Sunday.

Adventist Camp Opening Told; Delegates to Attend

Opening date of the annual Oregon Conference Seventh-day Adventist summer camp meeting at Gladstone Park near Portland was announced this week by conference headquarters.

The annual ten-day event will begin Thursday evening, July 25, and will close on Saturday night, August 3. Prior to the annual camp meeting, the biennial business session of the conference will be held. The business session will get under way Wednesday night, July 24, and will be climaxed in time for the opening service of the camp meeting.

The biennial session will have official delegates from each of the 110 churches to hear reports from the department heads and to elect conference leaders.

Delegates from Medford and vicinity will include Mrs. Jennie Walker, Mrs. Laura Hamer, and Mrs. Marty Barnett from the Valley View church, and Mrs. C. A. Guderian and Mrs. Zella Snyder from the Medford church.

Elder John Trude, pastor of the Medford and Eagle Point churches, and Elder Floyd Breese, pastor of the Valley View and Ashland churches will leave July 7 to assist in preparing for the camp.

The preparation of the more than 1400 pitched tents and 400 cabins, as well as all other aspects of getting the 74-acre campground ready for meetings is a yearly task assigned to the Adventist ministers of the conference.

During the absence of the pastor, local church officers will conduct regular services, and guest speakers have been appointed each week for the worship hour.

Congregation Has Guest Minister

The Rev. Lloyd G. Knight has come to Medford to supply the pulpit of the Congregational church during the month of July. He and Mrs. Knight will make their home in the parsonage during the absence of the Rev. and Mrs. Thomas McCamant on vacation.

Mr. Knight, now retired, has served as a Congregational minister for many years with pastorates in Idaho. He has recently served several interim pastorates in churches of various denominations and filled the pulpit of the Congregational church here two years ago during the summer.

He has chosen as his sermon topic for July 7, "Our Guaranteed Right to the Pursuit of—What?" Later sermon topics will be: "Discovery of God," "The Revelation, Continued" and "The Value (if any) of Revelations."

Music Announced For Sunday Services at First Nazarene Church

At the morning service at the First Church of the Nazarene, the church organist, Miss Ellen Kay McUine, will present "Blumen-Andacht" and "Prelude" as the prelude for the service. As the offertory selection she will present, "He Cares."

Miss McUine will also accompany the sanctuary choir. The sanctuary choir, under the direction of minister of music, W. Lee Mansfeld, will sing, "Praise Ye The Lord." Mr. Mansfeld will also sing as a solo selection, "Great is Thy Faithfulness."
