

Medford Union Elects Officers

Mrs. Guy Cox was elected president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union at the meeting held Thursday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Bert R. Elliott.

Also elected were Mrs. G. O. Sander, vice-president; Mrs. Mable Houck, corresponding secretary; Mrs. John Blass, recording secretary; and Mrs. Geneva Schwan, treasurer. The officers will be installed at the September 12 meeting of the group.

Mrs. Sander, program chairman, gave the morning devotion and prayer, and Dr. and Mrs. Elliott showed colored slides of their recent trip to Alaska.

It was voted by the group to tour Weeks and Orr Furniture store September 15 at 10 a.m. They decided to send a young man to the national convention at Madison, Wis. in September to enter the contest from Oregon and to send fifty cents per member to help with the national exhibits at the different conventions.

Those planning to tour the furniture store are asked to call Mrs. Cox at SPing 2-4198.

Summer vegetables — zucchini, spinach, green beans — are ever-so-much more tempting when served with an appetizing sauce. Here's a top-notch recipe: Combine 1 can condensed cream of celery soup, 1 cup shredded processed cheddar cheese, 1/4 cup sherry wine and 2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley. Cook over low heat until vegetables are tender.

Cashmere Sweaters With Fur Collars, Cuffs New Fashion

By GAY PAULEY

New York—This week in Manhattan: One New York furrier came out with something for the mother and baby who have everything. It's a matching set of cardigan sweaters in pink cashmere with pink mink collar and cuffs. Pink buttons and pink chiffon lining complete the mother-daughter set.

The manufacturer, Leitman Furs, said the idea originated with one order—a prominent woman now in a New York hospital with a new daughter wanted a set made.

"I am not at liberty to say who the mother was," said Vice President Kenneth Lietman. "But it wasn't Elizabeth Taylor."

Hypochondriacs take note. You can buy a jeweled pill box with built-in alarm clock which buzzes when it's time for the next pill. The box, made of palladium and sapphires, is one of the more unusual items to be exhibited at the American National Retail Jewellers' Convention next week.

About ten million dollars in jewelry, watches and silverware will be collected under one roof. Also included: Collar pins to replace the conventional buttons on a man's button-down shirt. The pins, in diamonds, rubies or sapphires, fasten to a shirt like a tie tack. Both the pill box and pins are the brainchild of Lucien Piccard, a prize-winning jewelry designer. Another concern will display silver holloware which it bills as non-tarnishable.

A few words to Mrs. R. M. Gillenwaters of Arcata, Calif., and to all other women raising a hue and cry about the short wear they get from nylon stockings.

The hosiery industry says if you have more runs, it's your fault. You insist on wearing dress-weight sheers for all occasions.

Recently this column reported that the National Hosiery Manufacturers association hoped to give its industry a "shot in the leg" this fall with a host of new colors coordinated to mid-lady's costume.

Sales have been off. Association President William F. Williamson admitted.

Mrs. Gillenwaters promptly expressed her opinion why. In a letter, she said nylons once gave women at least 10 days wear, so women wore them instead of going bare-legged. "Now," she said, "if we get up and back without a run we feel lucky. I would buy many more pairs if the price was lower."

Williamson answered that nylon stockings first came to market in 1940, they were made in 30 denier nylon—the only weight then available. Thirty denier was what the industry calls service weight or walking sheer... meant for heavy duty. But as the nylon was refined, manufacturers began using finer, or lighter weight yarn, and billing hosiery as 15 and even 10 denier, which is gossamer sheer. But they still make the 30 denier, for women who want it.

"Trouble is, they don't," said Williamson. "More than 80 per cent of all hosiery today is 15 denier and lighter. A woman can't expect this sheer a stocking to last through shopping, gardening, and even golfing."

"Hosiery is cheaper now than it was 10 years ago," he added. "It is one of the few consumer items which has gone down in price... no other segment of the clothing industry can make that statement."

Footwear
Young footnote... one survey show that the teen-aged girl owns more shoes than any other member of the family. One magazine study found she averages owning 14 pairs to her mother's eight. Her favorite style is the leather pump with low curved-in heel, which she buys in several colors.

For a glamorous picnic, take along ripe avocados, limes, or lemons, and a sharp knife. Cut avocados in halves or quarters, depending on size, and serve with citrus wedges, for a first course.
