ILLINOIS VALLEY Breakdown Halts Work

BY HELEN BOTTEL
Cave Junction — A broken wheel on heavy paving equipment on the four-and-one-half mile Deer Creek road job set the county road crew back half a day last Monday. Because of this delay and other finishing work on the Selma road, Foreman Frank Gant says the paving crew will not start on the Lone Mountain Valley road until next week.

He expects to begin the job by Thursday on this two-and-one-half mile stretch of road. Sweeping loose gravel off the road here recently, Gant said the new bed laid last year has hardened better than expected, even on the shoulders. The firm foundation should make the paving job hold up for years, he added.

Because the road bed on the Old Stage road near Cave Junction is still too loosely packed for regular paving, an extra heavy coating of oil will be applied this year. This special oil coat is similar to hard-top Gant says.

A natural phenomenon occurred during the rain last week, which some folks said might be symbolic.

It was a moonlight night and rain had stopped in town but it was still drizzling on the foothills. A perfect rainbow formed across the night sky, stretching from Woodcock to Eight Dollar mountain, but the span had no colors. It sparkled in varying shades of silver, the color of the nickel being sought in the two mountains.

Sally Clark, who sold her Pines Motel to Mr. and Mrs. Tony Stava, was honored at a farewell party and dinner given recently at the Todelepe cafe in Cave Junction. A money tree decorated with silver dollars was presented to Mrs. Clark, who is now living at 1511 Locust, Long Beach, Calif.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Boyd last Saturday and Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. N. V. Strom-men, Mrs. Boyd's parents, from Brookings, and Mrs. Madge Herring, Mrs. Boyd's aunt, from Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Boyd, of Crescent City, visited the Earl Boyds at their home on the Westside road last weekend. The men are brothers.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Love, of O'Brien, had as guests early this week Mr. and Mrs. Ted Salzseidler of Napa, Calif. According to Mrs. Love, Bill and Ted, who were air force buddies, "shot the war all over again."

Susan Lemmon is spending a week at the beach with her cousin, Marilyn Sams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Sams.

Dinner guests at the E. J. Wilber home Wednesday, July 10, were her grandson, Russell Berkner, and his fiancée Shirley Peninger, Russell, son of Mrs. Ollie Berkner of Cave Junction, is home on 30-day leave from the Navy. He recently returned from Okinawa.

Working on the mountain with the nickel exploration crew is Lionel Simard's nephew, Guy Simard, of Toronto, Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Corbett Crowthers, from Forest Grove, Ore., were week-end guests of the Bud Hoskins family. Growthers is Bud's uncle.

Andy Mellow, son of Mrs. Isabel Mellow, has been awarded a $97 scholarship in a sales campaign conducted by Time Magazine.

Young Mellow, who graduated from Illinois Valley high school in May, will use the scholarship at Santa Rosa Junior college at Santa Rosa, Calif., this fall.

George W. Martin was brought home from Galice Monday morning after he became ill while vacationing with his wife and their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Coan, Jimmy, and Connie Sue of North Highlands, Calif.

Spending the summer with her grandmother, Mrs. Molly Adams, at Bakersfield, Calif., is Marie Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Adams of Kerby. She left last Thursday.

Home last week from Klamath Falls was Mrs. Walter B. Kirtley, of Kerby, who has been attending her husband, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident over the Memorial Day holidays.

Kirtley will be hospitalized for another two or three weeks.

Recent guests at the Frank Loosley home were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kamps and children, from Vancouver, Wash.

Former residents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wells and family, visited friends and relatives in the valley last week. They are living at Burney, Idaho.

Visiting Miss Marian Blackmore for the summer is Leslie Bauska of Kallispell, Mont. She is a niece of the Kerby grade school teacher.

Mrs. Nippel was a recent visitor in the valley.

Three Killed in Idaho Crash Friday

Sandy, Ore. — Three infant daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stanley Gaage of Sandy, Ore., perished here late Friday when their home was destroyed by fire.

The three little girls, only children of the Gaages, were Sherry Rae, 3, Yvonne Mae, 2, and Karen Lee, one month.

