

Bunning, Simmons Starters In All-Star Baseball Fray

By STAN MOCHLER
United Press Sports Writer
St. Louis—Casey Stengel today named rookie righthander Jim Bunning of the Tigers to start against the National league in the 24th annual All-Star classic Tuesday. Walt Alston picked left-hander Curt Simmons of the Phillies to oppose the American league.

Stengel also announced the American league batting order: Harvey Kuenn, Detroit, ss; Nellie Fox, Chicago, 2b; Al Kaline, Television Station KBES will bring the major league all-star baseball game at 10:15 a.m. Tuesday.

Detroit, rf; Mickey Mantle, New York, cf; Ted Williams, Boston, lf; Vic Wertz, Cleveland, lb; Yogi Berra, New York, c; George Kell, Baltimore, 3b, and Bunning.

Stengel picked Bunning because of the predominant right-handed National league starters. Only Musial and Bailey are southpaws.

The weatherman predicted a warm day for the game and the oddsman predicted a National league victory.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals and Williams are the grandpappy types in the lineup. This will be Stan's 14th appearance in the classic and the 13th for Ted.

Musial is having one of his greatest years and the Boston Beller is in the thick of the batting and home run race.

Other All-Star old-timers are Yogi Berra in his eighth, George Kell, the sixth and Nellie Fox, the fifth. The only freshman on either starting lineup is Cincinnati third baseman Don Hoak.

Several factors contribute to the slim 6-to-5 edge the Nationals have in the betting odds. They will be seeking their seventh victory in the last eight games of the inter-league rivalry and they will be playing in a National league park. Also, their combined batting average is nine points above the Americans even 300.

Going for the Americans, however, is an overall advantage of 13-10 in the big game, which dates back to 1933 and skips only the war year of 1945.

This will be the third All-Star game for St. Louis and it will be a rubber game as far as the city is concerned. The now-defunct Browns were hosts for an American league, 5-2 victory in 1948 and the Cards entertained for a 4-0 National victory in 1940.

Dairy Maids Plaster MC
Ricker Field, Camp White—Rogue Valley Dairy Maids defeated Myrtle Creek 15 to 1 Saturday night in a non-league women's softball game.

The Rogue Valley club had a five-run surge in the second inning and recorded seven in the third. Myrtle Creek was held to one hit and eight errors by the Douglas county nine helped out the home club.

Pat Barron took the pitching win for the Dairy Maids and Warren was the losing tosser.

Chiefs Score 8th Victory In 2nd Half

By UNITED PRESS
Wenatchee's Chiefs are blazing an unbeaten trail through the Northwest league park in the second half. The Chiefs ran their winning streak to eight straight over the week end.

Saturday the Chiefs squeezed out an 8-7 decision over Lewiston for their sixth straight. Sunday they turned in 12-0 and 3-2 victories over the Broncos.

Jim Bailey whiffed 8 and walked but 2 in blanking the Broncos in Sunday's opener. Chico Alvarez, with a two-run homer that started the Chiefs off to a 7-run second inning was the hitting hero.

On Sunday the Washingtonians of Cheney Lumber company combed three Medford twirlers for a total of 14 safeties. They took advantage of a big share of 14 bases on balls issued by the home team tossers and of seven errors charged to the southern Oregon team.

Eugene completed a four-game sweep over Tri-City. The Emeralds took Saturday's game 4-2 and turned in 11-4 and 3-0 decisions Sunday.

Mike Acker coasted home behind a 12-hit attack in the opener and Berlyn Hodges handcuffed the Braves with three hits in the nightcap Sunday.

Yakima got out of its winless ways Saturday with a 5-4 victory over Salem. The two clubs then split their Sunday twin bill with Yakima 10-2 winners in the opener and Salem a 1-0 victor in the nightcap behind three-hit pitching by Chuck Lybeck.

Yakima got to Andy George in the seventh inning of the Sunday opener and before the frame was out had scored all its 10 runs.

Lybeck was too much for the Bears in the nightcap, however. Cal Bauer's solo homer with two out in the eighth was the deciding blow.

Tri-City Reports Money Troubles
Kennewick—The Tri-City Braves are on the verge of a financial collapse, club officials said Sunday.

