The new medium-priced car will be introduced early this fall. Armin Richter, Medford, will construct the building, designed by Architect Jack A. Edson.

Edsel Display Room Construction Starts

Construction of a new display and service building to house Ford Motor company's new Edsel car began today at West Sixth and Fir sts., according to Hugh Coleman, head of Edsel Sales, Inc., and proprietor of Crater Lake Motors.

The Edsel, Ford's new medium-priced car, will be introduced early this fall in this area. Four series and 18 models will be marketed initially through an organization of 1,200 to 1,500 dealers, the company announced.

Low Bid Submitted

In addition to showroom space, the building will house service and parts departments and a general office area. It will be constructed of pumice block, prefabricated glulam beams, Steel columns and large areas of glass.

An outside display beneath large white plastic canopies is planned along the Sixth st. side. The exterior is to be of brown-stained cedar.

Edsel production began July 15 at six Ford Motor company assembly plants.

Coleman has been in the automobile business since 1926 and has operated the local agency since 1950.

Week End Bicycle Riding Proposed

Washington — (AP) — President Eisenhower's youth fitness director today proposed that New York's Fifth ave. and main streets throughout the nation be restricted to bicycling on week ends.

Shane McCarthy, executive director of the President's Youth Fitness council, said that power steering, power brakes, television and electric golf carts have turned the mid-20th century in America into "a period of human erosion."

"Inactivity can cause rot," he declared.

But he said by taking to bicycle riding Americans can overcome their "phlegmatic, soft habits."

The rugged 49-year-old bicycle enthusiast, who talks with an Irish brogue, said to encourage bicycling Americans should:

—Close off main streets and parks to auto traffic and permit only walking, roller skating and cycling. Reserve one lane of some other streets for cyclists.

—Designate secondary roads, drained of most traffic by the new super highways as "human highways" for cycling and walking.

Man Slightly Hurt In Highway 99 Crash

One man was slightly injured in a headon collision of two cars on Highway 99 south of Ashland yesterday, according to state police.

State police said Allen R. Stoddard, 42, of Vancouver, B.C., was taken to Ashland General hospital, treated for a cut lip, and released.

Stoddardt was a passenger in a car driven by his wife, Jesse Stoddart, which was going north, police said, when it swung too wide on a sharp curve and collided with a car driven by Everett C. Jurl, 56, of Yreka.

The accident occurred about 4:30 p.m. State police cited Mrs. Stoddart for failure to operate on the right side of the highway.

SEINE DECISION

Robinson, Ill. — (AP) — Bobby Dean Brackett, Palestine, pleaded guilty to stealing a seine from the Wabash river. Judge Hanby Jones fined Brackett $500, ordered him to spend each week end in jail for one year, and advised him to "go and seine no more."