Clackamas County Deputy Sheriff Paul Lowry said the three were trapped in an upstairs bedroom when the fire broke out. They had been left with Mrs. Gaage's 17-year-old sister, Mary Ann Weatherwix, while the parents were shopping in Gresham. Only the brick chimney of the home remained after the fire.

Firemen believed the fire started from wax that had been used in canning during the day.

Lowry said the Weatherwix girl ran back into the flaming house after summoning help but was unable to reach the trapped children.

More Entries to Fair Are Sought

Salem — More entries from southern and eastern Oregon for the livestock show of the Oregon State fair are being asked for by Mrs. Veva Poorman, livestock and horse division secretary.

Mrs. Poorman said halter classes have been added to the horse division and new breeds are always welcome to the fair. Only three exhibitors are needed to apply for a new classification.

Howard Maple, state fair manager, said premium lists for the 92nd state fair may be obtained at the office of any county agent. Anyone unable to get to a county agent's office may send for one to the state fair office in Salem.

Maples said "We hope to have entries in all divisions from every Oregon county so we are making our premium lists widely available."

The new booklet features attractive farm scenes from different parts of the state along with pictures of Governor Robert D. Holmes and new fair commissioners.

Argentine Officials Concerned Over Venezuela Arrest Reports

By WILLIAM F. HORSEY
United Press Correspondent
Buenos Aires — Argentine officials are seriously concerned over reports that more than 100 Argentine citizens have been arrested in Venezuela since the two countries broke diplomatic relations two weeks ago.

Confirmation of the reports could be expected to widen the breach caused originally by Argentine government charges that fallen dictator Juan E. Peron was directing a campaign of terrorism and subversion against Argentina from his political haven in Venezuela.

Argentina withdrew its ambassador from Caracas after Venezuela declared him unwelcome and shrugged off Argentina's request that Peron be expelled from the country for abusing his status as a political exile by his actions against the Argentine government.

Official sources here indicated that Brazil, which is taking care of Argentina interests in Venezuela, had been asked to check the reports of wholesale arrests of Argentine residents in Venezuela.

Brazil, meanwhile, had taken the initiative in trying to heal the Argentine - Venezuelan breach before the key Inter-American Economic conference opens here on Aug. 15.

In as much as Venezuela has become the world's second largest oil producer, one of the largest high grade iron ore producers and South America's No. 1 importer of United States goods, its absence here could easily prove a serious hindrance.

Two South American countries—Chile and Uruguay—have found Argentina's formal disclosures of Peron's plotting sufficiently substantiated to order the banishment of Peronist exiles to interior points in both countries.

Irrefutable Proof
Last week, Argentine Foreign Minister Alfonso de LaFerrere called the diplomatic representatives of the other 19 American republics here to show them "irrefutable proof" of Peron's plotting. The proof included excerpts from seized Peron letters to the leaders of his various counter-revolutionary commands in Chile, Bolivia, Uruguay and other countries.

In a letter, dated in Caracas on March 22 and addressed to "Comrade 2" in Santiago, Chile, Peron expressed his gratitude towards Venezuelan President Marcos Perez Jimenez and the Dominican Republic's strong man Generalissimo Bafael Leonidas Trujillo, for the support they had extended him.

"Both Gen. Trujillo and Gen. Perez Jimenez have been very obliging to me and I owe them many kindnesses. Besides, they are great persons and for that reason their enemies are the same enemies we have..." the letter said in part.

Efforts to obtain first hand reports from Caracas on Peron's activities there ran against a wall of strict official censorship.

On the other hand, Peron and a group of about 200 of his friends, held a public demonstration in Caracas last Sunday, to "apologize" to the government and people of Venezuela for the action of the present Argentine government in breaking relations with that country.

The group gathered before the monument to South American liberator Simon Bolivar and Peron placed a wreath at the foot of it, while the crowd shouted "long live Peron", "long live Argentina", "long live Venezuela".

Save time and energy by using the automatic dryer by dust nylon, orlon or dacron curtains. Take care not to overcrowd the dryer since curtains need plenty of room to fluff up. Two or three pairs will be fresh, wrinkle-free and ready for re-hanging in approximately five minutes. Such occasional fluffing to loosen surface dirt cuts down on necessary laundering.