The Tri-City Athletic association announced that without help from fans the team would fold before the end of the current Northwest League season.

The club, owned by more than 800 stockholders, was on shaky financial footing at the start of the season and the situation has become so difficult that unless financing is secured it will be necessary to suspend operations according to Bill Willets, president of the group.

Seattle, which left 13 men on bases during the evening, had home team pitcher Bartow in tough situations in at least five of the innings in which the Washingtonians didn't score. The visitors had two men on and no outs in the sixth inning and two on and one out in the first, third, seventh and ninth innings. His own pitching and Medford fielding helped him out of most of the difficulties.

In the ninth when Bartow's arm getting stiff, with Shill and George Kritzonis on third and second bases on hits and a wild pitch and with two out, Manager Roelandt called in Duane Sides for mound relief. Sides fanned Monty Geiger to end the game. The second strike, called, brought considerable squawk from the Seattle batsman.

Bartow might have been able to take care of Geiger but Roelandt pointed out that the Washington player had collected two hits off the Medford tosser in

Seattle, Medford Studs Split Diamond Series at Fairgrounds

Medford Cheney Studs wind up a string of seven straight non-league games Wednesday evening by playing the Klamath Falls Cubs at the fairgrounds diamond here, Klamath is playing in the Northern California league and at last report was fourth in the standings. The Cubs had a 4-4 record in their circuit. The team is made up predominantly of ex-Klamath Union High athletes.

Medford's Cheney Studs accomplished their first triumph in three seasons of series here with their Seattle counterparts with a 5 to 2 margin on Saturday night. But the old hex of the past two series came back to haunt on Sunday and the Rogue valley's top semi-pro baseball aggregation was the victim of a 22 to 7 humiliation at the hands of the stellar Seattle nine.

Jerry Droscher's three-run homer was the pay-off in Saturday night's decision. It overcame a 1 to 2 deficit which had been established by Gene Leek's two-tally home run for Seattle.

On Sunday the Washingtonians of Cheney Lumber company combed three Medford twirlers for a total of 14 safeties. They took advantage of a big share of 14 bases on balls issued by the home team tossers and of seven errors charged to the southern Oregon team.

Seattle had three-run home runs by Steve Hinkley and Ron Dodge and a solo roundtripper by George Kritzonis. A dropped outfield fly also served the purpose of a "homer" with three runs coming in on the four-base miscue.

Medford also collected solo four-base hits by Ed Reinking, Frank Roelandt and Jerry Droscher. But they all came in the final cantos when Seattle had the fracas in the bag and didn't appear to be bearing down so hard as in the early frames.

Droscher's roundtrip clout over the left field fence, which proved the key hit, in the Saturday night Medford verdict, came in the sixth inning. It followed a two-base line safety by Frank Roelandt and a walk to Ron Owings. After the homer, Frank Reitor got on base with a neat drag bunt down the third base line but Dennis King hit to shortstop, forcing out Reitor.

Extra scoreboard padding for the home club was obtained, however, when Jerry Bartow's fly to right center field bounded for a three base hit and the Medford thrower tallied on error on the relay from the outfield.

First Medford run was in the second inning. Owings led off with a whack which bounced the ball over the fence for an automatic double. Droscher fled out to deep center field and Owings went to third on base after the catch. Reitor then duplicated Droscher's deep fly and Owings scored on the sacrifice.

In the fifth inning for Seattle Mike White drew a base on balls and went to second sack on an error on an attempted pick-off. Norm Shill's sacrifice bunt put White on third and Leek followed with his homer over the outer left barrier.

Seattle, which left 13 men on bases during the evening, had home team pitcher Bartow in tough situations in at least five of the innings in which the Washingtonians didn't score. The visitors had two men on and no outs in the sixth inning and two on and one out in the first, third, seventh and ninth innings. His own pitching and Medford fielding helped him out of most of the difficulties.

In the ninth when Bartow's arm getting stiff, with Shill and George Kritzonis on third and second bases on hits and a wild pitch and with two out, Manager Roelandt called in Duane Sides for mound relief. Sides fanned Monty Geiger to end the game. The second strike, called, brought considerable squawk from the Seattle batsman.

