HORN BROOK Railroad Agent To Retire

By MRS. H. H. CHAPMAN Hornbrook—Sunday, July 14, will mark the beginning of a well-deserved rest for George E. Carey, who has been the Southern Pacific agent in Hornbrook since March 9, 1949. Born in Texas, Carey started to learn telegraphing in 1898 under his brother-in-law on the old Colorado Midland railroad, which ran from Colorado Springs to Grand Junction, Colo. The road was scrapped during World War I and part of it was absorbed by the Denver and Rio Grande. He returned to Texas in 1899 and was working as an operator for Western Union in Galveston at the time of the tragic and costly hurricane and tidal wave of Sept. 8, 1900. He worked for the Southern Pacific for a short time in 1902 and then for several other railroads, then signed up with the government for two year's work in Panama. From 1908 to 1915 he worked for the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific and in 1916 for the Union Pacific, where "he worked every job they had between Cheyenne and Ogden." After serving in World War I, he came back to the S.P. on Aug. 10, 1920 and has been on the Shasta division ever since. Last Monday at the Dunsmuir hotel in Dunsmuir, Calif., he was honored at an agent's meeting and dinner. The chief clerk and trainmaster also were guests, and A. W. Kilborn, superintendent of the Shasta division, was host and principal speaker. Carey was made a traditional "dollar a year man" of the S.P., and was presented a silver dollar for each year of his service with the company. After his retirement he and Mrs. Carey will continue to make their home in Hornbrook. A "dead glacier," one that thaws before it reaches the ocean, is as brittle as glass yet as pliant as tooth paste, says the National Geographic Society.
