New Shake Machine Designed by CJ Man

Cave Junction—Earl James, owner of Illinois Valley Cedar Products, has designed a new shake machine which produces a sawed and grooved rustic-type shake in one operation, eliminating the splitting process.

Grooves running lengthwise of the exposed portion of the shake give the effect of the hand-split product but can be done entirely by the new machine. It was built to James' specifications by Daugherty Machine Shop in Grants Pass.

James expects to apply for a patent on his design as soon as his shake mill on the Takilma road is in full production.

The shakes, which he said are a cross between a rustic shake and a shingle, can be cut to any length or thickness. The process is expected to almost double production.

Area Boy Scouts Arrive in Washington

Editor's Note: The following article was written for the Mail Tribune by Stan Dowson, one of 63 Crater Lake Area council Boy Scouts attending the annual 10-day Boy Scout Jamboree in Washington, D.C. The boys met at Klamath Falls July 2 and will return here July 27.

We arrived in Washington after a thrilling trip across the United States. We left Glacier after a nice trip and then we arrived in Fargo and had a refreshing swim.

The next day we arrived in Chicago where we took a tour of the Chicago Natural History Museum and the aquarium and planetarium.

Some of the braver scouts took a quick dip in Lake Michigan. There are many sights to see in Washington and we want to see them.

$2 Million Motel Is Planned at Dunsmuir

Dunsmuir—Construction of a new $2 million 150-room motel will start in the near future on a 25-acre site near Shasta Springs, north of Dunsmuir, on Highway 99, according to William di Christina, representative of Royal Hotels, Inc., Dunsmuir.

First phase of the project, which will include grading, paving and landscaping, will require about six months to complete. The motel will be named Shasta Royal Inn.

The over-all project will include landscaping, a heated swimming pool, shuffle boards, badminton and tennis courts, putting greens and other recreation facilities, di Christina said.

