

Education Program Offered War Orphans

More than 3,000 sons and daughters of deceased war veterans attended class this past school year under the recently enacted War Orphans Education program, S. T. Brannock, officer in charge of the local veterans administration office, reported today.

Brannock pointed out that the educational program, which went into effect after the 1956-57 school year got under way, is just now beginning to gain momentum. During the next school year, Brannock predicted, war orphans enrollments probably will more than double this year's total.

Mrs. Zahnnow Named to New Post at Camp White

Camp White—Mrs. Annabelle Zahnnow has been appointed secretary in the supply division, assuming the position held by Doris Oakes, who has been named purchasing agent, Manager E. K. Ricker, of the VA domiciliary has announced.

Grange Notes

Phoenix Grange will meet Tuesday, July 9, at 8 p.m. Miss Evelyn Niedermeyer will have the display table and give a report on her experiences at 4-H summer school.

The refreshment committee will be Mr. and Mrs. George Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lacey and Mrs. Alford Shutt.

Publicity Chairman Gertrude Lewin

The years ahead will witness even greater increases, Brannock said, as younger children of deceased veterans reach the legal age for war orphans schooling. Generally, the program is for young men and women between 18 and 23 years of age. All approved training must be along vocational lines, or for educational pursuits beyond high school level. Generally the orphan of the deceased veteran must be of an age above compulsory school attendance; must not have reached his 23rd birthday on the effective date of the law, June 26, 1956. Exceptions to these rules are made in a few cases Brannock stated.

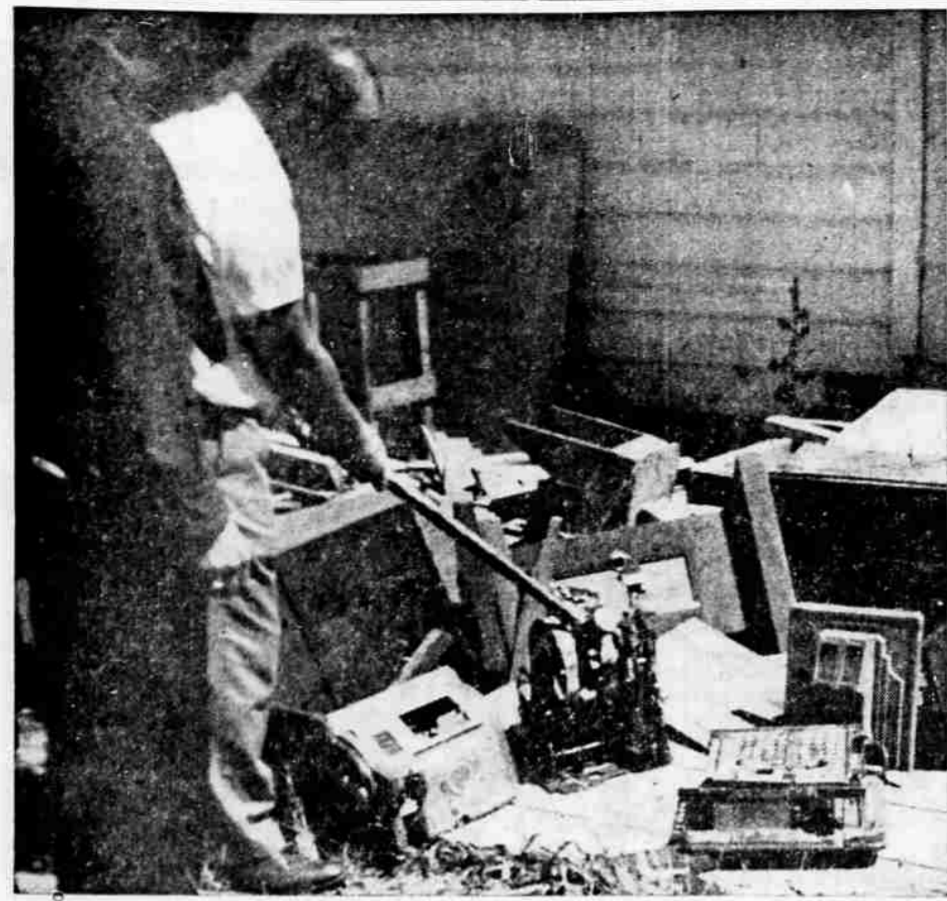

At present an estimated 25,000 sons and daughters of war veterans who died of conditions caused by military service are 14 years old. They'll reach the eligible age for war orphans education in another four years, Brannock said another 60,000 now are under 14.

Attend Colleges

Of the 3,000 who enrolled during the past school year, 94 per cent attended colleges and universities. Below college-level courses are allowed by law, Brannock said, so long as the young person is out of high school and wants to take a below-college course that will equip him for a definite vocational goal.

War orphans education is available to the sons and daughters of World War I, World War II and Korea veterans who died of conditions caused by their military service.

Young men and women may receive up to 36 months of education, with VA paying them an allowance of up to $110 for each month of full-time schooling completed.
