

TABLE ROCK Family Get-Together Held

By R. E. NEALON

Table Rock — Some 60 persons, mostly relatives in some form or another of the Houston-Rodgers tribe, attended the annual get-together held last Sunday in beautiful TouVelle park, to honor the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Emma Houston.

After partaking of a home-cooked dinner spread on tables under shade trees, visiting and reminiscing was indulged in for most of the afternoon, during which time the 87-year-old honoree received many presents and congratulations.

Relatives coming from the greatest distance were Mrs. Houston's daughter, Mrs. Homer Edgcomb and family of Susanville, Calif. Just a short distance away, the Jackson county Democrats were holding their annual picnic and some of the overflow of the Houston-Rodgers picnic got mixed with the Democrats and were hard to tell apart as they all seemed politically to speak the same language.

Cutover Forest Lands Are Being Listed

Salem — Initial steps in listing cutover forest lands for deferred taxation under the Oregon forest fee and yield tax act is getting under way at the present time in order that the list may be presented to the board of forestry at its October meeting. Darryl Storm, forestry official in charge of the work, has reported.

Personnel from the Salem office is now checking county records and listing lands by location and ownership that may be eligible for classification, Storm said.

This is to be followed by field examinations and contact with the owners before the lands are finally listed, he added.

Final hearings will be held early next year, at which time the owners have the opportunity of presenting statements either for or against the classification. If the board of forestry recommends classification, the tax commission makes the final order. Lands come under the act on next July 1.

Machinists May Face Court Action

Seattle — The International Association of Machinists may face court action if its Seattle members go on strike next Thursday against six Seattle shipyards.

A spokesman for the shipyards said Friday they will sue the IAM for any damages resulting from the strike.

Members of Hope Lodge 79 set the strike deadline in a dispute over two cents an hour to provide two additional paid holidays. The lodge has 500 members employed in Seattle shipyards.

The machinists have been granted a 15-cent hourly wage increase plus five cents an hour for five holidays under a national agreement. The two additional paid holidays are a new request.

Machinist officials said they would suggest that nine other locals on the Pacific Coast also strike Thursday unless the employers authorize the two cents.

Auto Owners Asked To Renew Licenses

Salem — Check your car license plates lately?

Oregon's department of motor vehicles has reminded automobile owners with August tabs to renew licenses now rather than waiting until the last day of the month.

Renewing earlier, the department said, will save time in getting new registration certificates to owners and will ease end-of-the-month congestion in the registration division.

Among the business transacted, was the discussion of the grange referendum to refer the school reorganization bill passed by the last legislature to the people for their approval or disapproval at the next election. Nearly all present signed the petition, and it was recommended that all people interested in the future control of our schools should help get this on the ballot so it could be freely discussed and all the voters get a chance to express their desires at the polls.

We are frequently asked by farmers not in the grange, why the grange doesn't do something about the local power rates, which they claim are much higher than the rates charged by the same company in the Willamette valley. They claim it makes it hard to compete with producers up-state, who already have the advantage of closer and bigger markets.
