

Quigg Sees Return of Miss Coca, Sid Caesar to Television Program

By DOC QUIGG

 New York — Unrest is gripping our midsummer manners all over, marked by numerous partings of parties long joined. In New York, Tammany Hall and its publicity man resigned from each other after the publicist took on the Dominican Republic as a client. A conflict of client and viewpoints was indicated.

Also in New York, an advertising firm known for short as BDD&O resigned from the Reader's Digest advertising account because of a "conflict of interest" between the magazine and another BDD&O client which is engaged in largescale manufacture of cigarettes.

In London, Prof. J. B. S. Haldane, a leading geneticist, resigned from England because it had "foreign troops all over the place; yes, I do mean the Americans." Haldane, whose long voice disgruntlement with British policies, left to settle in a "free country"—India where he doubtless will be granted as all get-out.

Comes Bright News
 In the face of these and other reports of cleavage of unions of long standing, comes the bright news of a prospective reunion after dreary years of separation—Imogene Coca and Sid Caesar probably will get together again on television.

For this TV onlooker, the prospective return of Miss Coca to the national living room with the proper framework for her remarkable talents is the happiest news since the invention of air conditioning. I must confess to a certain overflow of heroine worship in her direction for many years.

In the ancient days before television, I used to go to any nightclub at which she was appearing just for the privilege of sitting there and watching her roll those billiard-ball eyes. She had one skit in which she rolled the audience in the tiny aisles by whipping out a trombone and braying on it in lamppost of Spitalny's all-girl band, twirling her eyes in time to the music.

Has Outstanding Equipment
 To the business of being a funny person, Miss Coca brings some outstanding equipment. Her face is so arranged that her leer is the finest in the comic world today, bar none. Her voice can range from a splitting squeak that would startle a rat, down through the roller-coaster of coloratura into a husky bass hovel which can be described only by remarking that it has undertones.

She has a pretty fair knack at ballet, too, if she wants to travesty that dance form. And as a mimic and pantomimist—from femme fatale to wispy hobo—she is tops.

Caesar is a fine comedian. It is to be hoped that if he brings Miss Coca back on a show with him, he will turn her loose unreined on-stage and let her ramble.

Thousands Pay Last Respects to Armas

Guatemala City — Guatemalan authorities said Monday the Communist guard who assassinated Armas Friday opened his death would restore pro-Communist ex-President Joan J. Arevalo to power.

They published excerpts from a propaganda loaded diary kept by the killer which showed him to be an avid fan of Radio Moscow.

Grieving men, women and children by the thousands flocked to Guatemala's "White House" today to pay their last respects to the slain President, who skyrocketed from obscurity to power to death in three short years.

Police acting under the stern "state of siege" emergency regulations imposed following the President's assassination rounded up about 100 persons suspected of complicity in his death. The names of the prisoners were not immediately made public.

Tourist accommodations in Germany, with 408,123 beds available, have reached pre-war capacity.

Albany Couple Drowns as Boat Upsets Off Coast

Newport, Ore. — An Albany, Ore., couple drowned Monday when their 15-foot boat capsized in coastal waters about five miles south of here.

Dead are Clariol Leon Hayes, 29, and his wife Anne, 27. Both bodies were recovered, the Coast Guard said.

Passengers Rescued
 Austin Hayes, 61, Turner, Ore., father of the drowned man and Lester Melvin Yoder, 22, Lebanon, passengers in the boat, were rescued and were listed in "fair" condition in Pacific Community hospital here.

The Coast Guard said that apparently the boat had capsized in rough water about 6 a.m. since Mrs. Hayes' wrist watch had stopped at that hour.

Artificial Respiration Fails
 Herbert Rosen of Newport told the Coast Guard he and his son had taken two men from the water and later the Coast Guard was informed the woman had

Applegate Valley 4-H Fair Slated

Applegate-Jacksonville — Applegate valley 4-H club fair will be held at Ruch school Friday, Aug. 2.

There will be livestock and home economics exhibits, as well as displays of knitting, fishing, electrical, photography clubs and others. Livestock will be brought to the grounds by 9 a.m., and the program will start at 10, according to those in charge.

Nat. Etzel of the agricultural department of Eagle Point High school will judge livestock and showmanship contests.

The committee in charge of the program events will include Romelle Fossen, Shirley Dunlap, Brad Gettling and Phillip Dahl. Ladies of Ruch and Applegate are asked to bring a cake, salad and sandwich filling.

been found. A patrol boat found Clariol Hayes.

Attempts at artificial respiration proved unsuccessful.