Bartow might have been able to take care of Geiger but Roelandt pointed out that the Washington player had collected two hits off the Medford tosser in four trips to the plate and that Geiger was an old college foe of Bartow's and knew his pitching. Bartow and catcher Roelandt had fooled Geiger with a change up forcing him to ground out in the seventh inning, but it was decided to give him "something different." The move was successful strategy for a victory the Medford nine desperately wanted.

Despite tiring, Bartow was a bit more effective over the 8 2/3-inning route than the combined work of his two hill foes, Dave Gray and Norm Popkin. The Medford chucker yielded eight hits and five bases on balls and had 10 strikeouts. The Seattleites also gave up eight hits. They walked four and hit one batter and had six strikeouts.

Leek hit two for four and Geiger two for five for Seattle and Owings two for three and Roelandt and Bartow each two for four for Medford.

Seattle put over runs Sunday in every inning except the third when Leek was caught trying to stretch a twin-bagger into a triple. Big inning was the fourth when six runs crossed home on only one hit, a double by Wayne Lanter. There were three walks and two errors in the frame. Three runs scored on Joe Fox's high fly. Centerfielder John Kovenz lost the ball momentarily in the sun, spotted it but was off balance, tumbled and muffed the catch.

Medford had a 2 to 1 lead in the game after one inning. Kritzonis got his Seattle homer in the canto. Medford tallied on an error, a fielder's option, a double by Kovenz and a single by Owings. Then Seattle built a 16 to 2 margin before Medford got another run.

Reinking, with his single and homer in five times up was the only Medford player Sunday with more than one hit. Ron Dodge socked two for three and White two for four for Seattle. Fox clouted three for five, Leek two for five and Lanter two for seven, both doubles.

Seattle collected four hits, five walks and five runs off Droscher in 3 1/3 innings, three hits, six walks and nine runs off Don Vannice in two innings and seven hits, three walks and eight runs off Kay Leek in 3 2/3 innings.

The Washington team also used three chuckers. Kritzonis gave up three hits and two runs in three innings, Bob Maxwell three hits, a walk and two runs in four innings and Gray three hits and three runs in two innings.

Thunderstorms Cool Plains States; Few Funnel Clouds Seen

By UNITED PRESS
Cooler air swept through the plains today, denting a heat wave with an outburst of severe thunderstorms and occasional tornado clouds.

The storm line extended from eastern Nebraska through southern Minnesota and northern Iowa. Winds up to 60 mph accompanied a series of violent electrical storms.

Grand Island Pounded
Grand Island, Neb., was pounded by winds up to 81 mph early today, causing minor property damage. A funnel cloud was sighted north of Albert Lea, Minn., but apparently it failed to touch the ground. Another twister was sighted near Madison, Wis., but there was no damage.

Parts of Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and Minnesota were under a tornado alert until 6 a.m. (EDT) today.

Readings climbed into the upper 90s as far north as Nebraska Sunday before dropping as cool Pacific air overspread the region.

Thunderstorms and high winds in advance of the cooler air also buffeted Michigan during the night. The Kalamazoo, Mich., area was hit by hailstones one-half inch in diameter.

Weathermen said thunderstorms are expected today from the Great Lakes region to the northern Appalachians. Scattered afternoon thunder showers are seen for the plains states, and generally fair weather is expected on the West coast.

Warren Deakins Jr., Medford, was sixth low gross in the Mirror Pond golf meet at Bend. He had a card of 77-78-155. Larry Copple, Medford, shot 82-88-170.

Bend—Benny Hughes of Portland slipped to a 79 Sunday but his 36-hole total of 147 was still good enough to win the sixth annual Mirror Pond golf tournament.

Owen Panner of Bend was second with 149 and Millard Porter of Prineville third with 150.

Paul Harney Cops LaBatt Links Open

Ste. Dorothee, Que.—Slender Paul Harney, the hottest golfer on the PGA circuit, clobbers a putting tip from his father and a newly-prescribed headache pills for his second major tournament victory in three weeks.

The graying native of Worcester, Mass., continued his extraordinary, sub-par shooting Sunday to win the $29,000 LaBatt Open and pick up top money of $3,500. He headed almost immediately for Kitchener, Ont., for the $25,000 Canadian Open after registering his 10th under-par round in the last 12 outings. On the other two he matched par.

