Suspended Man In Tournament

Hamburg, Germany—The Hamburg Tennis Guild has asked the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association to permit suspended Hugh Stewart of San Marino, Calif., to continue competing in the current German International Championships.

Stewart was suspended by the USLTA yesterday for remaining in Europe after the conclusion of the Wimbledon championships and playing in tournaments on the continent without permission.

The Guild said it had not received word of Stewart's suspension until after the conclusion of yesterday's program, during which the 29-year-old Californian teamed with Sven Davidson of Sweden to defeat the Yugoslav pair of Panajotovic and Plecivic, 6-4, 6-0, 6-3, in doubles. Stewart already has been eliminated from the singles competition.

European tennis associations have reciprocal agreements with the USLTA to honor each other's rulings, so Stewart's suspension prohibits him from competing in any amateur tournaments in the United States or abroad until the action is revoked.

Birdie Glum, Has Hopes Yet

Milwaukee, Wis.—The usher at the club house door said "Birdie wasn't talking." That couldn't be true.

But once inside the Cincinnati Redlegs' dressing room, the quiet was proof of the usher's warning. George (Birdie) Tebbetts, his team in fourth place five games out of the lead, wasn't talking—not much anyway.

"Don't count us out yet," he said. "We'll be in this thing (the pennant race) when the bell rings in September."

"And we'll beat Milwaukee doing it," he said.

It was pointed out the Redlegs won only two of 11 games with the Braves.

"We've got 11 more to play" he said.

Tebbetts said his choice of left-handed pinch-batter Smokey Burgess against southpaw Warren Spahn in the ninth inning of last night's 5-4 loss to Milwaukee "was logical."

The Redlegs scored two runs, and had runners on first and second with two men out.

"He's the best batter in the country in that situation" Tebbetts said.

Burgess struck out.

Crawford Enters Third

South Orange, N. J.—Young Christ Crawford of Piedmont, Calif., fresh from an upset victory over former champion Sammy Giammalva of Houston, Tex., meets Roy Emerson of Australia today in the third round of the Eastern grass courts tennis championships.

Crawford, although only 18 years old, played like a veteran Tuesday in downing fourth-seeded Giammalva, 6-3, 7-5. Giammalva, a member of the United States Davis Cup team, was the first American seeded player to be eliminated. He won this tournament two years ago.

In other major matches today involving top-seeded Americans, defending champion Ham Richardson of Westfield, N.J., plays Joaquin Reyes of Mexico, Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., opposes Barry McKay of Dayton, Ohio., Vic Seixas of Philadelphia meets Maxwell Brown Jr., of Louisville, Ky., and Dick Savitt of South Orange, N.J., plays Robert Wilson of England.

Ashley Cooper of Australia, top-seeded among the foreign entries, is expected to continue his march towards a possible showdown match with Richardson by defeating Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif.

Another interesting match pits Malcolm Anderson, second-seeded foreigner, against young Mike Green of Miami Beach, Fla., who is seeded eighth among the domestic players.

Teachers Taught System of Reading

Peterborough, N. H.—New England teachers are here to learn how to read.

Peterborough's consolidated school became a training center for instruction in the Gillingham system of reading.

Peterborough teachers use free time Saturday mornings to explain the Gillingham system to instructors from out of state as well as out of town. "Pupils" have come here from Keene and Nashua, N. H. and from Cambridge, Mass.

A summer resident informed Peterborough school officials of the Gillingham "whole word" system of reading instruction and they attended a lecture on the plan in Boston.

Ninety per cent of the pupils at Peterborough school learn faster by the Gillingham system, but the other 10 per cent become confused by alike-looking words such as "pig" and "dig."

Ike's Farm Ranks Second To Battlefield

Gettysburg, Pa.—President Eisenhower is the nation's No. 1 tourist, but his home near here takes a backseat in interest with tourists visiting the 16,000-acre Civil War battlefield in and around Gettysburg.

Although some tourists now ask, "Where is Ike's farm?" without expressing any interest in the battlefield, the latter point still is the first center of interest for most of the tourists who inquire at the information offices.

A "Hall of Presidents" museum was added to Gettysburg's attractions recently. In it are life-size figures of all chief executives. The figures are spotlighted in turn while at each pause a voice recounts highlights of the nation's history during the administration of the spotlighted president.

Portland—Dwaine Brandt pitched the second no-hit, no-run game of the state AABC tournament Tuesday night as his Beaverton Showboat team defeated Portland Celtics 7-0. Blue Lake defeated Sellwood-Moreland 5-0 in the other game.

De Vincenzo led the men with a 203, while Miss Pung headed the distaff side with 226.

Mayflower Designer Finds Work Really Only Starting

Quincy, Mass.—Naval architect William A. Baker found that his connection with the Mayflower II did not end with designing this replica of the Pilgrims' original Mayflower of 337 years ago.

He's been constantly on the go this year making personal appearances, filling speaking engagements, showing color slides of the vessel and so on as interest mounted with the tiny ship's voyage from England to Plymouth, Mass.

Baker, who lives in nearby Hingham and is a naval architect for the Bethlehem Steel Company's shipyard here, for years has followed a hobby of researching the origin and construction of early wooden ships. He received the St. Olav medal from Norway for his plans which made possible restoration of polar explorer Roald Amundsen's ship, Gjoa, a decade ago.

When some historically minded residents of the Boston area organized Plymouth (sic) Plantation, Inc., to reconstruct the original Pilgrim colony, it was decided a replica of the Mayflower was essential.

Baker arrived in Quincy in 1950 after working in the San Francisco yard of Bethlehem, and, because of his success with the Gjoa, he was asked to prepare plans for the Mayflower. There was little to be found in the records about the original

Man Lost Two Weeks Makes Way To Safety

Easton, Wash.—Army Lt. Robert Hayashida, 30, Minneapolis, missing nearly two weeks in the rugged Cascade mountains, walked out U.S. Highway 10 eight miles east of here Tuesday, safe but extremely tired and hungry.

Hayashida told residents that he became lost July 26 after leaving his car near a lake in the Cle Elum area, 10 miles southeast of here, preparatory to a fishing vacation.

The lieutenant, on furlough from the Yakima Firing Center, said he was laid up two days with a sprained ankle. He was limping slightly when he was picked up by a road construction foreman who brought him here.