Istanbul Resident Studying Access Roads

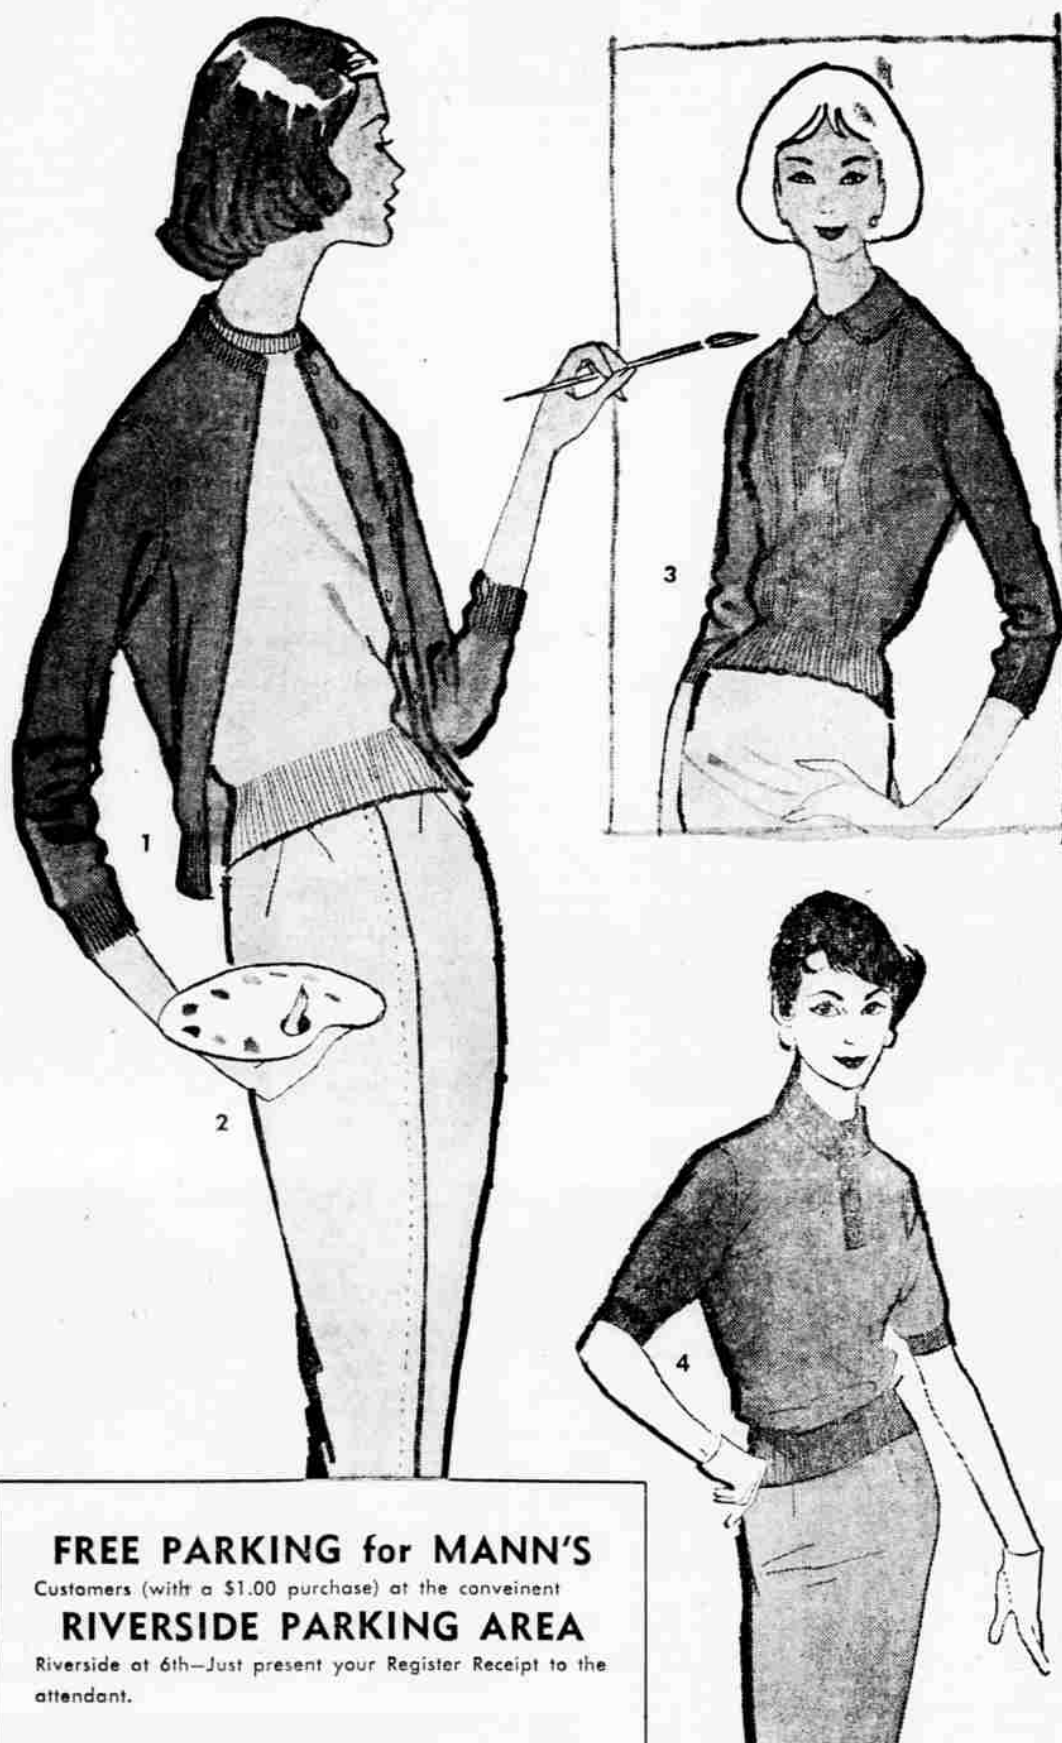

Selcuk Bayoglu, professor of logging engineering at the University of Istanbul, Turkey, is making a brief study of the access road construction projects on the Medford forest district of the bureau of land management.

His study is in connection with a year's scholarship at the University of Washington. Professor Bayoglu has attended classes at the University of Washington during the spring quarter and plans to resume his studies during the coming fall and winter quarters and then return to Istanbul.