Harney, playing his third year on the pro circuit, finished one stroke in front of huge George Bayer, the only player who can outdrive Harney. Bayer blew a chance to tie Harney with a 278 when he bogeyed the par-4 17th, missing a 212-foot putt for his par.

Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., Bayer and Conrad were all just one strike back of Harney after 54 holes. Ford, Gene Littler, Singing Hills, Calif., a winner in this event two years ago, and newcomer Bill Trombley, were just three strokes off the pace and Bert Weaver and Ken Veatari, who shared the half-way lead with Harney, were four back. But none of them was able to come up with a big round and overtake Harney.

Leo Kiley Chalks Up Eleventh Straight Win in Relief Role

By SCOTT BAILLIE
United Press Sports Writer
Leo Kiley, almost as sharp as the guy who arrives late at a party then leaves with a girl on each arm, breezed along for the San Francisco Seals today sporting a total of 11 straight victories — and all picked up in relief.

The lanky southpaw boosted his overall season mark to 12-2 Sunday while the Seals took a doubleheader from Portland by identical 4-3 scores to retain their 2 1/2-game lead over Vancouver.

Kiley made his customary late arrival in the sixth frame of the nightcap and left with the triumph about 10 minutes later when Tom Umphelett drove home the winning run in the seventh with a sacrifice fly.

The Mounties kept the pace by drubbing Los Angeles twice, 5-1, and 5-0, while San Diego and Hollywood split. The Pads won the opener on the strength of two homers by Earl Averill Jr., 5-4, and Hollywood took the nightcap in overtime 3-2.

In other PCL action, Seattle downed last-place Sacramento, 3-1, on Bud Podbielan's four-hitter then was walloped, 8-2. Like The Pads

Young Averill, socking them like his daddy used to do, clubbed a pair of solo home runs in the opener which made the difference as third place San Diego downed Hollywood, 5-4. His second blast came in the ninth to offset a Hollywood marker in the bottom frame. Dick Brodowski saved the win for Jim (Mudcat) Grant, who now is 6-4. Curt Raydon lost his eighth.

The Stars won the overtime nightcap in the ninth inning when Leo Rodriguez doubled home the winning run. George Witt, the fifth Twinkle hurler to enter the fray, got his fifth

Jack Dunn Annexes NW Batting Toga

Portland—Jack Dunn of Salem with a .378 mark led Northwest league hitters in the first half of play which ended June 30.

Herman Lewis and Vince Norci of Yakima and Ellis Burton of Tri-City dominated the remainder of the statistics.

Lewis led in hits with 90, in doubles with 22, in total bases with 148 and in runs batted in with 89. Teammate Norci led in walks, 77, in runs scored, 70, and fanned 51 times to lead in that respect.

Burton led in homers with 16 and had stolen the most bases, 20. Zeke King of Eugene led in triples with 9 and Glenn Lukenbill of Salem and John Keller of Eugene were tied for sacrifice hits with 11 each.

Chuck Lybeck of Salem led the pitchers in percentage with a mark of .786 and a record of 11-3. He was tied with Vern Kindsfather of Salem in complete games with 13.

Ollie Brantley of Eugene led in victories with 14, had pitched the most innings, 142, and was the loop's strikeout king with 97.

Billy Pearson Hikes TV Pay To $170,000

New York—Jockey Billy Pearson parlayed his total quiz show winnings to $170,000 Sunday night when he defeated a New York fashion model on "The $64,000 Challenge."

Pearson, of Pasadena, Calif., won $32,000 when he challenged an answer to a Renaissance art question given by his opponent, Mrs. Jane Wilson, model, housewife and artist. He then gave the correct answer to the question.

In another match, 11-year-old science whiz Robert Strom, tied at $8,000 with his challenger, David Junchen, 11, Sherrard, Ill., on a science category question on the CBS-TV show. They will return next week to answer questions worth $18,000.

Longfellow's Wayside Inn Was First Howe's Tavern
Sudbury, Mass.—The Wayside Inn, immortalized in Longfellow's poem, "Tales of a Wayside Inn," was built in 1888 and originally named Howe Tavern. Later, the inn, which now is undergoing restoration after being destroyed by fire, became known as the Red Horse Tavern.

United Press entered the picture field in 1952 with 292 clints. The total was 639 in 1957.