The Coast Guard said seas were dangerously high Monday and that fog also was thick.

Three Killed by Fumes on Yacht

Honolulu — Three Honolulu residents were killed by carbon monoxide fumes Monday as they slept on the racing yacht Typee, owned by pineapple heir Richard Dole.

The victims were identified as Ray Watson, 35; Patricia Peterson, 21, San Francisco State student; and Wayne Curry, 12, whose father lives in Hawthorne, Calif.

The submarine Sterlet picked up the survivors, including Dole, his wife and son and five other socially prominent crew members. They were brought to Honolulu where all were reported in good condition.

The survivors told the Sterlet skipper, Lt. Cmdr. A. J. Whittle, that the silent killer struck while they slept in the cabin with the ports open.

The fumes were believed to have come from the auxiliary engine which was powering the yacht on its return to Honolulu from the Oahu to Kauai race.

Washington — Former Navy Secretary Robert B. Anderson Monday took office as the nation's 54th secretary of the treasury.

Tear Gas Used To Put Down Riot at Training School

Chehalis — Sheriff's deputies used tear gas Monday to put down a riot, started by "toughies," in a cottage of the State Training School for Boys here.

School officials said no one was injured and that none of the boys escaped.

Four Held in Jail
 However, four of 19 youths who barricaded themselves on the upper floor of the cottage were being held in the Lewis county jail. State officials were deciding whether to file criminal charges against them. All are minors and a court order would be needed to remand them to a juvenile court.

"The riot was started by about five or six toughies that the school wasn't built to hold," Van R. Hinkle, supervisor of the Division of Children and Youth Services said.

Plumbing Ripped Out
 The cottage held 29 boys, but only 19 were involved in the rioting. They caused water damage with a hose, ripped out plumbing and broke windows and equipment. State officials said they had not yet estimated the damage.

It was the first trouble at the Greenhill academy since Elmer G. Lindquist took over as acting superintendent two months ago. Lindquist said the riot started at 6:37 a.m. and was halted at 8:30 a.m. No reason for the uprising was offered, he said.

Leona Ennis Starts Video Rehearsals

Hollywood — Maryland's Miss USA — for-a-day, Leona Gage Ennis, today began rehearsals for her acting debut on a nationwide television show Friday.

The 18-year-old beauty Monday returned to the scene of her brief triumph. She was disqualified from the Miss Universe contest after it was revealed she was married and the mother of two sons.

The tall brunette will appear on NBC's "Matinee Theater." She said she also has been signed for a four weeks' singing engagement at one of the swank resort hotels at Las Vegas, Nev.

"I'm tired but happy at the way it all turned out," she said. "I don't know whether I'd do it all over again, but I can tell you that 'Little White Lies' won't be among the songs I'll sing in the future."

Miss Gage, or Mrs. Ennis, told Miss Universe officials a Cinderella story. She said she had come to California with only $45 and didn't plan to marry until she was 26 years old. Her "fibs" backfired when her husband confirmed her true identity after she had been named Miss USA.

Professional Talent Sought for Show

Professional entertainment will be an added attraction of the Kiwanis Town and Country Holiday Aug. 22-25, according to Dr. Tom Anderson, publicity chairman.

Talent arrangements for both professional and local amateurs will be handled by Ray Johnson, manager of radio station KMED, chairman of the entertainment committee, and Russ Jamison, producer of the show.

Dr. Anderson said stage shows would be held twice nightly during the four-day event and afternoon shows are planned for Saturday and Sunday.

INDUSTRIALIST DIES
 Metuchen, N.J. — Harold T. Edgar, industrialist and a director of the Minerals and Chemicals Corp. of America, died on Monday after a long illness. He was 79 years old.

CHEVROLET BEST IN TRANSCONTINENTAL ECONOMY TEST!

In a conclusive test, sanctioned and certified by the NATA,* Chevrolet proved that it costs least to operate of the three leading low-priced cars tested! Traveling from Los Angeles to New York, maintaining legal speeds at all times, Chevrolet recorded up to 17% greater fuel economy and lower total cost for the trip!

Over mountains, down flat stretches of highway, through congested town areas—running the gamut of driving conditions—Chevy proved its outstanding economy. That's the official finding of the NATA after one of the most thorough and conclusive economy runs ever undertaken. But this ability to save big hardly comes as a surprise. Economy is as traditional with Chevrolet as its craftsmanship and solid construction. You take for granted Chevy's low operating costs, just as you've come to expect its fine finishing touches and careful attention to details—advantages the other low-priced cars can't quite seem to match. Worth a trip to your Chevrolet dealer's? You bet it is!
